Singleton Girl Fine: Aunt

Crash Survivor Has New Home In Tenn.

Donna Sue Singleton, 27 months, has a new home less than 10 days after a tragic automobile accident took the lives of her mother and father, two sisters and a brother.

She is living with her aunt, Shirley Singleton, 29, and grandmother, Mrs. Hallie Singleton, 62, on a small farm in Speedwell, Tenn.

Donna Sue was released from W. S. Major Hospital in Shelbyville, Ind., Tuesday following her recovery from internal injuries sustained in the Jan. 3 automobile accident. At one time she was in critical condition.

The accident occurred on Interstate 74, near Shelbyville, when the Elk Grove Village family was returning from a holiday trip to see relatives in Claiborne County, Tenn. Also killed in the accident were three women in another car.

In a telephone conversation with her aunt and grandmother yesterday, they said the girl was doing fine.

"Donna was playing with her doll and buggy," said her aunt, legal guardian of the child.

The grandmother said Donna will have a couple of good playmates in her son, Wayne's two children, Kevin, 3, and Terry, six weeks, who live next door.

The farm has "a little tobacco, hay, and we have some cattle," Miss Singleton said.

Donna is all right, she said, except for a cut on her left leg. The stitches are out now, she said, but the bandage is still there.

Mrs. Singleton said Donna received many cards while at the hospital from people wishing her well. Miss Shirley Singleton and her brother, Wayne, picked the child up from the hospital this week.

Donna's parents lived in Elk Grove Village since 1966 and were always in regular attendance at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, according to friends.

Her brother, Michael, 7, and sisters, Sandra, 9, and Diana, 5, attended the Ira Ruple School in Elk Grove Village. Mr. Edsel Singleton, 32, was employed as a centerless grinder with R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co. in Centex Industrial Park in the village.

Surprised Chief Receives Pat On Back From His Force

A standing ovation Tuesday was given Harry P. Jenkins for his eight years as head of the Elk Grove Village Police Department.

More than 30 uniformed members of the department delivered the enthusiastic reception to their chief at the opening of the meeting of the board of trustees in the new village hall.

The vote of confidence given the chief included a presentation of a plaque honoring him as policeman-of-the-month by the Fraternal Order of Police Lodge No. 35.

Jenkins, nervous at the surprise reception he received, accepted the award and thanked the men in a noticeably subdued tone of voice.

Later he told a reporter it was completely unexpected and quipped, "You don't see that many police unless it's a policeman's funeral."

"IT WAS TERRIFIC," he added.

He said that earlier in the day the men presented him with a silver tray for his 25th wedding anniversary celebrated last month. The gift had arrived late, he explained.

Patrolman William Lancaster presented the plaque to Jenkins saying it was "in recognition for his contribution to law enforcement and in particular in his administrative ability and outstanding inspirational leadership in the past eight years."

Jenkins became police chief in March, 1963, replacing Edward Clifford. The department had 12 men at the time and 9 reserve officers. Today, Jenkins heads a 49-member department including 41 police officers, four cadets, and four secretaries. Reserve officers are no longer used.

Jenkins, 47, was raised in Constantine, Mich., and served for 16½ years with the Kalamazoo Police Department where he was a lieutenant and administrative assistant before coming to Elk Grove Village.

He and his wife, Bonnie, have four sons: James Jenkins, 24, a police officer in Kalamazoo; Jeffrey, 23, an insurance agent in Kalamazoo; Jerry, 21, sports editor for the Des Plaines Suburban Times; and Jay, 10, a fifth grader at Salt Creek School.

Expect Vote Date Decision Tonight

The date of a referendum seeking approval of a sports complex and park improvements is expected to be decided by the Elk Grove Park District board tonight.

Jack Claes, park district director, said he anticipated that the board would also decide on the final appearance of the sports complex and possibly the cost of the building and park improvements.

Last month the park board announced its decision to hold the referendum, following three months of study into the needs and feasibility of additional recreational facilities. At that time board members said the referendum would be in February or March.

The sports complex has been proposed to include an indoor ice rink, a studio rink, snack bar, lockers, pro shop, a men's and women's dressing room with showers, spectator seating in the rink area, a recreational area, and storage space.

Proposed park improvements included a lighted baseball diamond, eight to 10 tennis courts and at least two 3-wall handball courts, and five acres of land at the north end of the village for a new park.

Also to be considered by the board will be the site of the complex.

TOSOGANING is hard to find in Elk Grove Village. A father and son, however, managed to find a place.

Moratorium Asked On Zone Requests

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, has asked the Cook County Zoning Board to place a moratorium on rezoning requests near Elk Grove Village.

Pahl said he wants the moratorium to be in effect until the county planning commission and the village can meet to agree on future land use in the unincorporated areas surrounding the 21,541, population community.

The village and county have been at odds over a decision by the Cook County Board to rezone a 50-acre tract for 1,338 units, largely multiple-family dwellings, just outside Elk Grove Village.

The village has opposed the decision, saying the development is contrary to its overall plan for development of the community.

Pahl said he wants county authorities to sit down with village officials to agree on land usage and then present it to the property owners for their consideration.

A CASE IN POINT occurred Monday when the county zoning board had a hearing on a request for a service station at the northeast corner of Rte. 53 and Devon Avenue.

Testifying before the zoning board, Pahl said if the request was granted it would be spot zoning and not in keeping with the Elk Grove Village comprehensive plan. It would set a precedent for strip commercial zoning, he said.

Pahl asked for the moratorium and said he would hope to work with the county in the future on the development of the unincorporated areas which are largely undeveloped.

Under the present situation, any developer that comes to the county can make a request for a project and the village is then left to the whim of the developer, Pahl said.

THE SOUTHWEST sector outside of Elk Grove Village has been of special concern to village trustees in the light of county board decisions approving of multiple-family developments there.

The area is north of Devon Avenue and east of the I-90 Expressway under construction.

In 1968 the county rezoned 27 acres for about 400 dwellings near there and in December granted rezoning for the 1,338 units nearby. Another developer in the area has also asked the village to be annexed so he can build multiples.

According to the village, it has designated the area for single-family homes, in its comprehensive plan.

Board Eyes Environmental Plan

An organized effort for environmental protection may be developed by the Elk Grove Village Board of Health, according to discussion at a meeting Wednesday.

"I don't think we could study every kind of pollution but we could coordinate efforts," Brother Ferdinand Leyva, board president, said.

Brother Ferdinand was responding to Jack Pahl, village president, who had introduced the topic of organizing efforts.

He said that many people were concerned about the matter but that there was no coordination of efforts.

THE BOARD WILL be considering different ways of structuring the environmental protection efforts, which would include such divisions as aviation, planning and ecology.

In the past few months the health board has been dealing with one area of environmental protection which may constitute a health hazard — storm water drainage.

Health board members plan to cooperate with Centex Industrial Park companies to alleviate problems in that area, which they claim has the worst drainage in the village.

Wilbur Mitchell, director of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District, spoke at Wednesday's meeting and advised the board on where some of the worst flooding spots were and how to approach improvements.

"The main problem is a lack of housekeeping, which is causing an interruption of the natural drainage," he said.

THE PRESENT DITCHES are "clogged with junk" and are not pitched well enough to handle the amount of water that comes through there, he said.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1976, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.06 with particular weakness in steel. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensley — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.5 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearings.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Faculty Cagers Whip Cubs, 82-70

by DAVE PALERMO

There he was, your star third baseman and mine, Ron Santo, racing up and down the basketball court at the Prospect High School fieldhouse.

And there was Ferguson Jenkins, the Number One pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, comically giving a referee a hard time after being called for committing a violation so obvious a third grader might have buried his head in his hands in disgust.

And finally there was Paul Popovich, a utility infielder for the Cubs, firing those two-handed push shots that went out in the 1930s: most of them missing the rim, the backboard, the works.

It was Tuesday night at the Prospect High School fieldhouse and members of the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team were taking on the faculty at Prospect in a game of basketball.

IF YOU ASK ANY one of the over 3,500 fans who crowded into the gym what the final score was, they may not be able to come up with the answer: 82 to 70 in favor of the faculty.

The reason the final score might have slipped their minds is that it was one of those rare athletic events that didn't necessitate rooting for any one team. The fans came to see the players.

Among the Cubs players there were Billy Williams, Randy Hundley, Ron Kessinger, Glenn Beckert, Phil Regan and Ken Holtzman — players that to most of those in the stands would have otherwise been nothing more than dots on a television screen or lifeless images on a bubble gum card.

And for the students it was even more of a treat. Not only did they get to watch the Cub players, they got to razz their teachers who, for the most part, played like they've decided to spend the rest of their lives in front of a classroom.

Those who started for the faculty were Ron Ashley, Jim DuVal, John McGee, Mike Nisen and "Hammerin'" Hank Szymanski.

NICKNAMED "The Twinkletoe Boys" by public address announcer Red Rush, the faculty led throughout the game. It was 31-26 after the first quarter, 49-40 at halftime, 64-52 at the end of the third stanza and finally, 82 to 70 at the final buzzer.

Aside from Rush's comical and light-hearted announcing and the sometimes amusing play of men who have decided not to make baseball their livelihood, it was Jenkins who kept the fans laughing.

Jenkins, who toured with the Harlem Globetrotters, a traveling professional comic basketball team, began the evening by intentionally falling flat on his face when announced by Rush as a member of the starting lineup.

Later, during the game, Jenkins stopped play and took a youngster from his seat in the stands to let him take a few shots at the basket. The only catch was that each time the youth missed, Jenkins removed an article of clothing from him.

Finally, sans coat, tennis shoes, stocking cap and glasses, the youngster banked it in from two feet out.

AMONG THOSE IN the stands was Mary Ellen Karakis, a teen-ager from Cicero who doesn't settle for seeing most of the Cub home games and a few of those away, including Montreal. She got the basketball schedule from the wife of Phil Regan and was on hand when they beat Waukegan High School's faculty Sunday.

Perched behind the Cub's bench, she earned herself a "high-ya sweetie" from Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the Cubs manager and a surprise spectator at the game.

While most of the spectators flooded the gym floor to get autographs from the players after the game, Miss Karakis preferred to stand outside and intercept the players on the way out.

One of her girlfriends said she likes Paul Popovich you know — the one who shoots those two-handed push shots.

Park Dist. Offerings Told

Women's volleyball sessions are held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Mondays at Lively, at no cost.

Men's basketball is held at Grove Junior High School from 7 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. An activity card is required for these sessions and can be purchased at the park district offices, 499 Biesterfeld Rd., for $3.

Each person five years and older will receive a photo-identification card with passes.

Buses from the park district office to Fox Trails Ski Area are available on Monday nights through Feb. 5 for interested skiers. Cost of the ride is $2 round trip. Further information may be obtained from the park district, 437-8780.

Gas Tank Ruptures; Milk Truck Damaged

A ruptured gasoline tank yesterday morning resulted in a fire causing extensive damage to a milk truck near Lonsdale and Arlington Heights roads, Elk Grove Village firemen reported. The gas tank apparently became disengaged from the truck, dragging along the pavement before igniting, a fireman said.

Board Votes Funds For Traffic Signal

The Elk Grove Village Board voted Tuesday to spend $4,500 for the installation of a temporary traffic signal at Arlington Heights Road and Kennedy Boulevard-Biesterfeld Road.

The signal, an overhanging light, is expected to be put up in less than five weeks.

Permanent signals will be installed at the intersection when Arlington Heights Road is widened to four lanes by the Cook County Highway Department. The widening project is not expected to get under way for several years.

2 File For Posts On Village Board

Mrs. John Gara of 249 Placid Way, Elk Grove Village, yesterday took out two sets of nominating petitions for the Elk Grove Village Board of Trustees election in April.

A member of Neighbors at Work (NAW) organization which became active during last year's housing controversy, Mrs. Gara would not disclose who the petitions were for. She did say they were not for her.

Recent filings for the village board include those of Edward Kenna, of 534 Shadywood Ln., Ronald Chernick, of 225 Brighton Rd., and James O'Brien, of 187 Basswood Ct., all incumbent trustees.

For village clerk, Gerald Smiley, of 1156 Cheltenham Rd., has filed. He also filed for the Elk Grove Park Board of Commissioners.

Candidates who have filed for the park board include Lewis Smith, of 171 Shadywood Ln., Martin Durkin, of 1287 Berkenshire, Tony Kees, of 1016 Brantwood Ave., Frank Ciangi, of 598 Middlebury and Smiley, Durkin is an incumbent.

The deadline for filing is Feb. 15 for both elections on April 20.

There are three, three-year terms and two two-year terms open on the village board in addition to a two-year clerk's term. There are two six-year openings on the park board.

Treatment At New High

The number of patients treated at St. Alexius Hospital in Elk Grove Village reached a new high in 1970, hospital officials announced this week in an annual review of the year.

Admissions for the year totaled 12,186, an increase of more than 1,500 over 1969. There were 21,258 emergency room patients in 1970, and an additional 8,923 visits made to the hospital's out-patient department.

The hospital increased its roll of full and part-time employees to 928, an increase of 85 jobs in 1970, because of increased demands on health care facilities. Medical-surgical units operated at 90 per cent capacity during the year.

Other noteworthy events last year:

National attention fell on St. Alexius when a team of surgeons reimplanted the severed arm of a young industrial worker in March. Chicagoan John Brown today continues under medical supervision while living at home and receiving frequent physical therapy treatments.

REACCREDITATION FOR the maximum period of two years was granted the hospital by the joint commission on accreditation of hospitals following a 1970 survey.

The hospital opened a 21-bed psychiatric care unit which has been operating at near capacity since last January. Another psychiatric service, the crisis call line, was started in conjunction with the Northwest Mental Health Clinic. The 24-hour service is available for persons in serious emotional distress and is staffed by trained professionals.

The home care program, shortening the length of hospitalization, was recently established in cooperation with the Cook County Department of Public Health. Home care enables a patient to rejoin his family sooner and frees his hospital bed or acutely ill patients.

The pre-admission testing program came into existence to shorten hospitalization. Surgical patients may now undergo necessary laboratory work, x-rays and electro-cardiograms a few days prior to surgery on an out patient basis.

The new volunteer Protestant chaplaincy program regularly brought more than 20 area Protestant ministers into the hospital to help fill the spiritual needs of non-Catholic patients. The hospital has two Catholic chaplains in residence.

NEW EQUIPMENT PUT into use in 1970 includes the Rx Systems, Inc. terminal, which produces a complete, automated patient history and frees physicians for more productive work. St. Alexius was one of the first hospitals in the world to employ the new machine.

The radiology department acquired a special procedures room where complicated diagnostic procedures are performed with high powered equipment. Nuclear medicine began using a $68,000 Dynacamera which allows thorough diagnostic studies to be conducted with quick results.

The hospital recently announced its program plans for the future. They include providing levels of care other than acute.

The Coulter counter, a new piece of equipment in the laboratory, rapidly does complete blood counts (CBC's) which are required for each patient admitted to the hospital. The automated machine frees laboratory technologists for more specialized work while providing speedy findings for diagnosis.

Not So Bad After All?

by ED MURNANE

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, admitted Tuesday that he has changed his mind about the seniority system of electing committee chairmen in Congress.

Crane was one of the proponents of the seniority system on the hour-long program, "The Advocates," broadcast live from Washington over the educational television network.

He was joined in his support by conservative columnist James J. Kilpatrick and a Pittsburgh political science professor.

Taking the opposing viewpoint were Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., columnist Jack Anderson and Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn.

Crane said he has moved one-third of the way up the seniority ladder in the House Banking and Currency Committee after only 13 months in office.

The proponents of the seniority system — which automatically insures the election to the chairman ship of the majority party member who has served on the committee longest — claimed the movements to change the system are being waged by liberals in the House "who are out to replace certain committee chairmen."

Crane, who rarely is left without words, appeared to be set back with one comment made in response to one of his remarks.

The opponents of the seniority system claimed that swing districts in the nation — those in which the political winds are changing and do not always elect a congressman from the same party — are prevented from having representation in the highest levels of Congress, the committee chairmanships.

"But you're only talking about 22 per cent of the districts," Crane responded.

"Yes, and 22 per cent of the districts represents 40 million people," was the reply from the opponents and Crane seemed surprised by that figure.

ALTHOUGH CRANE has changed his mind on the seniority system, he still believes other procedures in Congress are weak and he let his views be known in a report of one of the subcommittees he has been assigned to.

His remarks are printed in the official report on the Smithsonian Institution published by the subcommittee on libraries and memorials of the committee on house administration.

Crane, in two pages of comments at the end of the report, said he could not associate himself with the report "other than in a very general way."

He said one of his reasons was the fact that the transcript of committee hearings had not been printed and there has been no way to refer to the hearings prior to writing the report.

"Because of conflicts with other committee hearings and meetings, it was possible for me to attend and participate in only some of the hearings," Crane said. "This, together with the fact that the hearing transcript has not been printed and available for reference and study, obviously makes it extremely difficult to assess adequately the information and comment contained in the report as to its completeness, objectivity and relevance."

SPEAKING OF the seniority system in Congress, U.S. Rep. Robert McClory, R-12th, also opposes any change. McClory, in a recent news release, predicted that the system probably will receive substantial support when rules for the 92nd Congress are approved.

"The dangers inherent in abandoning the system must be recognized," McClory said. "For instance, a reversion to the system which prevailed when Speaker Joe Cannon individually named the chairmen of all committees would result in the kind of Speaker dictatorship which was discarded 60 years ago."

"Even a system which would permit members to elect the committee chairmen and ranking members could result in favoritism to the supporters of the winning candidates and corresponding disadvantages to those who fail to back the winners. Indeed, there appears to be no foolproof system which can avoid politics."

Jayne Inquest Continued Again

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago. Palatine police made their request on advice from the states attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, states attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

'Chicano' Seeks Class Recruits

Teresa Delgadillo, daughter of a "Chicano" family, would like to see the Mexican-Americans living in the Northwest suburbs be as proud of their background as she is of hers.

"Chicano" is an identification word which has caught on in the West. I'd like to see it catch on here among the people with a Mexican heritage," she said.

HELPING Mexican-Americans accept and be proud of their heritage has been a lifelong project for Teresa. Next week she will begin teaching an evening course at Palatine High School to help Spanish speaking people study for the High School Equivalency Test.

A word-of-mouth campaign is under way in the Mexican-American communities in the Northwest suburbs to recruit students for the class. "The only way I can reach them is to go to the places where Mexican-Americans hang out and talk about the class," Teresa said.

in California proudly call themselves.

"Chicano" is what Mexican-Americans High School Dist. 211, which is sponsoring the class, is contacting employers of Mexican-Americans for help in promoting the class.

"MY PARENTS were fiercely proud of their Mexican background and taught my brother and sister and me to also be proud. We all work in helping Chicanos get ahead, but not by denying our background."

Teresa is married to Jack Bevington, whom she met in college in Los Angeles. "Because of me we have been prejudiced against. My children are also feeling prejudice in their Palatine school. I am appalled that people around here do not realize there is a problem."

She plans to teach the course in English but talk in Spanish on specific problems students have. "I never studied Spanish in school. We spoke it at home only."

The test, which the course prepares students to take, is in English. "I find the hardest parts for Spanish speaking Americans to pass are the reading and math sections."

ONCE A STUDENT passes all five sections of the equivalency test, he receives a certificate stating he has a general educational background similar to that of a high school graduate.

Teresa has been a teacher seven years. While living in Denver two years ago, she helped begin a program to help inmates of the Denver County Jail study for the high school equivalency test.

"When we started the program, one woman finished and got her certificate. Now almost half the class finishes with a high school equivalency certificate."

TERESA FEELS adult education programs will help her suburban Chicano friends. "You have to give them a feeling of self worth. I really hope this program will help."

Anyone interested in the course, call GED for Spanish Speaking People, can contact the Dist. 211 Administration Building, 1750 Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

THOMAS NOVOTNY, former Arlington Heights resident and once a candidate for Republican committee in Wheeling Township, has moved to a high-ranking position with the Civil Aeronautics Board.

He Likes Washington, D.C.

No Plans To Return Here

by ED MURNANE

Tom Novotny thinks it was only natural for him to move to Washington, D.C. and he has no plans for returning to the Northwest suburbs.

The former Arlington Heights resident who cut a wide swath in local politics is now deputy director of the bureau of accounting and statistics of the Civil Aeronautics Board and "loving every minute of it."

"The logical thing for me to do was to go to work for the federal government," Novotny said in a recent interview in his Washington office. "I've been involved in politics on the precinct, county and state level, as well as working for the Republican National Committee. If you're interested in politics, this is the place to be."

Novotny, who was an unsuccessful candidate for Wheeling Township Republican committeeman in 1966, has been in the nation's capital since early last year and served a brief stint with the Department of Commerce before moving to the CAB.

He describes his job with the CAB as compiling it and trying to determine ploye and governed by the Hatch Act, Novotny cannot become personally in-trends in the airline industry.

BECAUSE HE'S a civil service employee, "basically technical" and includes gathering of financial data from the airlines, involved in partisan political activities.

"But that doesn't mean Jean (his wife) can't and she's already become active in the Republican woman's organization in Montgomery County (Md.)," Novotny said.

Mrs. Novotny is a former village clerk in Arlington Heights and, like her husband, was active in the Republican Party in the Northwest suburbs.

Novotny said he doesn't miss the partisan politics yet since the pace is so hectic.

"I do think I'll probably get involved in local government in the future," he said.

"If anything, it will probably be in the school system."

Although the Novotnys don't plan to return to the Midwest — he's considering government service as a career — the family does miss some of the advantages of the Northwest suburbs.

"MONTGOMERY COUNTY could really. They can get zoning variations when Heights' zoning," he said. "The builders here have taken over and they generally have a great deal of political clout locally. They can get zoning variations whenever they want and they're removing a great number of trees that should be protected."

He said drugs are a much greater problem in the schools in the Washington area than they are in the Northwest suburbs.

"I think the affluence of Montgomery County is the problem with that," he said. "It's much more of a problem than it is a solution."

The most difficult adjustment to living in Washington after 41 years in Chicago was "learning the tricks of driving here."

"With all the circles and plazas, you can end up in the wrong state if you get into the wrong lane," he said.

NOVOTNY SAID he hated the first five months in Washington but gradually got used to it and now Mrs. Novotny "refuses to even think of moving back to such flat country. Really, the scenery here is beautiful."

He said he knew when he finally "became a resident and not a tourist: 'I came across a tourist who asked me how to get someplace and I told him. That's when I realized we weren't tourists ourselves.'"

Eye Football For Harper

Intercollegiate football at Harper College will be considered once again tonight by the college's seven man board of trustees.

The proposal, which would start the sport this coming fall, was first presented to the board on Dec. 17, but no action was taken at that time.

As explained by college officials, taxpayers will not have to pick up the $20,683 start-up cost or continuing cost of the program. Funds for the program will come out of student activity fees and gate receipts.

Tonight's meeting, to be held in the shadow of a scheduled speech by U.S. Senator Strom Thurmond at Harper, will begin at 8 p.m. Harper is located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine.

The board will also receive an administrative recommendation to create 38 new full-time staff positions. The recommendation states that 80 per cent of the positions be filled immediately, and the remaining 20 per cent after March 15.

One objective of the proposal is to cut the percentage of part-time instructors to 20 per cent of the faculty. The 38 sought is eight under the original request.

Also, the board will act on an election resolution to set up the legal machinery for the college's annual board election, this year on Saturday, April 10.

Under the proposed resolution, candidates must file petitions containing 50 voter signatures in order to appear on the ballot.

Petitions must be filed in the office of William Mann, vice president of business affairs, between 8:30 a.m. and 4 p.m. on weekdays between Feb. 24 and March 19.

None of the three board members whose terms expire this year — John Haas, James Hamill or Milton Hansen — have stated publicly whether they'll seek reelection.

Sen. Thurmond Sets Harper Talk Today

U.S. Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina will speak at Harper College in Palatine at 8 p.m. today.

The lecture will be held in the College Center and is open to the public. Harper is located at the intersection of Algonquin and Roselle roads.

Thurmond, noted for his history-making policies and achievements, his independence, adherence to constitutional principles, economy in government and support of military preparedness, was elected to the Senate in 1954 in a write-in campaign.

The senator, known as an architect of President Nixon's 1968 campaign strategy, has served on three Senate committees.

Admission to the speech is free to Harper students, faculty and staff. Public admission fees are $2 for adults and $1 for non-Harper students.

Uncle Sam's 'Anxiously' Awaiting

Over three million tax packages are in the mail for northern Illinois taxpayers, reminding us that it's time to make our annual income tax report to Uncle Sam, according to E.P. Trainor, District Director.

The tax package includes the basic one-page Form 1040, which is essentially the same as last year's form. Additional pages or schedules, Trainor said, are included to enable taxpayers to tailor their returns to their own particular circumstances. However, improvements have been made which taxpayers felt would be helpful. These include the printing of instructions separately, the use of the back of Form 1040 for tax computation, and the printing of some of the schedules back-to-back.

Most northern Illinois taxpayers will again receive tax packages printed in color. The red and blue format is intended to direct attention to areas of the return where errors are most commonly made. Tax packages and forms which are picked up from IRS offices and other locations will continue to be printed in black ink, Trainor added.

THE PACKAGE MAILED to taxpayers, includes a special "peel-off" label on the front cover, with the taxpayer's name, address, and social security number. The label is to be taken from the front cover of the tax package and attached to the return.

The tax package also includes an envelope, addressed to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Midwest Region, Kansas City, Mo. 64170. This is the mailing address for all Federal tax returns.

If you do not receive a tax package through the mail, obtain your tax forms from any IRS office.

The 1970 tax forms reflect several changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1969. Among the most important are:

Trainor pointed out that the new low-income allowance, which is built into the optional tax tables, eliminates separate computation. The optional tax tables have been extended from $5000 to $10,000. This eliminates the need for tax computations by people who do not itemize deductions.

All personal exemptions have been increased from $800 to $925 for 1970.

RETURNS ARE NO longer required from single persons with income under $1700, nor from married persons filing jointly with incomes under $2300. These figures are increased by $600 if the individual or his spouse is 65 or older, and by an additional $800 if both are 65 or older.

The tax surcharge, which was 10 per cent last year, was reduced to 5 per cent for the first half of 1970. This means the tax surcharge is figured at the average rate of 2.5 per cent for the total year's income.

Many more taxpayers can now choose to have the Internal Revenue Service figure their tax for them. If your income is $20,000 or less, and consists only of wages or salaries and tips, dividends, interest, pensions, and annuities, and you choose the standard deduction instead of itemizing your deductions, you may have the service figure your tax for you. If you are a senior citizen entitled to a retirement income credit, the IRS will also compute this credit.

Returns are still to be filed as soon as possible after Jan. 1 but not later than April 15.

AN EXTENSIVE INFORMATION program is being launched to explain the changes due to the Reform Act, and to encourage taxpayers to file complete and correct returns.

The 1971 editions of "Your Federal Income Tax" and "Business Man's Tax Guides" are sold at 75 cents per copy. The "Farmer's Tax Guide" and other publications on specific tax topics are available free of charge on request.

Telephone service will begin on Jan. 4 and will be maintained through April 15. As in past years, a staff of experts will be assigned to provide tax information and advice. For a quick and correct answer to your tax question call 641-1040. Telephone service will be provided Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For those taxpayers unable to resolve their tax problems by telephone, assistance may be obtained from local offices conveniently located through the city.

Downtown: Headquarters Building, 13th floor — room 1300, 17 N. Dearborn; North Area Office: 3611 N. Kedzie; South Area Office: 724 W. 64th St.; West Area Office: 5817 W. Madison St.

In the area outside of Chicago there are sixteen branch offices where taxpayers may call for advice and information.

tion. Make note of the address and telephone number of the office most conveniently located for your purposes.

Cut Your Own Taxes

Interest Earned Must Be Reported On Tax Form

by RAY DE CRANE
All interest earned by you — unless it is specifically exempt by law — must be reported on your income tax return and a tax paid upon it.

An example of exempt interest would be that paid on so-called municipal bonds. These are bonds issued by a turnpike authority, sewer or port commission, a school board, city, county or state.

With that exception, all other interest — whether it be on savings accounts in a bank, savings and loan, a credit union, or interest earned on a personal note, treasury bills or treasury notes — is fully taxable.

Interest earned on Series E bonds may be reported annually, or you can wait until the bond is redeemed or matured and then report, as interest, the difference between the redemption price and the purchase price.

MUCH MORE favorable tax treatment is given to the income on dividends.

The first $100 in dividends received from qualifying domestic corporations (this generally means all United States corporations, but does not apply to dividends from farm co-operatives, real estate investment trusts or from so-called exempt organizations, such as charitable or fraternal organization) is exempt from tax.

This means that each person may exclude the first $100 in dividends earned by him. On joint returns, where stock is jointly held, a married couple may exclude $200. But where stock ownership is in separate names, one spouse may not claim any part of the other's unused $100.

For example, if a husband has $150 in dividends in his own name and his wife has $30 in dividends in her own name, their total exclusion on a joint return is only $180. The other $50 is taxable.

MANY PEOPLE BECOME confused with the dividend accounting they receive on their mutual funds. The statement generally will show a gross amount, and then separate entries for ordinary dividends, capital gain dividends and for non-taxable distributions.

Here is what to do in this case: Report the gross distribution on Schedule B. Immediately subtract the total of non-taxable distributions and capital gain dividends. Now, from the balance, subtract your dividend exclusion (calculated as illustrated above). Whatever remains are your taxable dividends.

Now, if you had capital gain dividends from your mutual fund holdings you have one further step to take. If you will be using a Schedule D to report any capital gains or losses, enter your capital gain dividends on Line 7. In this way only 50 per cent of your capital gain dividends will be taxed.

If not using a Schedule D, report the 50 per cent as Miscellaneous Income on Page 2, Form 1040. Identify it as "1/2 capital gain distribution." (NEXT: New Rules on Capital Gains and Losses.)

The Doctor Says:

Protect Yourself Nursing The Sick

Dear Dr. Lamb — Please tell all people who take care of anyone sick to wear rubber gloves. I took care of a woman who had syphilis as you would a baby, barehanded, and I contracted it that way.

Dear Reader — You have a point. Everyone who takes care of someone who is sick should at least be sure the person has seen a doctor. If the patient has something contagious, the doctor usually will take steps to protect the people immediately concerned.

You can get syphilis from another person in a variety of ways. This is possible if the syphilis organism is in a little water or fluid long enough to be in contact with the lips. Thus drinking glasses and utensils can theoretically result in transmitting syphilis even though this is certainly the least common way of getting the disease. The organism, however, cannot survive more than a few hours outside the human body. Any intimate contact can cause the disease.

I don't think you should limit your concern to syphilis. A number of the contagious diseases require precautions in handling the patient. Rubber gloves are not the only answer. In general, if you just follow the rule to take care of only people who are under a doctor's supervision, you will do the right thing with little or no danger to yourself.

Dear Dr. Lamb — My husband is 36 and the doctor says his anxiety is very high and his blood pressure is unstable. He gave him two different kinds of pills and told him he would have to take them the rest of his life and not to drink. He doesn't take his pills and he drinks a lot. What danger is he headed for?

Dear Reader — There is very little a doctor can do for his patient who does not or will not follow his advice. Medicine that is not taken might as well not be prescribed. I don't know what the pills are that your husband is taking but it is a good bet that one is a tranquilizer. Some of these medicines do not mix well with alcohol. The combined action of phenobarbital or similar drugs with alcohol has caused more than one famous person to go into coma or die.

Sometimes drugs that are safe by themselves are very dangerous when taken together. If the doctor doesn't know about the patient's alcohol habit he can unwittingly give the patient something that is not good for him.

Alcohol is a drug and should be treated with respect. I suspect your husband has an alcohol problem. About one out of 18 adults do. The anxiety and the alcohol may go hand in hand. He probably needs professional help. The place to start is with your doctor.

Dear Dr. Lamb — What harm, if any, would result from a child sleeping with a dog in his bed? I don't mean a small lap dog but a large bird dog.

Dear Reader — Probably none. It is possible for a child to pick up dirt from the dog from where the dog has been. But that is true of anyone playing with any dog anywhere.

Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., in care of Paddock Publications P.O. Box 230, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

"How to panel any room"

Right in Craftwood's showroom you can view a film that shows how easy it is to panel any room!

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—THE IRS says it will figure the tax for more people this year. Who can take advantage of the offer?

A—Up to 30 million taxpayers may have IRS compute their tax. To qualify, income should be less than $20,000 and consist only of wages or salaries, tips, dividends, interest, pensions or annuities. The taxpayer must also take the standard deduction.

Previously, IRS could only compute the tax for those with less than $5,000 of income, primarily from salaries and wages. These limits disqualified many low and middle income taxpayers as well as retirees living on pensions or annuities.

If you want IRS to compute your tax, just follow the instructions for entries on the return and mail it, with attachments, to the IRS Service Center for your area.

Besides computing the tax, the IRS will also compute retirement income credit for those entitled to it. This computation has proven confusing to many taxpayers in the past.

Q—WHEN CAN I expect to get my W-2?

A—Employers are required to issue W-2 statements on 1970 wages paid and taxes withheld to their present employees by the end of January. Since this falls on a Sunday, the deadline for employers to issue these statements is February 1.

Anyone who left a job before the end of the year should have received a W-2 within 30 days after his last pay check.

Q—WHERE CAN I get information on the changes that will affect my 1970 return?

A—A summary of the major changes in the law are listed on the cover of the 1970 income tax packages most taxpayers will receive in the mail. Information on how to handle these changes is explained in the instructions.

Additional information on the tax law changes as well as other aspects of tax law may be found in Your Federal Income Tax. This publication may be obtained from most IRS offices for 75 cents.

Q—MY HUSBAND is over in Vietnam in the army. What should I do about our tax return?

A—You are not required to file a return until 180 days after he leaves Vietnam. If you want to file earlier because you are expecting a refund, indicate in the space where his signature should go that he is serving in a combat zone.

Q—DOES THE income tax surcharge apply to all money earned in 1970?

A—Yes. The income tax surcharge rate for 1970 is 2 1/2 percent.

Q—MY TEENAGE son earned enough money in 1970 to owe tax. Does that mean I will lose my exemption for him?

A—Not necessarily. As long as your son is a full-time student at least five months of the year or was under 19 at year end, the amount of his earnings will not affect his dependency status. However, the other dependency tests, support for instance, must be met.

Q—WHAT TAX rate should I use when I report my maid's wages for the fourth quarter?

A—The combined rate is 9.6 per cent, 4.8 per cent each for employer and employee, and should be used when filing your Form 942, Quarterly Report on Household Employees, for the months of October, November and December. The deadline for filing and paying the tax is February 1, 1971.

Note that the rate goes up effective January 1, 1971 from 4.8 per cent to 5.2 for both employers and employees.

Q—I HAVE income from a farm I own as well as from a part-time job. Do I come under the filing provisions for farmers?

A—You do if at least two-thirds of your gross income is from your farm operations. If that is the case and you do not file a declaration of estimated income tax by January 15, you should file your tax return and pay the entire tax due by March 1 to avoid a penalty.

Other taxpayers not qualifying as farmers have until February 1 to file their final returns and pay the tax due, in place of paying the last quarterly estimated tax installment or filing and paying an estimated tax declaration due January 15.

Taxpayers who do not have to file declarations, such as those whose withholding equals or exceeds their tax due, have until April 15 to file their returns.

Veterans' Vane

President Nixon has signed into law new education benefits for wives and children of prisoners of war, and for servicemen who have served 181 days of active duty rather than years as was previously required.

The new benefits became effective Dec. 24, 1970, according to Administrator of Veterans Affairs Donald E. Johnson.

The reduction in the active duty requirement to 181 days also applies to the eligibility of servicemen for GI loan guarantee benefits, Johnson said. This broadened eligibility makes it possible for men and women to use their GI Bill benefits sooner while still in military service, Johnson explained.

Under the new law, the wives and children of those members of the Armed Forces on active duty who have been listed for more than 90 days as missing in action, captured, "or forcibly detained or interned in the line of duty by a foreign government or power," are eligible for educational benefits.

For apprenticeship and on-the-job training courses under the GI Bill, servicemen are required to take 120 hours of training per month to receive full training allowance, and a lesser number of hours result in a proportionate reduction in the allowance.

Full-time training, Johnson explained, contemplates a work week of at least 30 hours unless collective bargaining has established a lesser standard for a work week.

South's two-club call was the artificial forcing opening used by nearly all experts today. North's two-heart response was JACOBY MODERN and showed from 4-6 high-card points. It also committed the partnership to game or higher. In JACOBY MODERN the two-club opening forces to game except when partner gives the artificial two-diamond response to show 0-4 high-card points. In that case it only forces to one trick below game.

South's four-spade contract would be reached in any system but this way North had no worries about giving an immediate spade raise.

West opened the three of clubs. East took his ace and returned the deuce. South's 10 lost to West's jack and West continued with the king.

At this point it would have been a cinch for South to lose his contract. If he ruffed in dummy he would make the rest of the tricks if trumps broke 2-2 but against the actual and rather normal 3-1 break he would have been shut out of dummy forever and would have had to lose two heart tricks.

South was about to fall into the trap when he saw that he had a fine safety play at his disposal. He discarded a heart from dummy on the third club.

This would not have helped him if either opponent held all the trumps but it took care of the actual 3-1 split. He simply won the heart shift with his ace, drew trumps with three leads, cashed his ace and king of diamonds, led his deuce of trumps to dummy's eight and discarded his two little hearts on the high diamonds.

NEWSPAPERS CAN SERVE as pressmen's hats, group of teachers attending a workshop on how to use newspapers in the classroom. She stressed, said Mrs. Hope Shackelford, as she spoke to a too, that they have other uses.

Workshop Shows Newspapers As Learning Tool

Public education today needs three elements for success: the best teachers available, good textbooks (as many as possible), and as many good newspapers as possible.

That's the prescription that Mrs. Hope Shackelford, a nationally known authority on the Newspaper in the Classroom program, gave 100 elementary and high school teachers at Harper College in Palatine Tuesday afternoon.

The occasion was a workshop sponsored by Paddock Publications to show teachers how a daily newspaper can be a "living textbook" to educate students.

Mrs. Shackelford, who has lectured at 160 workshops on newspaper usage, offered the teachers a variety of ideas for usage.

For example, she displayed a series of newspaper front pages from the day following the assassination of Martin Luther King Jr. To describe the shooting, each paper used a different verb in the headline: "shot," "assassinated," "killed" or "slain."

SHE EXPLAINED that the papers offered students a study in synonyms. When she asked the teachers how students would respond to a textbook study of synonyms, the teachers said students would be bored.

"We must teach them critical thinking," Mrs. Shackelford told the teachers. To make her point, she showed a series of study slides with pictures clipped from newspapers.

She explained, as she showed a newspaper photograph of a group of men, that she would ask her students to describe what the men were like. It taught them understanding, she said.

Around the lecture room were posters made only of newsprint. When students are developing a story poster and have questions on historical points, "Don't tell your kids anything they can find in the library," said Mrs. Shackelford.

Let students send for newspapers from all over the country, she said, then let them study the papers, especially coverage of controversial events.

SHE TOLD OF one of her students writing to the consulate of Andorra, a small principality between Spain and France. When the student learned that Andorra does not allow newspapers within its boundaries, the students in the school wrote to the consulate and urged the country to permit newspaper publication.

Mrs. Shackelford's wit crackled through her 2½ hour talk. She said that transportation and communications had shrunk the size of the world:

"We can fly around the world at twice the speed of sound and half the speed of common sense."

She referred to principals as "directors of teachers' wealth and hell-fare," and praised the teachers present as "the most degreed, the most titled, the most IQ-ed and the most beautiful" people she knew.

"You want more rapport with students . . . the sad, sad part is that the ones (the teachers) that should be here, aren't here."

MRS. SHACKELFORD, a junior high school English teacher in Wichita, Kan., was named 1971 Kansas Teacher of the Year last month in recognition of her innovative teaching and achievements.

She earned degrees from McPherson College, Wichita State University, University of Iowa and the University of Oklahoma. She has taught at high schools in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Des Plaines Tot Princess Of Heart Fund

Jeffery Dailidas, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Dailidas Jr., 682 Westmore, Des Plaines, has been chosen the 1971 Heart Fund Princess.

Comedian Jerry Lewis will crown Jennifer at the Chicago area Heart Fund kickoff luncheon Jan. 28 at the Palmer House in Chicago.

Jennifer was born with a transposition of the great vessels, a congenital heart defect in which the locations of the pulmonary artery and the aorta are reversed.

As a result, blood circulated through her body was extremely low in oxygen. She also had a stenosis or narrowing of a heart valve, obstructing the flow of blood.

WHEN JENNIFER WAS only a week old, doctors artificially created a passage between the two vessels, allowing the child to survive until she became old enough for corrective surgery.

Just a year ago Jennifer had her operation. During the open heart surgery, doctors at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago were able to correct both heart defects. Thanks to advances in medical treatment and surgery, she now is as active and healthy as her 14-year-old sister Julie and her 17-year-old brother Jeffrey.

The heart-lung machine made Jennifer's open heart surgery possible by performing the functions of the heart and lungs while her heart was stopped during surgery. Dr. Thomas G. Baffes, her surgeon, then was able to operate in a dry field — doing delicate work which would be impossible if the heart were pumping. Heart association research funds contributed by the public aided in the development of the heart-lung machine and other sophisticated equipment which has resulted in improved methods of cardiac surgery and treatment.

Look Who's Rooting For Basketball Cubs...

THOUSANDS OF YOUNG eyes were on the Chicago Cubs and Prospect High School faculty during their hotly contested game Tuesday night. Over 3,500 fans packed the Prospect fieldhouse to watch the game.

PROSPECT FACULTY player John McGee, left, scrambles for a loose ball with Chicago Cub Glenn Becker (18) also in hot pursuit. In the background are Don Kessinger (11) and Ferguson Jenkins. The faculty won the game Tuesday night in the Prospect High School fieldhouse by a score of 82-70. The faculty borrowed their uniforms from the Northwest Travelers, a local semi-professional team.

CRYSTAL BALLS JUST DON'T SEEM TO GRAB US

We read a good deal about advertising research and are frequently reminded of some mystical incantation—figures mysteriously projected, multiplied, divided, contorted to form a supposedly attractive story.

What ever happened to the good old how-many-copies-were-really-sold counts? That's the kind of stuff advertising rates are based on!

And it's just for that reason we have a no-nonsense, no-mystery ABC audit report of our circulation audience.

Be ABC-sure!

LEO DUROCHER, manager of the Chicago Cubs, was on hand during the game between the Prospect High School faculty and Cubs Tuesday night. Referred to as both "Leo the Lip" and "Leo the Lion," Durocher watched from the Cubs bench, sitting next to team physician Dr. Jacob Sucker.

Hope, Crosby Still Popular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Notes to watch television by: The Headliners: Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, according to the key television ratings, continue to earn the remarkably loyal support of their longtime fans... In the national rankings for the two weeks ending Dec. 20, a Hope program finished first and a Crosby Christmas special placed second among all shows... Another oldtimer, Robert Young, came in third with his ABC-TV series, "Marcus Welby, M.D."

Crosby, by the way, stars next Tuesday as a physician in a suspense drama, "Dr. Cook's Garden," on ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week."... "The Point," a "Movie of the Week" animated musical fantasy narrated by Dustin Hoffman, and created and sung by the brilliant pop composer Harry Nilsson, airs for 90 minutes on Feb. 2.

The stars of NBC-TV's "Bonanza," Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker and Michael Landon, are reported set with new two-year contracts, with each getting $16,000 a show next season, and $17,000 a segment the season after that... They currently get $15,000 an episode.

... Dean Martin's Jan. 28 NBC-TV hour features sons and daughters of famous performers — including Frank Sinatra Jr., Dino Martin and the children of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Lucie and Desi Jr.

George Plimpton, the author who likes to try personally the skills he writes about, football, baseball, golf, and who recently did an ABC-TV special with John Wayne about moviemaking — "Shoot Out at Rio Lobo" — has another unique hour coming up on the same network Feb. 2... In this one, he joins the circus, and the show is entitled "Plimpton! The Man on the Flying Trapeze". It is also reported that he will do a special in which he tries his hand at being a nightclub comedian in Las Vegas.

"Charlie Chan," the old Oriental detective of numerous popular movies, is being revived for an original two-hour "World Premiere" film on NBC-TV, and he will be played by Ross Martin, formerly of the CBS-TV series "The Wild Wild West"... The word is that the two-hour original may well develop into a weekly series if things work out.

The Programs: CBS-TV's detective show, "Mannix," surprised the industry by finishing No. 1 in the national ratings for the week ending Jan. 3... The same network's new Mary Tyler Moore series came in fifth... And NBC-TV's nighttime Orange Bowl football game between Nebraska and Louisiana State University ranked eighth.

NBC estimates that almost 64 million persons will watch Sunday's pro football Super Bowl game between Baltimore and Dallas... according to the network, the five highest-rated sports events of all time on television were:

(1) Last year's Super Bowl game... (2) Last year's Texas-Notre Dame gridiron contest in the Cotton Bowl... (3) The fourth game of the 1968 World Series between baseball's Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals... (4) Last year's Rose Bowl meeting between Michigan and the University of Southern California... And (5) the fourth game of the 1963 World Series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees.

Resident Attends Leadership Confab

An Arlington Heights resident who is a student at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb, participated in a recent NIU Leadership Development Conference (LDC).

Involving student leaders, campus organization members, faculty and staff, the conference was an attempt to view conflicting issues from other people's points of view. The LDC committee at NIU concluded that although communication difficulties exist among students, the students are not isolated from communication problems of the larger community.

Richard Fitzgerald of 1610 W. Roanoke Dr. was one of the people scheduled to attend the conference which was held at the George Williams College retreat in Lake Geneva, Wis. Participants left on a Friday afternoon and returned at midnight Saturday.

In addition to students, the committee sought participants from outside of as well as from within student campus groups. Among the "outside" participants was Don Crawford, DeKalb's 27-year-old city manager.

The conference was the first of three off-campus workshops scheduled for the school year.

The Lighter Side

Quality Of Lying Deteriorating

by DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Have you noticed that the quality of lying in America appears to be deteriorating along with the rest of the environment?" a disturbed friend of mine asked the other day.

His question was prompted by a news dispatch announcing the winners of the annual Burlington, Wis., Liars' Club contest.

"Maybe I'm just being nostalgic," he said, "but I felt the overall falsity of the award-winning lies was far below the towering mendacity that great liars used to reach in the old days."

My friend was right, of course. The lying you hear nowadays rarely rises above the level of mere humbug of the type that daily fills the pages of the Congressional record.

The Burlington Club, for example, awarded an honorable mention to this entry: "New York State has such wonderful fishing that I have seen a man dislocate his arm trying to describe the fish he caught."

AS MATERIAL for a television comic, okay. But as a lie, that is pretty pale stuff. You can find better prevarication in nearly any of last year's campaign speeches.

Its main weakness lies AHEM! in its wholesomeness. A good lie must have elements of malice, deceit, hypocrisy or quackery. Otherwise, it never gets out of the fibbery class.

How, then, does one account for the low estate to which lying has fallen? Is fabrication suffering from an outbreak of honesty?

Negative. If that condition prevailed, there would be a slump in the quantity as well as the quality of lies. And to my knowledge, lying is as widespread as ever, if not more so.

THE TRUTH ABOUT lying is that artful lying is hard work. It taxes the brain to the well. Consequently, the younger generation is inclined to "tell it like it is."

Children growing up in our permissive society simply are not motivated to become good liars. Catch them doing something wrong and they will either offer some lame alibi or confess. Which is an easy way out.

Along with such other skills as glass blowing and egg candling, lying is dying. The first rate liars of yesteryear are retiring or expiring and no new ones are coming along to replace them.

America's failure to produce adroit liars could have dire results. For a few more years we'll be unable to hold our own in international diplomacy.

The Way We See It

Pressure for Change

A possible answer to the need for more mixed income housing in the suburbs is being weighed by officials in Montgomery County, Maryland.

They are considering a requirement that all future residential developments include a fixed percentage of housing for low and moderate income families.

Members of the county council unanimously supported the concept in the November political campaign. In effect, it would require developers to think in terms of communities rather than subdivisions.

The Montgomery council is concerned about a shortage estimated at 10,000 units for families with low and moderate incomes. The Washington suburb is an area of relative affluence, where half the families have annual incomes of more than $20,000 and few homes sell for less than $30,000.

Many of the county's public employees — school teachers, secretaries, policemen, fire fighters — can't afford to live there. Neither can a lot of blue collar and clerical employees who work in the area.

Like tens of thousands of families of moderate means, they must commute long distances to modestly paying jobs or face intense job competition closer to home. The problem is repeated in the north-west community and suburban areas across the country.

In many communities, it is simply a matter of economics. The suburban town, hungry for tax revenues, lures industry. But it is not eager to have low and moderate income housing for the workers. Such housing generally does not pay for the schools and public facilities that must be provided.

That discrimination against the poor often amounts to discrimination against blacks, since they comprise a large part of our urban poor. But there are many whites who face the same dilemma.

In some parts of the county, organizations representing poor people are going to court to overturn suburban zoning regulations that keep out mixed income housing. Several recent court decisions offer them encouragement. In California, for example, a federal judge ruled that the Constitution requires municipalities to provide enough housing for their poor.

Pressure for change is being brought by others, including industrialists who have moved plants to the suburbs and have been confronted with labor shortages.

Many proposals for mixed income housing in the suburbs have met strong resistance from residents of nearby homes. The Montgomery County plan would eliminate legitimate points of criticism by incorporating mixed income housing into new developments. There is a sound corollary to this concept in the planned development which mixes multiple and single family uses, with single family homes acting as a "buffer" with the existing community. In similar fashion, housing on the fringe of a development could be made harmonious with housing in existing adjacent neighborhoods.

Zoning has value when used imaginatively. Certainly, it would be better for suburban communities to use zoning concepts to attack the housing problem rather than mixed income housing imposed by courts or higher levels of government.

Palatine Today

Red Carpet Treatment

by MARTHA KOPER

Banks are beautiful. They lend prestige to the community. Banks bring dollar signs to mind, and everyone likes that.

In Palatine, banks are so beautiful they receive the red carpet treatment. No obstacle is too great when a local banker wants to build a drive-in facility, even if customers must use a village-owned parking lot to reach it.

Any hindrance is so small that it doesn't matter, if entrances and exits to the new building will mean greater traffic jams at the intersection of Smith and Colfax.

When the new railroad depot is opened just south of Colfax that intersection is expected to generate the most traffic of any spot in town. Add the momentum of automobile banking and visions of bumper-to-bumper snarls come into the head.

In a close vote Monday night the village board of trustees agreed to allow Gerald Fitzgerald, president of the Palatine National Bank to construct a drive-in facility on the southwest corner of Colfax and Smith.

Weeks of discussion, mostly behind closed doors, preceded the final decision. That's one consolation. Approval was not automatic, but in the end the final result is the only thing that counts.

So in a few months customers of the Palatine National Bank won't have to worry about bottleneck traffic on Broadway Street anymore. They can travel just two blocks west to the drive-in facility and fight for a place in the traffic line of all the commuters.

The traffic flow at the corner of Smith and Colfax obviously will be slow. Although there are plans to widen both streets, that can't solve all the problems.

Three years ago it cost the village a lot of money to pay for a study of traffic problems in Palatine. The results are there for anyone to see. It's projected that between 100,000 and 120,000 vehicles will enter or leave the central business district per day by 1985.

Conservatively guessing, if only half of the vehicles are going to or from the railroad depot, local residents will be in a lot of trouble.

The obvious question is, why add to the anticipated traffic problem with a drive-in bank?

Mayor John Moodie, Trustees Wendell Jones, Tom Kearns, and John Hughes couldn't have asked themselves that question. They voted in favor of the facility.

Both Trustees Terry Leighty and Clay Brown must have seen some of the problems attached to the proposal. They voted against it while Trustee Fred Zajonc didn't vote at all.

Aside from the traffic problems, there's a principle involved which was totally overlooked by board members voting to allow the drive-in facility.

There is no other private, profit-making business in town which has the advantage of municipal-owned property enhancing its enterprise. Chances are that situation can't be found in many other towns in the country.

But Palatine National customers will drive into a common entrance owned by both the village and Lew Draper, developer of the shopping center adjacent to the depot. The customer will then have to turn into a parking lot lane owned solely by the village to reach the drive-in and exit by a similar lane.

Taxpayers' money should not be used to help someone in his own ventures. It hasn't been done and shouldn't be, if for no other reason than the ring of politics such a practice carries with it.

Most likely, local residents didn't realize what was going on at the village hall Monday night. If they had, they should have done something to stop it.

Des Plaines Beat

Defining Your Districts

by BARRY SIGALE

If it's been confusing to you, it's certainly been frustrating for us.

What I'm talking about is the Herald/Day coverage of every important event in the city that affects our readers. And because of the several school districts, park districts, townships, etc., serving Des Plaines, you, the reader, are probably a bit confused. So here, in capsule form, is a rundown of what organizations serve which people in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines is served by eight school districts, some of which serve other towns.

If your child goes to the following schools he attends the following school districts.

—Brentwood, Devonshire, Einstein and High Ridge Knolls elementary schools, all in Des Plaines, and Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect, are in school district 62.

—Central, Cumberland, Forest, Maple, North, Orchard Place, Plainfield, South, Terrace and West elementary schools and Algonquin, Chippewa and Iroquois Junior High Schools, all in Des Plaines, are in school district 62.

Barry Sigale

—Nathanson, Stevenson and Mark Twain elementary schools, and Apollo Junior High School, all in Des Plaines, are in school district 63.

—Park View elementary school and River Trails Junior High School, both in Mount Prospect are in district 26.

—Maine West and North High Schools in Des Plaines and Maine East in Park Ridge, all are in district 207.

—Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village, and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, are in high school district 214.

They Shall Not Pass

Spotlight:

Issues Emerge For April

by CRAIG GAARE

There is another phenomenon, like leap year, which occurs every four years. It might not be as fantastic, but it is fascinating in its own right. Every four years, voters in Buffalo Grove elect a new village president and three trustees.

This April 30, however, because of resignations, four trustees and a village clerk, in addition to a village president will be elected.

Right now, several persons are considering entering the race and are quietly sizing up their chances of getting elected. Rumors, which flourish during elections, have it that before the Feb. 15 filing deadline is over, three slates and at least five independent candidates will enter the race.

Two of those slates are obvious. One slate will come from the Buffalo Grove Alliance, a group of citizens who have charged that current village officials are unresponsive to village residents.

It is likely that the incumbent candidates will band together and jointly seek re-election, most probably running on the merits of their past four years in office.

This should prove to be an interesting campaign, with one group of people telling the electorate that they have done a wonderful job during the last four years, and another group pointing out examples where they feel the incumbents haven't done such a wonderful job.

A third slate of candidates could be formed by the residents in the older part of the village directly north of Dundee Road, east of Arlington Heights Road and west of Buffalo Grove Road.

In any event, each group or individual must deal with the same issues. The only difference will be that they will view the issues from different points of view.

There are five issues which must be considered by any serious and responsible candidate in the next election. First is the future development of Buffalo Grove and how it should be controlled. Should the village keep expanding without being able to provide basic services such as sewer and water to the new areas? Also, what is the desirability of apartment construction in the village? Should more apartments be approved, and if they are, where should they be located?

Secondly, a stand must be taken on the formation of a municipal fire department or a proposal for the entire village to be protected by one fire district. The impetus is underway for a change and by the time of the election, the question should be a full-blown issue.

A third issue is the lack of any industry or professional service areas in the village. The village has a designated industrial area, but not one industry has located in Buffalo Grove. The present service area consists of two shopping centers and one old cheese factory that has been converted into an office building.

The fourth issue is an old one — flooding. This would be the most difficult for any incumbent to deal with if he decides to run. The question is how can present problems be alleviated and future ones prevented.

The last issue appears to be non-existent, but in any area such as Buffalo Grove, it could surface at any time. The moderate income housing project that has been proposed for Arlington Heights could just as well be dropped in the laps of village politicians. There are several unincorporated areas, especially to the north of the village, which could become sites for moderate income housing developments seeking annexation to the village.

The difference between victory and defeat in the April election depends on how intelligently and meaningfully candidates can speak on these issues.

Between the Lines

Another Try At Voters

by PAT GERLACH

Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District officials are good losers!

Shaken, but with renewed determination, officials of the Hoffman Estates district resolved last week to return a $500,000 bond issue to the voters next month.

The proposal, defeated by a majority of the 500 residents who cast ballots in the Dec. 12 special election, would fund construction and equipping of a third fire station necessary to satisfy the increasing demands of the district.

Presumably, the issue met defeat because of the inability or unwillingness of the fire district to present facts and figures outlining the tax increases which would surely have resulted from authorization of the issue.

Within four weeks, officials of the district have done a rapid about face and will attempt to present their complete picture with assistance from a citizens committee established to help boost the measure through to victory.

Representatives and employees of the fire district were flooded when both The Herald and Hoffman Estates Jaycees publicly urged the proposal be turned down and suggested a rapid return with complete information being presented. (The need for such a facility as proposed was never questioned.)

A third station, one that will serve as headquarters for the district, is mandatory in view of the high rise "high risk" construction now in progress in the western sector of the village.

Fire trustees know that they bombed out badly last month, but past history indicates clearly that the district has never been challenged or even really asked to explain itself on bond issues or tax rate increases.

Initially, district officials were antagonistic about the defeat and placed much of the blame on The Herald. Rather quickly, however, they appear to have realized their previous modus operandi is obsolete and that today's taxpayer wants plain facts and plenty of them.

I predict that in the future this is just what they will get from the fire district now that the air has been cleared.

In a sincere attempt to keep costs down, the district did not choose to hire an architect or consult with bonding experts on projected tax increases before approval of the sale.

The trustees, their legal counsel and even most of the very interested and dedicated volunteer firemen are now displaying the grace and consideration this reporter expected of them all along.

They are showing clear concern that since the voters have expressed a desire for knowledge that it be provided them.

Failure to receive authorization to sell the bonds this time will result, most probably, in a rating change for the district.

This change will produce a substantial insurance increase which will be quickly felt by every homeowner living within the fire protection district.

Unless the voter takes a hard look at the complete proposal, he will be literally playing with fire — and it could be in his own home.

Gratitude Expressed For Thoughtfulness

Chief and Mrs. Lloyd Abrahamsen extend warm gratitude to all who sympathized with us on the recent death of our son Lieutenant Commander David L. Abrahamsen.

Our special thanks to all the people who gave us a helping hand in time of need.

Because the memorial service was held in Corcoran, Calif., it was heartening to see many beautiful flowers from the people back home.

A memorial fund has been established at the Martin Luther Church, in Chicago, for David in lieu of flowers, for which we thank all contributors.

Again, my wife Dorcas and I convey our appreciation to everyone for their thoughtfulness, help, and prayers at this time.

Buddy Ebsen Disgusted Over 'Rosebloom' Play

by VERNON SCOTT
UPI Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD UPI — Buddy Ebsen attended a local stage presentation of "Rosebloom" and was so thoroughly repelled by a putrid scene he got up and walked out of the theater.

"It was the sickest, most disgusting thing I've ever seen on the stage," Ebsen said, furiously.

Instead of simply carping about the play's vulgarity and lack of taste, Buddy has chosen to do something about it.

"I told myself surely we can do better things than that in the theater," he said in the gloomy rehearsal stage on Wilshire Boulevard.

"SO I'M HITTING the road for 12 weeks in a play that I think will bring some humor, love, a little sex and the good things in life instead of the sick ones."

The play is "The Apple of His Eyes," in which the late Walter Huston starred some 25 years ago.

Ebsen appeared in the play for a week last August in Wichita, Kan., and was a roaring success.

He opens this week in St. Louis and will travel on to Cincinnati, St. Paul, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, New Haven, Wilmington, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

"This play will give audiences a choice to see the joyful, entertaining things instead of the junk that only 10 years ago people only told their psychiatrists."

Buddy's mission is more of a challenge than anything else.

HE IS AN extraordinarily wealthy man with a television show, "The Beverly Hillbillies," and business investments that would preclude working in stock.

In "The Apple of His Eyes," he portrays a man of middle years who falls in love with a girl in her 20s. It is essentially a comedy with overtones of drama and rural homilies.

Buddy interrupted himself to go on stage for rehearsal. His performance was as different from Jed Clampett of the "Hillbillies" as farce from tragedy.

Ebsen completed the season's episodes of his CBS-TV series and could indulge himself in sailing or fishing from his Newport Beach, Calif., home. But he has his reasons for working.

"I originally came from the theater," he said. "I feel very much alive on stage."

Social Security And You

Q — HAVE THERE been any changes in the social security law effective with January affecting persons drawing social security?

A — Congress has been working on changes to the social security law and the progress has been reported in the newspapers. However, no changes have been passed by Congress and sent to the President for his signature. The Senate and House have taken some actions but they will need to meet and iron out the differences between their proposed changes before amendments can be passed and sent to the President. As soon as this is done, newspapers will carry releases giving information on the changes.

Q — IS IT correct that a larger deduction from our pay checks is being made because of an increase in the social security tax beginning in January, 1971?

A — Effective with January, 1971, the social security tax goes up from 4.8 per cent to 5.2 per cent on your wages up to $7,800 during the calendar year of 1971. Also, your employer will pay as his share of the cost of the social security program the same additional increase in the social security tax. This increase in the tax is already part of the social security law and was scheduled to go into effect this month.

Q — IS A SOCIAL security payment at retirement worth what is being taken from my pay as a social security tax?

A — If all you were getting from social security was a retirement payment, the answer would have to be no. However, this is not the only protection that you receive. You and your family would receive monthly social security payments, regardless of your age, if you should become disabled. If you should die there are monthly payments payable to your widow and children. At retirement, you and your wife get not only a monthly retirement payment but hospital coverage under medicare.

She Stalks Household Pests

by MARY B. GOOD

If you have bats in your belfry, Mrs. Paul Gillig of Des Plaines might be a good person to know.

In her Volkswagen beetle drives the first traveling pest control lady for the household division of Aerosol Pest Controllers.

The lady is on intimate terms with carpet beetles, centipedes, silverfish, clothing moths and roly-polies — that's sow-bugs to you!

Barbara Gillig is a member of the zap-em set, what people used to call "an exterminator."

The blonde bug-getter hasn't been at the job long — just three months. In fact she saw her first cockroach only last week. But since October Mrs. Gillig has become something of a pro with ants and spiders.

HER EMPLOYER, registered sanitarian Robert E. Berns, said, "I hope someday to have 10 Barbaras."

When Mrs. Gillig was put on that cockroach job (they had overwhelmed a desk drawer at a plumbing concern), the customer was so impressed with Barbara Gillig, he offered her a job as a plumber. When Barbara told Mr. Berns about the proposition, Berns replied, "What kind of a job is that for a woman?"

Formerly an aid in a school district learning center, Mrs. Gillig longed for something offbeat. Now she has unusual tales to bring home at night. Take the case of the rat on one job that grabbed matted milk balls off the kitchen table and hoarded them under the dishwasher.

Barbara and Berns agreed that men, more than women, shudder at the sight of a rodent. "Remember the one fellow who called the police department about the mouse?" she commented to Berns.

BARBARA HAS IT pretty easy on the job. She gets a week's assignments. If she finishes early, she goes home. She checks into the office only to pick up her pay, or if her tanks need a refill. Otherwise, Barbara is on her own, and she likes it that way. She doesn't have to know a lot about chemicals because the tanks she uses are filled for her. (But she does need a strong arm — each tank weighs 7½ pounds, half full.)

"Mothers worry if they have toddlers crawling on the floors, but the material we use is directed with a pinpoint stream in cracks and crannies around the perimeter of a room, so it isn't messy or dangerous to them — or us," Mrs. Gillig said.

"Ants are hardest to get rid of," the pest controller added. "Ants don't discriminate between a half million dollar mansion and a shack. If it's comfortable — warm and moist — they set up house-keeping." Ants are among Aerosol's policy pests. That means for $25, Barbara comes in and "bug-proofs" a home against 13 different kinds of creepy crawlers. Then she comes back in six months as an insurance measure.

"Rats usually go outside to die. We don't conduct funeral rites for them. We just kill them."

IN HER STYLISH jumpsuit, the lady pest controller zaps the one that didn't get away. "Each house has a personality of its own," she said. "I'm a junker, and servicing homes gives me a good opportunity to learn interior decorating. Although," she adds, "maids often pump me for neighborhood scoops."

For A Happy Life.

It's Fun In January To:

1. Try harder to understand a temperamental person whom you know.
2. Consider framing the loveliest Christmas card you received.
3. Bring books from the library to someone who finds it hard to get out these wintry days.
4. Gather all records and figure out your expenses for the year just passed.
5. Look for ways to increase serenity in your home.
6. Think about the Christmas gifts you can make for next year — if only you'll start in time.
7. Look over the lounging apparel that is on the reduced racks.
8. Consider this by William Penn: "It is he who is in the wrong who first gets angry."

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: What is the best way to clean typewriter keys — both the keys on the outside and the keys inside? — Sue S.

You can wash the outside with any detergent solution or even a soap solution. For the inside, you can use cleaning fluids like mineral spirits, trichloroethane or even lighter fluid — on a cloth. However, use caution as all, with the exception of trichloroethane, are flammable. If you want to do it properly, however, there are very good liquid cleaners at most good stationery stores that not only clean the keys but the platen, too. And, don't forget to use that stiff typewriter brush every once in a while to get rid of bits of fluff.

and black often present problems. One reader reported success by rubbing lard (or shortening) on such spots, then washing in hot, soapy water. Another used a strong liquid detergent, rubbing it in well, then laundering. Some of the other products used which worked are rubbing alcohol, spray wall cleaner, trichloroethane (allowed to dry), then laundered. For fresh crayon stains, one reader dampened the cloth, then rubbed in that old faithful — dry baking soda. Hope one of these works for you.

Dear Dorothy: When you see the term "strip steak" in a newspaper ad or in a restaurant, is it the same type of steak in every instance? — Caroline G.

It should be the same — as it is listed by authorities as the large muscle in both the porterhouse and T-bone. It is flavorful and tender and may be broiled or pan-broiled. Sometimes it's called a New York strip steak or a Kansas City steak.

Dear Dorothy: For years we were plagued with a bad odor in a living room closet. We tried everything with no success until we put a container of charcoal there. Whether this odor came from the wall or not we don't know but this remedy might be of help to the reader who does have the odor coming from the wall. Maybe it would be less noticeable to put a floral arrangement over the charcoal. — Jeanne K.

Dear Dorothy: I've heard you mention the Aloe Vera plant often for those little burns the average housewife encounters in the kitchen but have never gotten around to getting one of them. However, thought you might be interested in knowing that the one sun lotion that has been effective for my tender skin is one that contains the Aloe Vera gel as the base. — Martine McN.

The only thing that surprises me is that it took industry so long to make use of this plant's unusual qualities. Have since found that many friends use other preparations using the gel.

Dear Dorothy: If you make French toast the night before — dip the bread in the batter — and put it in the refrigerator overnight; it will taste much better the next morning when fried in butter. — Mrs. Geo. F.

Dear Dorothy: I got ball point ink on an orlon sweater. Quickly dabbed rubbing alcohol on it, blotting from both sides — and there was practically no trace of the stain. — Margaret M.

Dear Dorothy: A crayon was accidentally involved in washing and drying a tubful of dark clothes. I vaguely remember something about rubbing such stains with lard but would appreciate specific help in removing these stains. — Mrs. William Cassidy.

Pastel colored crayon stains usually come out fairly easily but colors like red

Dear Dorothy: I made some apricot-pineapple jam and apparently used too much of one of the ingredients as called for in the recipe as the result is a very soft, runny jam. I used pectin. Can I re-boil it, adding more pectin? If reboiling might spoil it, I can use it as a sauce over ice cream or pancakes. — Mrs. Eleanor Santos.

Let well enough alone. Reboiling is not always successful. After all, it's not a complete loss as long as you can use it as a sauce.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

In February the club is planning an interior decorating demonstration to be held at the Schaumburg High School.

'Spangled Girl' Guild Hit

by GENIE CAMPBELL

A trio of actors on stage at Guild Playhouse opening night last Friday polished up a performance of "Star Spangled Girl." The Des Plaines Theatre Guild production lived up to every expectation of a Neil Simon comedy. It was mod, relevant and best of all, extremely witty. Director is Allen Hall. Two young idealists pool their resources to edit and publish an anti-American protest magazine, Fallout. One is a business-minded promoter, Andy, played by Paul Hawkins. His partner is an eccentric writer, Norman, played by Doug Patterson, whose idiotic manners and emphasized actions make him a natural character actor for the role.

AT TIMES, Doug even managed to be a trifle too loud, a bit too rambunctious for even the misfit, misguided Norman he portrayed. Norman is held in line by Andy who is quite clever in averting paying bills that manage to keep piling up. Paul Hawkins was excellent in the telephoning sequence near the beginning of the first act when a Mr. Franklin, never seen, received a very different creative greeting each time he called to demand his back printing payments. However, the real action does not begin until Sophie Rauschmeyer moves into the apartment directly upstairs. She is a past Olympic swimmer, 100 per cent pro American and most of all, very beautiful. For Norman, whose social life has been next to nothing, Sophie is the beginning of living. He instantly and madly falls in love but unfortunately the same ardent feelings are not returned. Norman makes a pest of himself. When he accidentally drops Sophie's cat into the toilet, she is ready to call the police. BECAUSE NORMAN can think of nothing but Sophie day and night, the magazine begins to suffer. Andy becomes involved by trying to save Fallout from a quick burial. Marcy Vosburgh played Sophie Rauschmeyer. Her somewhat Southern accent and animated speeches made Sophie stand out clearly as the all-American clean cut young woman that the part was meant to portray. Incidentally, Marcy never appeared in any outfit but one of red, white and blue. Those who saw her most recently in "Li'l Abner" as the sexy Appassionata Von Climax, will be pleased to see her in a starring role. The final act is a little far-fetched and hard to believe. It is difficult to determine why two dedicated young men interested in pointing out the shortcomings of the nation would allow a flag-waving swimming instructor to stand in the way of a dedicated cause.

YET SHE DOES and that's the entire plot of the play. (We never even know what goes into the magazine). The idea is to entertain and create laughs. And in that sense, "Star Spangled Girl" was a complete success. Des Plaines Theatre Guild will stage two more performances both this weekend and next weekend. Reservations are available through the box office after noon, 296-1211.

A Bride For David Crockett

The Christmastime wedding in which David M. Crockett, son of Mrs. Lewis D. Crockett, 204 Somerset, Arlington Heights, took Karin Jane Lindberg as his bride was held Dec. 27 in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Daughter of the Wilford A. Lindbergs of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., Karin was given in marriage by her father during the 3:30 o'clock double ring service which was held in Grosse Pointe Congregational Church.

Karin's choice in wedding gown was an Empire organza gown over taffeta with vertical rows of Schiffl embroidery trim. Her shoulder-length veil fell from a matching Camelot cap and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert L. DeFer of Lawton, Okla., was her sister's matron of honor, and the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Wayne P. Crockett of Norman, Okla., and Miss Susan Richards of Grosse Pointe were bridesmaids. All wore frocks of Christmas red velvet with Schiffl embroidery trimming the empire waists. They carried arrangements of candy striped carnations.

WAYNE CROCKETT of Norman was his brother's best man, and ushers were Timothy Coniglio and Charles Haney of Arlington Heights, Chick Crosby of Aurora and Thomas Bommarito of Kirtwood, Mo.

The reception for 150 guests was held at the Detroit Boat Club where Karin's mother received in a mint green dress and Mrs. Crockett in a pale aqua crepe. Both had cymbidium orchid corsages.

Karin and David, who met while vacationing in Florida, honeymooned for a week in Lake Geneva, Wis., and they are now at home in an apartment in North

Mrs. David M. Crockett

Aurora. A graduate of Arlington High School and Culver-Stockton College in Canton, Mo., David is with Frito Lay in Batavia. His bride studied at Ferris State College in Big Rapids, Mich.

Miss Hoglund Now Mrs. Tom Claridge

A blind date two years ago led to romance and the recent marriage of Linda Ann Hoglund of Palatine and Thomas G. Claridge of Rolling Meadows. The couple's parents are the William G. Hoglunds, 1066 S. Smith St., and the Gay Claridges of 4402 Sycamore Lane.

Palatine Bible Church was the setting for the royal blue and white wedding performed by candlelight by Pastor Robert E. Murphy. Later there was a reception at the Palatine Firehall and the newlyweds then honeymooned at the Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

They are living at 330 Carter, Palatine. Linda is a '70 graduate of Fremd High School and works for the local Zayre Department Store. The bridegroom was graduated from Palatine State University in '66, studied at Wisconsin State University at Whitewater for two years, and is now with Xerox Corp., Elk Grove Village.

Jim Hatfield Marries Kansas Girl

Mrs. James Hatfield

fiance studied at Phoenix College and is James F. Hatfield, married his college sweetheart the day after Christmas and has taken her to live in Casa Grande, Ariz., where he is employed. Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon B. Hatfield of 639 Maple Court, Mount Prospect, and his bride is the former Carol Louise Smith, daughter of the Max Smiths of Salina, Kan.

The couple met while at the University of Kansas at Lawrence. After earning his degree, Jim went to work as advertising manager, staff writer and photographer for the Casa Grande Dispatch. His bride has completed 3 1/2 years at Kansas and will finish working on her degree at Arizona State University in Tempe.

THEY WERE MARRIED Dec. 26 in the First Presbyterian Church of Salina and then fete at a brunch for 50 guests in the Smith home. Carol had just one attendant, her sister Connie. Jim was attended by his father as best man.

For the candlelight, double ring rites, the bride wore a white satin gown with satin scroll braid edging the high neckline, the long full sleeves and the wide band at the Empire waistline. The skirt was draped in back beneath an obi bow. Carol wore a garland of red and white roses in her hair and carried single red and white long-stemmed roses.

Her sister was attired in red velvet, styled similar to the bride's gown, and had red velvet ribbons in her hair. She carried holly in her bouquet.

The red and white roses were repeated in altar bouquets which were complemented by mixed greens and white candelabra.

AS THEY WITNESSED the ceremony, the bride's mother was attired in pink crepe with a corsage of white roses and the groom's mother in blue silk with white roses.

After the festivities, the newlyweds spent a week motoring through the western states before settling at 420 E. McMurray in Casa Grande.

Jim attended Prospect High School for two years and then was among the first graduating class at Wheeling High. While at the University of Kansas, he was affiliated with Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Neurosurgery Is Upcoming Topic

Dr. Charles W. Kennedy will be guest speaker for next Tuesday's meeting of Mount Prospect Nurses Club. The 7:45 p.m. meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. George Wyatt, 402 N. Eastwood.

Dr. Kennedy, a graduate of the University of Oklahoma Medical School, will speak on diagnostic procedures in neurosurgery. Dr. Kennedy is on the staff of St. Alexius and Northwest Community Hospitals and recently accepted a teaching appointment at Loyola University Hospital Center.

Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Ernest Pierce, Mrs. James Foley and Mrs. Andrew Miller.

The club's winter social is planned for Saturday, Feb. 13, from 7 p.m. to midnight. Members and their husbands will meet at the barn of St. Cecilia, Golf and Meier Roads, for a square dance and buffet supper.

Former Area Girl Weds

A former Arlington Heights girl, Teresa Marion Roser, became the bride of Carl John Boals in Colorado Springs on Dec. 28. Daughter of the Robert J. Hinterbergers, Teresa studied two years at Sacred Heart of Mary High School in Rolling Meadows and both she and her bridegroom are '70 graduates of Wesson High School in Colorado Springs.

The wedding took place at 8 p.m. in Divine Redeemer Catholic Church with Rev. Thomas Hinterberger officiating. Terry was given in marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan O. Boals of Colorado Springs by her stepfather, Robert Hinterberger.

For her marriage she chose an empire gown of white satin with Venice lace encircling the ruffle of the Victorian collar, outlining the deep cuff of the lantern sleeves and detailing the basque bodice. The skirt was an A-line with chapel train edged with the same lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

MAID OF HONOR was the bride's sister, Mary Kay Roser. Another sister, Linda Kehe, was a bridesmaid as was Eileen Feeny. All wore identical gowns of emerald green velvet fashioned with gold braid around the Victorian ruffled necklines, the empire waists and deep cuffs of the bishop sleeves. They carried cascades of holly.

Serving the groom as best man was W. Ross Roser, and ushers were Christopher Mico, Andrew Brown, Steven Moores and Gerald Kehe.

The reception was held in the church hall.

Open Fund Drive

A multi-million dollar fund-raising drive for the 1971 Jewish United Fund-Israel Emergency Fund Campaign, Women's Division, opened Jan. 7 with a record attendance of 110 at the annual Race-Setter Luncheon.

Those attending the luncheon made a traditional minimum gift of $1,000 to the fund to help maintain its humanitarian services in the fields of health, education and welfare.

Hosted by Mrs. Irving Crown in the Imperial Suite of the Conrad-Hilton Hotel, the event launches the Women's Division drive to assist thousands of needy Jewish children, senior citizens and hospitalized patients.

Guest speaker at the meeting was noted Chicago architect and builder Raymond Epstein, president of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Chicago, who reported on his recent visit to the Middle East and meeting with Israel Prime Minister Golda Meir.

League Gym Headliner At Hersey Tonight

by KEITH REINHARD

Hersey... spoilers... in gymnastics? It doesn't sound right. The Huskies have fielded another fine gym team this year. Their 119.54 overall dual average is second best in the Mid-Suburban league, just a scant four points behind Arlington's. They sport an enviable 5-1 overall dual record.

In one respect however, Don Von Ebers' outfit still has to be rated as spoilers. And area gymnastics fans may just see them do their thing again tonight when another full slate of conference matches go on the line beginning with frosh-soph activity at 7:30 p.m.

The line up this evening sees Arlington traveling to Palatine, Wheeling barging in on Fremd, Forest View junketing to Glenbard North, Prospect voyaging over to Conant, and Hersey entertaining Elk Grove in what should be the day's head-line clash.

The Huskies will enter their fray slight favorites to topple the Fred Gaines-schooled Grenadiers. Elk Grove also boasts a 5-1 overall log but their 109.71 average is several points behind Hersey's. Should the hosts win, while other expected victors come through, the Orange and Brown would be spoilers again.

Here's why. The MSL scheduling thus far this winter has followed pretty much of a pat routine. Opening week it was time for the home team to win, the second round belonged to the guests and last week the triumphs went back to the hosting side again.

It has worked that way so far in 15 meets... except for Hersey. They could just foul up the pattern again tonight.

During these loop idlers Arlington, Conant, Elk Grove and Prospect — all hosts — were triumphant. Palatine invited in Hersey... and lost.

Second week Arlington, Wheeling, Prospect and Elk Grove — all guests — were winners. Conant jaunted over to Hersey... and lost.

Last week all the hosting teams were victorious. The Huskies fell 17 away from ruining the pattern once more.

Now, this time around, the visiting Cards, Wildcats and Knights figure to emerge triumphant and the Falcons are just about due to upset someone with the Panthers a likely target. That would make four visiting teams happy and leave it up to Elk Grove to maintain the design... or Hersey to spoil it again.

Quirks of scheduling aside, the Huskie-Grennie affair brings together some of the finest performers in the state with the list of seven-plus averages including Elk Grove's Gene Brennan in free ex, Al Mitson on the tramp and Jim Malmedah and Landy Fernandez on the rings and Hersey's Ed Hembl on side horse, John Weaver and Pat Treacy on tramp and Jeff Farris on everything except the tramp and rings.

Malmedah actually boasts an 8.55 league temp — tops in the MSL and Hembl is also an eight-point performer along with Farris on the parallel bars.

Arlington, and their high scoring rings team, should have little trouble handling the Pirates although Palatine did hit 93.55 in an exhibition dual recently and they show signs of becoming the seventh team in the league to hit the century mark. Palatine is 0-3 in conference but 4-3 overall. Thom Walkhouse's Cards, needless to say, are 55-0 over the past several years.

If Palatine doesn't become the seventh squad to crack 100 points, Fremd is certain to take that honor, although the Vikings will have a difficult time if they expect to overturn Wayne Selvig's remarkable improved Wildcats tonight. Wheeling, 6-1 with a 2-1 loop mark, has only been under 100 once in seven tries. Fremd, with a 1-4 log, has a 90.39 high.

The Cougars snuck over that three-digit figure last week while stopping Palatine and Conant now possesses a 5-2 record including two MSL wins in three tries. But the Cougars will have their hands full trying to thwart Rich Chew's Knights and their 112.77 average encompassing five wins in six starts overall.

Only at Glenbard is the decision fairly well up for grabs. The hosts are in the mid seventies, the Falcons are in the high sixties and still looking for win number one after five encounters. Forest View mentor Gay Hughes' outfit is still probably 20 points or so away from their peak however and this could be the week they climb up past an opponent.

Walkin' the Sidelines

A Little About A Lot Of Things

THANKS ILLINOIS HIGH School Association for putting another crimp in the Herald sports department's dream — following an area team downstate.

The latest regional tournament pairings brought the bad news — our area's top four teams will be fighting it out at two tourney sites.

RICK MOUNT
Bench Ball's No Fun

Either Hersey or Wheeling or both will be eliminated at the Wheeling tourney while the same fate will happen to Maine West and Arlington at the Mount Prospect regional.

The IHSA's pairings also hurt the area's chances of accomplishing what no team in the Herald coverage has ever done before — capturing a sectional championship!

If Hersey, Wheeling, Arlington and Maine West could have been at separate sites...

RICK MOUNT, where have you gone? Some people who have followed Big Ten basketball the past three years are probably wondering what has happened to Rocket Rick. He's still around... sitting on benches wherever the Indiana Pacers' play.

The former Purdue All-American — the Big Ten's all-time leading scorer for a career, a season and a game — is now playing an average of one quarter (12 minutes) per American Basketball Association game. Mount recently commented on his sitting problem:

"Sure, it makes it tough to get with it. I'm always stiff coming off the bench. But you have to remember I'm trying to break in with a championship club. It takes some guys longer..."

"This thing is tough on your confidence but you have to work on keeping yourself up mentally all the time. Off the court, I try to forget about it. Life's too short to sit around and worry."

Bob Leonard, his coach, had this to say:

"Everybody's got their own way of breaking in new kids. Atlanta, you know, is playing Maravich, but Atlanta is losing. This is a championship team. I've got to think about the other nine guys on the team."

LESS THAN 24 HOURS after the American Bowl (ugh!), there was a story in the Chicago papers with the headline, "NCAA gets new bowl game bids."

After the multitude of fruit, flower and mineral bowls already in existence, this announcement just about did me in.

The six new bowl requests are for the Birmingham Bowl, the Sportsman's Bowl, the Florida West Coast Bowl, the Cactus Bowl, and Martin Luther King Memorial Bowl and the President's Bowl.

There are already so many post-season bowls now that teams are going with poor records. William and Mary went to the Tangerine Bowl with a 5-6 record and came away with a 5-7 and Alabama played to a 20-20 tie in the Astro-Blue Bonnet Bowl to finish with a lackluster 6-5-1 mark.

Instead of adding on a half dozen Mickey Mouse bowl why not have a Loser's Bowl matching the two worst major teams. The announcers would be easy to pick — Al DeRogatis and Don Perkins, two of the all-time worst.

RACE TRACK BETTORS — Did you ever wonder what happened to your 1970 bets?

This was how each of your precious dollars were divided:

1.2% (or less) went to the track as breakage, such as when a bet payoff should have been 4.13 but is only 4.10 in order to keep the figures even;

7% went to the state in taxes;

8% went to the track with 44% of this 8% going to the horsemen's association for purses; and 83.75% (approximately) was returned to the bettors.

RICH VEHE, the Herald sports staff wishes to apologize for a most unfortunate oversight.

Somewhat we forgot to consider this Mount Prospect athlete in our choices for the top 20 stories of 1970 which appeared a week ago in Larry Everhart's "Locker Room Lingo" column.

Vehe, 12, captured the title of the midget division last summer at the National Bicycle Racing Championships in New York.

This talented young man is also a fine speed skater.

There is no question that his accomplishment belonged among the top stories.

Fremd Bumps Forest View, 64-54

by PAUL LOGAN

Tuesday night basketball returned briefly to the Herald area and two of the Mid-Suburban League's top performers made the most of the mid-week showcasing.

Fremd's Randy Hague and Terry Kukla helped build up as much as a 23-point lead early in the fourth quarter and then sat down to watch the substitutes battle. However, they watched and worried as the hosting Forest View Falcons, led by subs Jay Hedges and John Smit, put on a gutsy rally that fell short because of the clock, 65-54.

Until that flurry in the last four minutes, the Vikings had it their way due mostly to the play of Hague and Kukla.

After a close first quarter that ended 13-10 in favor of the Vikings, Hague — the league's leading rebounder — and fifth leading scorer — and Kukla — second best in assists — dominated the rest of the game.

First it was Hague, especially in the second quarter. The 6-5 senior accounted for 12 of Fremd's 13 points as he helped to out-score the Falcons 13-6. Hague did most of his damage with rebound shots from in close. The Vikings held this lead at halftime, 33-21.

Then Hague and Kukla really teamed up to put the game away. With the Vikings' little guard doing the feeding.

The third quarter saw the Vikings really pull away on the assists of Kukla, who finished with eight, and the shooting of Hague and Dave Wickersham. When the eight-minute period was over, it was 50-30 in favor of Fremd.

with 28 points and pulled down 13 rebounds.

After Kukla and Hague exited, the Viking defense folded and Hedges, Smit and starter Ed Bansfield helped account for most of the 24 points as the Falcons wouldn't give up. Bansfield finished with 15 points, nine coming in the final quarter.

Fremd is now 3-2 in the league.

Valek To Ball State?

Former University of Illinois football coach Jim Valek went to the National Coaches Convention this week to look for a new job, along with the many other men in the profession who have found themselves out of work.

Valek reportedly will be interviewed for the Ball State (Muncie, Ind.) job. Ball State has already interviewed six men, and a decision is expected possibly as soon as the first of next week.

Ball State, which has Palatine grad Phil Donahue as one of its football standouts, has joined the new Midwest Conference, which has major status in all sports now but football, and will achieve major ranking in football at the start of the 1973 season.

"We're certain we're going to have a good football conference in the not-too-distant future," said Ball State athletic director Ray Louthen. "We're a school of 17,000 and we want a football program that reflects our size."

A Depressing Situation

A National Hockey League player has presented his team with a letter from a psychiatrist which states he has to be transferred to another club to prevent him from developing "depressive illness... of serious proportions." Mike Walton 26, wants out of his contract with the Toronto Maple Leafs. He told a news conference he's willing to play for any other NHL team. A psychiatrist appointed by the league backed up Walton, stating he needs a leave of absence from the Leafs for reasons of mental health.

Honor Bruce Taylor

Bruce Taylor, a cornerback and punt returner for the San Francisco Forty Niners, Wednesday was named the United Press International "Rookie of the Year" for the National Football Conference. Taylor beat out Dallas running back Duane Thomas for the honor in the balloting of 36 writers from the 13 league cities. Taylor received 14 votes and Thomas had nine. No other players in serious contention.

Bad Week For Buffalo

State, county and city officials were stunned when the Buffalo Bills of the National Football League looked to Seattle for a new home.

"It's incredible," remarked Frank A. Sedita, mayor of Buffalo which saw its state university discontinue inter-collegiate football only one day earlier and failed to keep the International League baseball Bisons from moving to Winnipeg last year when attendance dropped at War Memorial Stadium — the same facility Bills' owner Ralph C. Wilson Jr., said he "could no longer live with."

The Bills broke what was perhaps this city's best kept secret in simultaneous announcements in Buffalo, where the club began 11 years ago, and in Seattle, where Wilson met with civic leaders and viewed the University of Washington Stadium.

"The Bills' management is fond of Buffalo and its fans, but has reached the point where it no longer can live with the stadium existing here," the statement read.

Small College Elite

The 1970-71 small college basketball race is beginning to look like a battle between the states of Kentucky and Louisiana.

Kentucky had two teams — top-ranked Kentucky State and No. 6 Kentucky Wesleyan — listed among this week's top 10 and Louisiana had three — second-ranked Southwestern Louisiana, No. 7 Louisiana Tech and eighth-ranked Louisiana State of New Orleans.

Other rankings in the six week's ratings by United Press International's 35-member Board of Coaches included S.F. Austin in third, Tennessee State fourth, unbeaten Assumption fifth, Philadelphia Textile ninth and Ashland 10th.

"I thought the kids played real good defense for the first three-quarters," said Leon Kasuboske, Fremd's coach. "Holding Forest View to 30 points like that was really quite an accomplishment. That was the big difference in the game."

Forest View coach Ken Arneson thought there were three reasons — poor shooting (.234 for the game), Bill Campbell slowed by the flu and the shooting of Hague. Big Randy finished

Must Game For Travelers

The most important game of the season!

That's the way you'd have to advertise the Northwest Travelers' home game with Rockford Sunday evening at 7:30.

If the Travelers entertain any hopes of finishing second in the Continental Basketball Association, and gaining a playoff berth, they must beat Rockford Sunday in the Prospect gym.

Rockford, the Southern Division's second place club, currently stands two games ahead of Northwest with nine games remaining. Rockford has lost seven games; Northwest nine. Peoria is also in the battle but has only played eight games.

Watch for the details in Friday sports on this crucial game in the expansion Travelers' first CBA season.

CORNERED 'CAT. Bill Bohstedt of Wheeling finds little room to move as Maine West's Tom Kummer and teammate apply the pressure during an exhibition fray on the Warrior court Saturday. Maine maintained enough pressure throughout to mark up their eighth win in ten games overall this winter 63-55.

Wheeling Shades Conant

Wheeling rebounded from losses in the first three bouts and an 11-0 deficit to shade Conant 21-17 in a makeup Mid-Suburban League wrestling meet Monday at Conant.

The Wildcats won seven of the 12 bouts, all by decision, for the triumph.

Al Gordon got Conant off to a lead at 98 pounds with a 9-6 win. Mike Beck followed suit by winning 9-4 and Mark Magnuson racked up another Cougar victory at 112 with a pin in 5:42.

Then Wheeling got on the scoreboard with a pair of wins, from 119-pounder Ken Wright (11-2) and 126-pounder Kent Lewis (4-2). Bob Shumski won a 6-2 bout for Conant at 132, by the 'Cats surge continued when Gary Hess won 4-0 at 138 and Ned Smith took a 3-2 decision at 145.

Conant's final win was by 155-pounder Steve Andrews, 9-1. Wheeling then won the last three matches to overtake the hosts. These triumphs were by Randy Wroble, 6-0 at 167; Mike Pavlich, 3-2 at 185 and Mike Holzkopf, 4-3 at heavyweight.

Wheeling made it a clean sweep over Conant by winning all three lower level meets. The junior varsity score was 28-20, the sophomore count was 23-22 and the freshman result was 27-18.

Double Dual Victory For Palatine In Gymnastics

Even without their senior all-around man, Tom Schergan, Palatine's gymnasts still won both parts of a non-league double dual at Rockford East Saturday, collecting 75.28 points to the hosts' 51.55 and Rockford Guilford's 58.19.

Schergan was taking a college entrance exam and could not participate. Rockford East was also missing some team members. Palatine coach Jim Woodward felt "we could have scored about 90" with the help of Schergan.

The team still managed individual first-place finishes over either or both opponents in every event, including a sparkling 8.6 showing by Jim Yeager on the rings that was easily the day's best effort.

Other blue ribbons were claimed by Pirates Bruce Westergen against both opponents with 5.8 in free exercise, Dan Maher against East with 3.25 on side horse, Bob Gran against both foes with 4.1 on the high bar, Bill Snyder against both with 4.5 on trampoline and Paul LeBreck against Guilford with 4.3 on parallel bars.

Seconds went to Jeff Williams with 4.35 in free ex, Bob Schergan with 3.85 in high bar, Gran with 3.45 on trampoline and Alcina with 4.5 on rings.

Palatine will swing back into Mid-Suburban League action Thursday when it hosts Arlington.

Hwt — Holzkopf (W) beat Southworth (C), 4-3.

Assign High Schools

Assignments for the 1971 state wrestling championships were announced Sunday by the Illinois High School Association.

Three hundred and eleven downstate and suburban high schools are entered in the tournament series, an all-time high enrollment for the state competition.

The state tourney series will begin with district tourney competition on Feb. 12-13. Four districts are subsidiary to each of the seven sectional centers and the winners of the first two places in each weight classification will advance to the sectional test on Feb. 19-20.

First and second place winners in the sectionals will advance to the state finals.

Area schools will vie for advancement in three districts — at Addison Trail,

Freshmen — Wheeling 27, Conant 18.

Crystal Lake and Hersey. The associated sectional is at West Leyden this year.

ADDISON TRAIL DISTRICT — Addison Trail, St. Patrick, York, Elmwood Park, East Leyden, Walther Lutheran, Ridgewood, West Leyden, Oak Park, Holy Cross.

CRYSTAL LAKE DISTRICT — Barrington, Fenton, Cary Grove, Crystal Lake, Elk Grove, Conant, Fremd, Palatine, Lake Park, Schaumburg.

HERSEY DISTRICT — Arlington, Forest View, Hersey, St. Viator, Luther North, Maine North, Maine West, Prospect, Maine East, Maine South.

These top wrestlers will then be joined by the winners at DeKalb, which includes a field of Crown, Dundee, DeKalb, Elgin, Elgin Larkin, Maple Park, Rochelle, Sycamore, Waterman, Woodstock ances which included both ends of the relay events.

The only competition Prospect failed to capture came in the 50-yard freestyle, but the Knights offset Elgin's first place award with a second by Jerry House and a third from John Todd.

It was the only time during the meet that House sat in the backseat. He was unbeatable in the 100-yard freestyle and as a member of the winning 200-yard medley relay quartet of Todd, John Flynn and Jeff Larson.

Karl Prinslow contributed a gold medal performance in the 200-yard freestyle, a second in the 100 freestyle and a leg in the triumphant 400-yard freestyle relay along with Young, Rick Fox and Larsen.

Tom Bennett, Fox and Dan Young touched first in the 400-yard free, the 100-yard backstroke and the 100-yard breaststroke, respectively, to widen an already insurmountable Knight margin.

Even the diving duo of Bill Klein and Jay Scott finished 1-2 with scores of 172 and 133, respectively.

About the only consolation Elgin received was a school record-shattering performance by Jim Thomas in the 100-yard butterfly. The arkia sophomore was also second in the 200-yard freestyle event.

The Prospect frosh-soph team rolled up an equally impressive 63-32 victory.

Harper's Wrestlers Hope To Bounce Back

Harper College's wrestling team will be trying to get back to its winning ways tonight when Waubesa hosts Coach Ron Bessemer's team in a 5:00 dual.

The Hawks had their troubles over the weekend in losing to Kennedy-King on Friday, 31-10, and to Black Hawks on Saturday, 24-14.

Bessemer was very disappointed with his team's showing on Friday at the Chicago school. The Hawks could manage just 10 points on a tie — a 0-0 deadlock between Jerry Ancona and Mel Bland at 118, a decision — Tom Moore over Tom McCauldy, 13-4, at 134, and a pin — Scott Raven over Emmanuel Morris at 177.

The rest of the Hawks failed to come through against a team which Bessemer thought they should have defeated. Jim Lynch was pinned by Sylvain Golladay at 126; Mal Squires lost to Joe McCray, 9-2, at 142; Mike Weber lost to Mike Myers, 8-0, at 150; San Taylor won by forfeit for Kennedy-King; Jeff Froyland was decided by Jim Tobert, 4-2, at 167; Al Vaccarello was pinned by Jim Patterson at 180; and Ted Jenkins won by forfeit at heavyweight.

The Hawks did much better against Black Hawks, a perennial wrestling powerhouse. However, the Hawks had to forfeit two weight classes — 158 and heavyweight.

Moore, unbeaten so far this year, was an easy winner at 134 and stopped Wayne Caulkins, 19-8. Chalking up the other wins were Weber over Chris Martinson, 9-1, at 150; Froyland decisioning Wilmer Stubbs, 7-1, at 167; and Raven, also unbeaten, with a pin on Ed Vietz at 1:59.

These were the Hawk setbacks: Ancona lost to Ron Rameriz at 118, 2-0; Lynch was beaten by Ray DeAnda, 24-2, at 126; Squires was nipped by Ezell Turner, 5-2, at 142; and Vaccarello was pinned by Gary Lambrecht in 1:40 at 190.

Hersey Tankers Fall By 76-19

Mike Richartz captured a pair of blue ribbons in free style events but elsewhere there was little for Hersey fans to cheer about as the Huskies dropped a 76-19 exhibition swimming encounter to hosting Waukegan.

Richartz clocked in at 23.7 to capture 50 freestyle laurels and later won the 100 free with a 54.8 time. Hersey's only second was notched by Dean Goins at 2:35.5 in the 200 individual medley.

Coach Herb Parson's outfit fared somewhat better in the frosh-soph encounter with the Bulldogs, dropping a 67-28 decision. Bob Bosley took one first for the visitors in 50 free and tied for another in the 100 free while Dave Colborn won the 100 butterfly and Al Zasady earned diving honors.

Congratulations!

John Guzak Receives SCM Scientific Award

The SCM-Dwight P. Joyce Award for outstanding scientific and technical achievement was presented recently to John Guzak Jr. of Arlington Heights.

Guzak, project engineer at the Kleinschmidt division of SCM Corp. was one of three men to receive the award from Paul Ellicker, SCM executive vice president, at the annual awards dinner here.

Guzak was cited for his contributions in developing a multi-hammer printer which served as a basis for a Forward Area Tactical Typewriter set for the United States Army Electronics Command.

The excellence of the design resulted in the procurement of an engineering of development service test contract valued at $8,400.00.

Guzak is a graduate of Chicago Technical College and is currently attending the Industrial Management Institute of Lake Forest College from which he will graduate in March of 1971.

The Dwight P. Joyce Award was inaugurated in 1965 by the Glidden Co., now the Glidden-Durkee division of SCM, and was expanded in 1968 to honor the outstanding scientists of the entire corporation.

Last Half Sales Signal Upswing

An encouraging second half of 1970 appeared to signal the beginning of brighter prospects for this year's Cook County real estate market, County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen said in his annual report.

A resurgence of activity in the final six months cut in half the comparable percentage figures for the first half of the year, the report showed.

Mortgage indebtedness dropped 12.3 per cent for all of 1970 to $2,203,619,905 from $2,512,479,208 in 1969. At June 30, mortgage consideration had plunged 24 per cent.

The number of mortgages dipped 13.9 per cent to 67,287 from 78,088 the previous year, after skidding 28 per cent at mid-1970. The annual mortgage filings were the lowest since 1949 when there were 64,385.

Transfers fell 15.8 per cent to 62,817 last year from 74,876, recovering substantially from a 24 per cent loss at mid-year.

The most active month was September with 6,212 transfers while the slowest month was February with 3,666 transfers. The mortgage peak was reached in July with 6,597 and the low in February with 4,048.

The year also was marked by the filing of the 2,500,000th Torrens System document in April.

ADMINISTRATIVE OPERATIONS of the Rock Road Construction Co. are located in a new building at 125 Armstrong St. in Des Plaines. The 20,000 square foot building is adjacent to its construction equipment yard. The building was designed by Thelander, Nelson & Associates. It was constructed on a 70,000 square foot site by D. J. Velo & Co.

Rock Road Firm Has New Offices

More than 1800 customers, public officials, and members of the general public attended an open house held recently to mark Rock Road Construction Co.'s occupancy of its new 20,000 square foot office building at 125 Armstrong St., Des Plaines.

Rock Road Construction Co., a road building contractor active in projects throughout the state, relocated to its new building from its former offices on the north side of Chicago. The Des Plaines facility provides extra space required for the administrative operations of the company and is situated adjacent to the company's construction equipment yard.

The building was designed by Thelander, Nelson & Associates and constructed on a 70,000 square foot site by D. J. Velo & Co. A total term rental was in excess of $1.6 million.

Donald W. Schaumberger and Bernard G. O'Leary of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates were brokers in the lease transaction. Financing for the building was arranged by Robert S. Julian of Baird & Warner.

Palatine Man Named To Post

The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad announces the appointment of P. Laurin Cowling of Palatine as executive assistant in the office of the president.

A native of Tacoma, Wash., Cowling was employed by the Milwaukee Road operating department there in 1941 and later served in various traffic positions in Great Falls, Mont., Tacoma and Seattle, Wash., and Sacramento, Calif. In 1959, he was appointed assistant to traffic vice president in Chicago.

He served as assistant to the president of the railroad beginning in 1961, and concurrently as vice president and general manager of the Milwaukee Motor Transportation Co., starting in 1963. The motor transportation company is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Milwaukee Road. He held both positions until 1969, when he became president of the General Transport Equipment Co. in Chicago. He continued in the latter position until the time of his present appointment.

P. Laurin Cowling

Palatine Man Named To Advisory Board

Raymond H. Taylor of Palatine, controller of Paddock Publications, Inc., Arlington Heights, has been appointed to the Technical Advisory Board of the Institute of Newspaper Controllers and Finance Officers. He will also serve on the annual meeting speakers hospitality committee.

Formed in 1947 the Institute is the international press association for financial, accounting and business management. It has nearly 700 members in the United States, Canada and overseas.

Cowling was a founder of the National Railroad Piggyback Association, which he has served in various capacities, including that of president in 1967.

Cooperative Sales Go Up

A record number of cooperative real estate sales was reported for 1970 by the MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service.

The 1,722 cooperative sales totaled $59,629,917. The MAP MLS recorded 1,205 non-cooperative sales in 1970, for a volume of $41,107,535. The total sales volume for the year was $100,737,452.

The average sale price on single-family homes in the Northwest Suburban area served by MAP was reported at $34,416, compared to $33,776 in 1969.

The 1970 sales figures reflected a strong increase in the market in the second half of the year, according to MAP president Edward Busse. "In view of the tight money situation that confronted the real estate market during most of 1970, we are pleased with our sales volume," said Busse. "The second half increase in activity reflects the loosening of mortgage money by banks and savings and loan institutions."

Busse said there is a resurgence of customer enthusiasm in the MAP market area. "All of our offices report a more relaxed buyer's attitude and more activity in the out-of-town market," he said.

"Our multiple listing concept has been a service to both home buyers and sellers," said Busse. "In 1970, MAP offices handled a record 5,221 listings."

Busse offered an optimistic outlook in the real estate market for 1971. "There is a definite increase in new housing starts nationally, and the Northwest Suburban area will be one of the prime areas for construction," he said. "New home starts indicate a healthy attitude in the business community."

"The transferee market is directly related to the national economic situation, but we see evidence of an upswing in the number of transfers to the area," said Busse. He said the Northwest Suburban continuing industrial growth is a major factor generating buyer interest.

Level Of Loans Is Still High

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported that last fall's growth in bank loans to industrial and commercial businesses was the smallest in 10 years.

From the end of August through Dec. 23, 1970, outstanding business loans rose $340 million on the books of the 55 large Seventh District banks that report their loans weekly. But loans transferred to holding company affiliates of these banks have been declining, and when these are included business loans dropped by about $240 million. In the same period a year earlier, when loan demands were very strong, the combined total rose more than $700 million.

The slower pace of business activity, combined with widespread repayment of bank loans from proceeds of a large volume of security flotations, largely account for the weaker demand in the latter part of 1970. Moreover, information available for the largest banks indicates that the decline in 1970 would have been even greater but for a substantial increase in holdings of acceptances and foreign loans. Since acceptances are money market instruments, most banks increase their holdings of them only when other loan demands are weak and they are seeking investment outlets for short-term surplus funds.

Despite the reduction in outstanding bank credit to business in recent months, the level of these loans is still high. Although outstandings of the weekly reporting district banks (adjusted for loans sold) rose less than 1 per cent last year, they had increased 18 per cent in 1969. In the seven prior years (1962-68), the average annual increase was 13 per cent. Total commercial and industrial loans were still about 30 per cent of earning assets of these banks on Dec. 23, slightly higher than the proportion two years earlier.

ALL CATEGORIES of time deposits at Seventh District member banks were higher on Oct. 31, 1970 than a year earlier. Total time and savings deposits reported in the October survey were up $2.4 billion for the year, with large negotiable CDs accounting for a little more than half of the gain. In the previous year, these certificates had declined sharply because of the higher yields available on competing investments. The increase in the year ended last October occurred largely after midyear. It reflects both the suspension of Regulation Q ceilings on short maturities on June 24 and the decline in market interest rates later in the year to levels below the remaining Q ceilings. At large district banks (total deposits over $100 million), negotiable CDs accounted for nearly three-fourths of the total gain in time deposits of businesses and individuals.

Personal savings-type deposits — passbook savings, small denomination certificates, and similar plans offered with 90-day minimum maturities — were the major source of time deposit gains at smaller banks. Savings deposits rose about $300 million in the year ended Oct. 31, in contrast to a net decline of more than $500 million in the previous year. The increase in small CDs and open account time deposits, however, was about 45 per cent less than the previous year. The increase in interest paid on savings accounts, reflecting the January 1970 increase from 4 to 4½ per cent in the interest rate ceiling on these deposits, helped to stem the shift from passbook to other time accounts. The overall accumulation of time and savings deposits of consumers was probably influenced by the high ratio of savings to income over the past year and by the reduced margin between the rates of return on deposits and other investments.

Waste Disposers To Be Marked

A. O. Smith Corp. has entered the home appliance field and has begun marketing a line of residential food waste disposers, announced L. B. Smith, chairman and chief executive officer. The company has an Arlington Heights facility.

Smith said the company will offer seven different models in its line, with the retail price ranging from less than $50 to more than $100. "Our market research indicates that the number of disposers sold annually will more than double in the next 10 years, from 2 million units today to more than 4 million units by 1980," Smith said. According to Smith, disposer gross sales, now totaling $120 million, are expected to increase to $280 million during the same period.

Smith said the company's Consumer Products division, headquartered in Kankakee, would market the disposers through the nearly 600 plumbing wholesalers who already market A. O. Smith's line of water heaters.

According to Smith, all seven models of the new disposer line have stainless steel hoppers, uni-directional motors, with all operating made of stainless steel.

The A. O. Smith connection system is called a Plumb-Lok which snaps into a locked position after the unit is fitted into place.

The A. O. Smith disposer line includes two continuous feed models and five batch feed models. The continuous feed models operate on a 1/3 horsepower motor with a one quart capacity and the batch feed models have 1/2 horsepower motors and a two quart capacity.

A. O. Smith, with its subsidiaries, is a widely diversified manufacturer of auto and truck frames, electric motors, electrical controls, meter systems, agricultural feed storage and handling systems, water heating equipment, elevators, pumping and irrigation systems.

Home Builder Report Hanover Property Sales

Group Meets

Home Builders of Greater Fox Valley will meet at the Blue Moon Restaurant in Elgin on Thursday, Jan. 14.

This meeting will provide members of the recently-formed group a chance to outline goals for the coming year, according to Robert Appel, president.

A cocktail hour will begin at 6:30 p.m. with dinner to be served at 7:30 p.m.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Robert Faganel of R. A. Faganel Builders in Wheaton, immediate past president of the Northern Illinois Home Builders Association and first vice president of the Home Builders Association of Greater Chicago (HBAGC), the parent organization of the home building industry in the Chicago area.

Faganel will discuss home builders association members and the Spike Club, the organization within the association for members who bring in other members.

Reservations for the meeting may be made by calling Winnie Monahan at the HBAGC office, 782-8657.

National Homes Corp. sold its property at Park Blvd. and Lake St., (U.S. 20), Hanover Township, to Maureen A. Murphy for $380,000. It was announced in the first 1971 monthly Hanover township real estate transfer report from Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olsen. The report contained 17 sales in Streamwood and one in Bartlett.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

The transfers are: 144 Hale, Bartlett, Alexander Wdowyczewski to Jos. J. Grundall, $25,500; 726 Wildwood Lane, Streamwood, Wilfred J. Comeau to Jos. J. Making a Gracious Exit Township Sales Reported

If you're thinking about putting your house up for sale, your chances of success are better today than they have been in the past 18 months, according to a local Realtor.

"Families trying to sell their homes have been fighting an almost impossible combination of problems since July, 1969, including inflation, recession, negative psychology and a money crunch," said Robert G. Walters, vice president and district sales manager of the Baird & Warner, Inc., Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect offices.

The money squeeze is easing and terms are improving. Mortgage recovery has kindled the interest of a lot of potential buyers who have been standing on the sidelines," he said.

"Don't let a rise in demand lull you into a false sense of security. You may have the best-looking, best-maintained, best-priced home for sale in the community — but there are many ways you can complicate if not kill a sale," he said.

Here are his suggestions for contributing to the selling effort: Forget about being a perfect host or hostess. If you are at home when prospects visit — and it is not necessary that you be there — say hello graciously, offer to answer questions and exit gracefully. Let your broker handle it. It's your Realtor's job to know people and how to deal with their questions.

Control your pets and children. They may create a lived-in feeling, but they can be distracting and annoying at a time like this.

Cleanliness is vital. Treat every prospect visit as you would a visit by your husband's boss and his wife. This means clean bathrooms and lavatories, bedrooms unoccupied, no boxes or clothing strewn about.

You may have to invest in a little decorating to help you sell the home. Discolored walls, peeling paint, cracked plaster, leaking pipes, and windows that won't open at all suggest that you may be just as careless about major features. A small investment to fix up the little things can pay off with a sale at your price instead of a buyer frightened by the prospect of spending a couple of thousand dollars to patch up the homestead on top of his big initial investment.

If you have to move before you sell the house, try to leave curtains, draperies, and blinds intact. It makes a woman prospect feel more at home, and helps her better to visualize her own furnishings.

In winter, keep your walks shoveled. Put sand on icy spots on walk or steps. Move family things out of the guest closet to display plenty of room for overcoats.

In summer, a well-kept lawn, trimmed hedges, and tools in place can help turn on a prospect and get them to make a purchase offer.

In the kitchen, be sure that the range and oven are clean, dishes are washed and in place, garbage is out of sight, floors are clean and waxed.

Closet space is an important item and a potential buyer wants to feel it is at least adequate. Create this impression by hanging garments properly and arrange shoes, ties and other items — including necessary boxes — neatly.

Keep the noise of TV and radio receivers, record players, or musical instruments at a minimum.

If you are planning to sell some of your house furnishings which may not be included in the price of the house, wait until you sell the house. If the prospect asks about appliances, carpeting, or other furnishings, you can reply that some items are included but that you would be happy to discuss the others at an appropriate time, he concluded.

Palatine —

Cook County Recorder Sidney R. Olson in the first 1971 monthly Palatine township real estate transfer report listed four sales in Rolling Meadows, one in Inverness, and 27 in Palatine and the rest of the township.

Olsen recorded the following property transfers for the township. The list shows the purchase price of equity and does not include the amount of a mortgage which the purchaser may have assumed. The price is indicated by the amount of state revenue stamps on the document ($1 in stamps for each $1,000 of market value).

Achieves Record Volume in Sales

The 1970 sales volume of the Robert L. Nelson Real Estate Company reached a record level.

Robert L. Nelson, president, reported a yearly sales volume of $27,467,466. The total reflected 727 residential sales, including exclusive listings and sales in cooperation with MAP Multiple Listing Real Estate Service offices in the Northwest Suburbs. The previous record sales volume was achieved in 1969, totaling $26,762,332.

"The increasing sales figures reflect the continuation of interest in the Northwest Suburbs by home owners from all over the country," said Nelson. "With the recent availability of mortgage money, we look for another record year in 1971." Nelson said the increase in industrial activity in the area is another attraction for home buyers.

Nelson said the company frequently reviews the local market area and adjusts sales methods to meet the demands of the market.

Robert L. Nelson Real Estate has offices in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Elk Grove Village and Barrington.

Contractor Buys Elk Grove Site

The sale of a 17,000 square foot site in Centex Industrial Park, Elk Grove Village, to Palu J. Pahl & Co., heating contractors, has been announced by Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates.

The purchaser plans to erect a 6,000 square foot headquarters building on the property, which is located on the north side of Louis Ave. about 500 feet east of Lively boulevard.

Purchase price of the property was reported to be $18,810.

Howard G. Krafsur and Robert A. Skone, both of Bennett & Kahnweiler Associates, were cooperating brokers in the transaction.

Parent Company Makes a Switch

A new corporate identification program designed to strengthen public recognition of General Telephone & Electronics Corp. and is more than 60 telecommunication subsidiaries has been announced by Leslie H. Warner, president.

The central and unifying element of the program is a new corporate symbol — GTE. In addition to identifying the parent company, GTE also will be included in the new names of various subsidiaries.

The GTE symbol will replace GEN on Feb. 1 as the corporation's official designation on the New York Stock Exchange and other securities markets.

The former names of various subsidiaries which have been redesignated as a part of the corporate identification program and their new names are listed below:

Automatic Electric Co., now GTE Automatic Electric Inc.; Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., now GTE Sylvania Inc.; Lenkurt Electric Co., Inc., now GTE Lenkurt Inc.; General Telephone & Electronics International, Inc., now GTE International Inc.; General Telephone & Electronics Laboratories Inc. now GTE Laboratories Inc.

Also, GT&E Information Systems Inc., now GTE Information Systems, Inc.; GT&E Data Services Corp., now GTE Data Services Inc.; GT&E Communications Inc., now GTE Communications Inc.

Combined GTE telephone revenues and manufacturing sales totaled nearly $3.3 billion in 1969. The domestic and international GTE manufacturing subsidiaries produce a variety of products, including communications systems and equipment, television sets, lighting products, electronic components, and information systems. The manufacturing subsidiaries have 127 plants throughout the world — 68 in the United States and 59 in Canada and abroad.

Comprising the nation's largest independent (non-Bell) telephone system, the more than 30 GTE domestic telephone operating subsidiaries serve approximately 9.5 million telephones in portions of 34 states. In addition, international subsidiaries serve more than 1.2 million telephones, principally in the provinces of British Columbia and Quebec, Canada.

Letter Writing More Expensive

The cost of dictating, typing, mailing and filing a business letter has gone up again, but at a lesser rate than in recent years.

The average cost of a business letter in 1971 will be $3.19, a 4.8 per cent increase over 1970's average of $3.05, reported Robert S. Minor, editor of the Dartnell Office Administration Service. The 1970 cost represented an 11.3 per cent climb over 1969.

The major factor in the now-classic Dartnell annual study is the salary of the secretary who takes dictation from an executive and then prepares the letter. This cost, now at an even $1 per letter, is based, as in the past, on a 20-minute segment of her time. The salary used in the current report is $3 per hour, a median figure between the averages for Class A and Class B secretaries as reported by the Administrative Management Society.

Direct and indirect labor costs of dictation and secretary account for the biggest share of 1971's cost of a business letter — $1.96 versus $1.94 in 1970.

Adding the next largest load to the letter cost were fixed charges (overhead, depreciation, rent, light, heat, interest, taxes, pensions). That cost is now 81 cents per letter, compared to 76 cents in 1970.

Other areas — materials, mailing and filing costs — total 40 cents for 1971, compared to 38 cents the previous year.

The cost of postage (first-class plus 20 per cent air mail) has remained static since 1968, but since mailroom labor is involved, this pushed that cost from 16 to 17 cents for 1971.

"It seems to stretch credibility to say that a single letter will attract 14 cents in filing costs before it is thrown out after a retention period," Minor said. "However, that letter is accumulating costs while it is stored in the file, it is adding costs every time it is searched out for reference, and it is creating costs when it is returned to the files."

The Dartnell letter-cost study was begun on a sporadic basis in 1930 when many topflight secretaries were paid $25 a week and the cost of a business letter (under a different formula) was well under $1. By 1963, when a secretary's starting salary was $65, the cost of a business letter had risen to $1.70.

Farmers Sharing Equity Payments

Farmers throughout the upper mid-western states of Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Illinois are sharing in the distribution of almost $6 million of equity retirement mailed out in December.

Over 33,000 checks have been mailed to member cooperatives or patrons who have marketed their products through Land O'Lakes or have purchased agricultural supplies or services from Land O'Lakes. The firm is based in Minneapolis, Minn.

The payment of $5,970,326, which represents equities received by members from business transacted in previous years, is the largest equity retirement ever made by Land O'Lakes in its 50-year history, according to D. E. Henry, general manager.

In addition to this amount, it is estimated that approximately $2.8 million which is 20 per cent of the 1970 estimated earnings of $14-million, will be distributed in the first half of 1971. The total of past equity retirements and 1970 earnings paid in cash will be over $8.5 million.

"In the past 10 years, over $45.5 million has been paid in cash to members from earnings generated by Land O'Lakes," said Henry.

Dealers Post Record Sales

Chicago district Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealers posted record new car sales during the 1970 calendar year despite a general decline in auto industry sales.

Area Ford Division dealerships sold 88,156 cars last year, five per cent ahead of 1969 sales of 83,979 and nearly 3 per cent better than the previous yearly high of 85,983 set in 1968.

The standard-size Ford Custom, Galaxie and LTD car lines accounted for more than 50 per cent of the division's sales. B. L. Crumpton, district manager, said. Dealers delivered 15,812 Mavericks and 3,358 Pintos last year, about 22 per cent of Ford's total.

Lincoln-Mercury dealers reported 26,637 new car sales last year, topping 1969's total of 25,855 by 3 per cent and 2 per cent higher than the previous calendar-year record of 26,171 set in 1968.

"Our dealerships closed the year by registering four consecutive months of record new car sales," R. A. Godfrey, Lincoln-Mercury's Chicago district manager, said.

Employees at Ford Motor Co. facilities in the Chicago area — not including franchised Ford or Lincoln-Mercury dealerships — earned an estimated $80,400,000 in wages and salaries during 1970. The company's installations, which employ 9,700 persons, last year spent nearly $68 million for locally produced goods and services.

Automotive production at Ford's Chicago Assembly Plant rose slightly to 170,000 units, compared with 169,000 in 1969. The plant, located at 12800 S. Torrence Ave., assembles standard-size Ford Division cars. It employs 4,200 persons with an annual payroll of $35,850,000.

Employment at the company's Chicago Stamping Plant near Chicago Heights averaged 5,000 during 1970. Last year's payroll was approximately $49,160,000. The facility manufactures metal parts, including hoods, roofs, trunk lids and doors for Ford car and truck assembly plants throughout the United States and Canada.

Ford also maintains a major parts distribution center and regional and divisional sales offices at 2225 W. North Ave., Melrose Park.

Beef on a Budget

Hot Beef and Macaroni Salad uses only one can of the meat and with the nutritious help of macaroni, achieves six hearty servings. Choose an interesting shape of macaroni: mostaccioli as in the photograph, or one of the elbow, shell, bow tie or corkscrew shapes. All will give the same flavor and nutritional advantages at low cost while presenting delightful differences in appearance.

Hot Beef and Macaroni Salad

- 1 can (12 oz.) roast beef with gravy
- 4 cups hot cooked macaroni, drained
- 1 cup cooked or canned peas
- 1 cup cubed sharp cheddar cheese
- 1 small green pepper, seeded and diced
- 1/4 cup diced celery
- 2 tablespoons diced pimiento
- 2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
- 1/4 cup mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons catsup or chili sauce
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
- 1 tablespoon melted butter or margarine

Coarsely dice roast beef, add, with gravy, to macaroni. Cook 2 cups (8 oz.) of favorite macaroni (elbow, shell, etc.) by package directions, just until tender. Drain.

Add peas, cheese, green pepper, celery, pimiento and onion. Blend mayonnaise with catsup and mustard; add and mix well. Turn into lightly greased 1 1/2-quart casserole. Toss bread crumbs with melted butter; sprinkle over top of mixture. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 minutes, or until heated through.

Makes 6 servings.

Eggs, milk and bread turn two cans of the meat into eight handsome and satisfying Beef Timbales. The canned gravy converts handily into the savory curry sauce that garnishes, it would blend equally well into a cheese or mushroom sauce if preferred.

Beef Timbales

- 2 cans (12 oz. each) roast beef with gravy
- 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1/4 cup diced pimiento
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/4 cups milk
- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire
- 1 cup white sauce (use 1 pkg. sauce mix if desired)
- 1 teaspoon curry powder

Drain gravy from roast beef and reserve. Dice beef, combine with crumbs, parsley, pimiento and salt. Scald milk, slowly pour into beaten eggs, stirring rapidly until blended, then stir into beef mixture. Add Worcestershire, mix well. Turn into 6 to 8 well-greased 6-ounce custard cups. Place in pan of hot water, bake at 350 degrees 30 minutes, or until knife inserted into center comes out clean.

Meanwhile, for curry sauce, prepare white sauce. Stir in curry powder and the reserved gravy, heat.

To serve, unmold Beef Timbales; spoon sauce over. Accompany with Hot Chutneyed Pears. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Economy dishes with top of the line flavor and good looks are called for when the food budget begins to sputter. Here are two that use beef, the leader among the meats: Hot Beef and Macaroni Salad and Beef Timbales. From the way they look, taste and satisfy, no one would ever guess how nicely they tune up a run-down budget!

Canned roast beef with gravy furnishes the protein-rich meat and fine flavor for both main dishes. Remembering that economy is not measured by price alone, check off these advantages of the meat that's canned with succulent sauce: it's fully cooked, saving on cooking time, plus the gas or electricity needed for cooking the complete dish. It also saves your time in the kitchen, leaving you free for other things. Every bit of the can's contents, both meat and gravy, can be eaten; there's nothing to discard when the can is opened. Pleasantly seasoned, both meat and gravy team up readily with other low cost foods to get more well-flavored, good-for-the-family servings from a limited number of pennies.

For a glamorous accompaniment to either beef dish, turn canned Bartlett pear halves into Hot Chutneyed Pears. Use the pear halves as they come from the can, liquid and all, and bake with chutney just long enough to heat through. Served hot, they replace one vegetable of the menu in a most interesting fashion.

Hot Chutneyed Pears

- 6 to 8 canned Bartlett pear halves
- 1/2 cup chutney, diced

Arrange pear halves cut side up in baking dish; pour liquid around pears. Top pears with diced chutney. Bake at 350 degrees 10 to 15 minutes, or until heated through. Serve hot.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Spanish Pork With Rice

Create Savory Pork Chops With The Flavor Of Spain

The romance of flamenco dancers, cheering crowds at the bullring and sun-baked adobe villages — this is the sunny and exciting land we often dream of as days grow a little longer and the weather begins to mellow. Bring continental color and flavor to the dinner table some rainy spring evening by serving a Spanish menu. Ole! You can almost hear the castanets clicking!

"Savory" is the best word to describe most Spanish cooking — and savory goodness is just what Tabasco has been bringing to dishes of many lands for the past one hundred years. Tabasco, the internationally known liquid red pepper seasoning, adds its own unique spice to pimiento bisque, Spanish-style pork chops, and a rice-pepper-and-corn dish. The creamy pimiento bisque, combines chicken stock with cream and sieved pimiento, and it's served cold with a dollop of whipped cream. Tabasco, 100 years old this year, gives savory flavor to the onion sauce in which the boned chops simmer. A colorful accompaniment is a bowl of cooked rice combined with canned corn with peppers. Add zest to the rice by adding a little Tabasco to the cooking water.

PIMIENTO BISQUE

4 cups chicken stock or bouillon
4 tablespoons rice
3 canned pimientos, drained
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon Tabasco
1 egg yolk
½ cup heavy cream
¼ cup whipped heavy cream

Paprika
Heat stock to boiling. Rinse and drain rice; add to stock. Boil until tender. Rub pimientos through a sieve. Add to soup with salt and Tabasco; bring to a boil. Beat egg yolk slightly with the cream. Gradually stir some soup into egg mixture; stir egg mixture into soup. Heat, stirring, until hot but do not allow to boil. Pour into cups or plates. Garnish each portion with a dab of whipped cream. Sprinkle cream lightly with paprika.

Yields: 4 generous servings.

SPANISH PORK WITH RICE

1 clove garlic, crushed

1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon Tabasco
½ teaspoon paprika
1/8 teaspoon ground cloves
1/3 cup salad oil
6 boned pork chops, 1-inch thick
Flour
1 onion, minced
1 cup water
2 tablespoons vinegar
¼ teaspoon saffron, optional
1 cup (8-ounce can) corn with peppers

¼ teaspoon Tabasco
4 cups cooked hot rice

In large shallow dish combine garlic, salt, Tabasco, paprika and cloves; stir in oil. Add pork chops. Let marinate 8 hours or overnight. Drain marinade into large skillet; dust chops with flour. Heat marinade in skillet; add meat and brown on both sides. Add onion, water; vinegar and saffron; simmer about 30 minutes or until chops are fork tender. Heat corn, ¼ teaspoon Tabasco; toss with rice. Serve as accompaniment to pork.

Yields 4 to 6 servings.

The Blind Can Learn To Cook

It's A Matter Of Sense

How does sauteed green pepper smell when it is done? How does it sound? You can tell when it is done by its color — but if you were blind, you would have to depend on your other senses. And if you are teaching a blind person, you have to describe things in terms of the other senses.

The blind can learn to cook, but teaching them requires some special techniques. Here are some tips on teaching the blind, developed by Extension home economists in cooperation with the Extension Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

First, some general hints: If you are not already acquainted, tell the blind person about yourself — height, hair color, etc. He will want to visualize you in his mind. Tell him about the room he's in — size and shape, windows, doors, tables, etc.

When you approach a blind person, call him by name and identify yourself. Tell him who is around him when taking him into a room or seating him.

ALWAYS ALLOW the blind person to take your arm. He can follow you more easily. When seating a blind person, place his hand on the back of a chair.

And here are some specific guidelines the home economists have developed for teaching cooking to a group of blind people:

One sighted assistant is needed for every two blind persons.

Allow plenty of time to complete a project. Recipe preparation, eating, and cleanup usually takes 2 to 2½ hours.

Have recipes copied in Braille and large type. Contact local and State associations for the blind to arrange for this service. A tape recording may help those who cannot read Braille or large type.

Keep recipes simple enough to be memorized.

Orient each person to the burners, work space, dials, and buttons on the cooking range. Braille controls are available from some utility companies, or dials may be marked with nail polish. Have each person open the oven and feel the location of the racks. Take it slowly, and help them feel comfortable at the range. They are often fearful of the oven because of the blast of heat and the need to bend over and reach out. Long asbestos mitts should be used.

WORK AREAS SHOULD have provisions for standing and sitting. Some may have problems with balance and find it difficult to work in a standing position.

Supplies must be arranged logically and conveniently. Prepare a tray of supplies and equipment for every two students. All trays should be arranged identically.

Introduce the blind persons to condiments and convenience items by having them smell and touch samples. Dehydrated onion, parsley, etc., although sometimes more expensive, are a great convenience to blind people.

In measuring dry ingredients, it is much easier to dip the measuring cup into a bowl or canister than to pour the ingredient from a bag. Use finger to level off measure. For measuring liquid ingredients, dry measuring cups filled to the top are easier to judge (although less accurate) than glass cups; however, glass measuring cups marked on the outside with nail polish or tape may be used.

The blind can separate eggs in three ways: by breaking the egg into the palm of the hand and allowing the white to run through the fingers; by poking a hole in the end of the egg to allow white to run through; or by using a sieve, funnel, or egg separator. Since blind people need to use their fingers in food preparation, it is important to stress cleanliness.

To teach a blind person to set a table, place dishes, flatware, napkins, etc. on a cart or tray at the end of the table. Arrange chairs around the table so he will know where to set each place.

PASSING SERVING dishes is difficult for blind people. If you serve them, tell them at what clock position you are placing the food — "On your plate the meat is at 2 o'clock, potatoes at 7 o'clock, and peas at 11 o'clock." Use this technique whenever possible to describe the location of objects. Remember that you must communicate by touch and by precise verbal descriptions — "The knife is a few inches in front of your left hand," not, "... in front of you."

Have the students clean up the table and preparation area and wash dishes as they would have to do at home.

It's very easy to do too much for blind people. Remember that your blind acquaintance is most likely as intelligent and sensitive as you are. He will appreciate your helping him develop his own skills and self-reliance rather than doing things for him.

What's Behind The Coffee Break?

Toward the end of the ninth century, an Arabian physician wrote about the properties and uses of coffee. The legendary discovery of coffee is attributed to an Arabian goatherd named Kaldi 15 centuries ago. Kaldi, it is said, found his animals dancing after eating fruits and tips of certain bushes. He tasted them and was so stimulated that he cavorted with his goats in the Arabian hills.

U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers say that coffee has been used as a food, a wine, a medicine, and a beverage. Its use as a beverage dates from the 13th century. The coffee plant is a native of Abyssinia and probably of Arabia. It grows in the Tropics.

Coffee reached Europe about 1500 and was brought to Italy by Venetian traders in 1615. Invading Turks carried it into Vienna. Holland had already begun a worldwide trade in coffee from their colonies in Java. The Dutch presented a seedling from one of their Java trees to Louis XIV in 1714, and he had it planted under glass in the Jardin des Plantes in Paris. Eight years later, a seedling from this tree was carried by Captain Gabriel de Clieux to the French West Indian island of Martinique. This was the source of all coffee plants in the New World.

Coffeehouses were introduced to colonial America in the 1680's. Around 1700 coffee and tea were for only the well-to-do. Tea gained in popularity faster than coffee, but tea was boycotted after the Stamp Act of 1765 and the tea tax of 1767. After the Boston Tea Party in 1773, coffee became more popular.

ARABICA AND ROBUSTA are the main species. Arabica accounts for about 80 per cent of the world's coffee. Most of the remainder is Robusta. Almost all coffee in Latin America is Arabica. Arabica is of two general kinds — "Brazils" and "milds." It is high in acidity and has considerable body. Robusta is more flat. Most coffee the American housewife buys is a blend of two or more coffees.

The coffee plant is an evergreen shrub. It grows 14 to 20 feet high if it is not pruned. Pruning increases the yields. Coffee often is grown under shade but does not have to be. Brazil and Kenya grow practically all of their coffee without shade. Higher yields and more intensive cultivations often characterize the nonshade, or sun grown coffee. Robusta often is grown in the lowlands, but altitudes of 2 thousand up to 6 thousand feet are better for Arabica.

Coffee is grown in tropical areas on a wide range of soils. It does well in friable topsoils over fairly heavy subsoil. Arabica grows very well on rather recent volcanic deposits. Coffee requires soils that have good aeration, some acidity, a good supply of potassium, and humus.

The lateritic soils of the Tropics often are planted to coffee, especially in Brazil. Such soils are rich in nitrogen and humus when first cultivated, but are poor in lime, potash, and phosphate. They therefore are soon exhausted if they are not fertilized. To provide some humus, the ground under the trees sometimes is kept covered with crop vegetation.

If cultural practices are good, the trees will bear for 20 or 30 years. Trees may yield one-half pound to 8 pounds each year. Two pounds of green coffee is considered a good yield.

EIGHT COUNTRIES in Latin America and Africa — Brazil, Colombia, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Ethiopia, and the Ivory Coast — generally receive more than half of their total export earnings from coffee. Many countries depend heavily on exports of coffee to provide revenue for their governments.

The trade is big business; a drop of a cent a pound in export prices means a decline of about 65 million dollars a year in exchange earnings of the exporting countries of Africa, Asia, and Latin America.

The fruit of the coffee tree has uses other than to make the beverage. Coffee may be used in candy and the extracted caffeine may be used in soft drinks. Coffee pulp has been used as fertilizer and at times it has been used for cattle feed.

Research work is being continued to find additional uses for byproducts. Attempts have been made to produce synthetic coffee, but only about one-third of mixture is the consistency of unbeaten egg white. Fold in diced chicken, celery, cucumber and olives. Turn into 6-cup mold; chill until firm. Unmold. Serve with salad greens.

Yield: 6 servings, 140 calories per serving.

SPARKLING DIET MENU 3

Tongue in Aspic
Sliced Tomatoes and Marinated Artichoke Hearts
Small Rolls
Sliced Oranges with Cinnamon Coffee

TONGUE IN ASPIC

5 envelopes unflavored gelatin
2 cups (about 13 ounces each) chicken broth
2 cups tomato juice
1 cup cold water
1 chicken bouillon cube
1 teaspoon sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 egg whites, slightly beaten
2 egg yolks, crushed
4 thin slices cooked tongue
Rice, olives

3 cups diced cooked tongue
1 cup chopped celery
Sprinkle gelatin over chicken broth in medium saucepan. Add tomato juice, cold water, chicken bouillon cube, sugar, lemon juice, beaten egg whites and crushed shells. Place over low heat; stir constantly until mixture boils rapidly. Remove from heat. Let stand 10 minutes. Pour through strainer lined with several layers of cheesecloth. Chill until slightly thickened. Cover bottom of 9 x 5 x 3-inch loaf pan with overlapping slices of tongue. Add aspic to cover tongue. Arrange pieces of olive (cut into wedges or shapes) on each side of tongue. Chill until almost firm, about 20 minutes. Fold diced tongue and celery into aspic; spoon on top of almost-firm layer. Chill until firm. Unmold. Garnish with salad greens.

Yield: 8 servings; 180 calories per serving.

Note: The amount of gelatin is greater than when the mixture is not clarified with egg white. Because of the coagulation of the egg white, some of the gelatin is lost. The coagulation also removes the color from the tomato juice and the result is a sparkling clear broth.

Three Elegant Menus To Make The Diet Work

If you tune in any of your dieting friends, chances are that you'll get plenty of calorie static . . . everyone talks about calories, but not many people know what they are exactly.

A calorie is the energy-producing value of food, measured in units of heat energy . . . and you are burning up calories at every moment. When you are lying quietly but awake, you are still using seven calories per hour. Just standing relaxed, 35 per minute . . . the same but paring potatoes, 42 per minute. Dishwashing, 70 . . . ditto for typing. An hour's walk at a moderate speed calls for 140 calories . . . bicycling, 175.

You, your husband, your children have a daily energy output . . . it's the number of calories needed to keep going according to your life style. And there's a common-sense way to keep pounds at bay without using a slide rule to keep track of each calorie of food intake. That is, to stay daily with low-calorie foods you enjoy.

For most dieters, and for people who want to keep weight down before they need to diet, unflavored gelatin is a real boon. Used as a diet drink a half hour before meals, for instance, it cuts down appetite and food intake at the table. Just pour an envelope of unflavored gelatin into a glass of fruit juice, vegetable juice or skim milk. Stir briskly and drink at once.

As an ingredient, this product lends itself beautifully to any number of other foods. The gelatin itself is only 28 calories per envelope, if you are counting.

The first menu features Tuna Twist . . . a wonderfully tangy combination of tuna with cottage cheese, yogurt and chives. For a splendid company meal, make it in a mold. For just the family, prepare in a bowl or in individual dishes. Chicken, celery, cucumber and stuffed olives in clear tomato aspic provide another splendid main dish and you serve it on crisp salad greens.

For the festive luncheon or buffet supper, Tongue in Aspic is a real classic. The top layer is composed of overlapping slices of tongue and the bottom is diced tongue and celery. It's most elegant . . . and so thoughtful to serve friends who are also watching their weight.

Three menus follow with the main dishes described above . . . they're meals that put the pleasure factor on the diet menu.

Is It 'Hamburger' Or Patty?

A lot of heat has been generated lately about the "discovery" of ingredients other than meat and fat in hamburgers. Why the uproar, and is it justified?

The problem boils down to this: to be labeled as "hamburger" under United States Department of Agriculture rules, a patty must contain nothing more than beef, 30 per cent fat, salt, and seasonings.

If a hamburger contains any other ingredient, no matter how good it is or what it does for taste or quality, it must be called a patty. That's the rule.

The problems started when some quality-conscious restaurants and drive-ins started specifying that they wanted their hamburgers to be juicier, tastier, and larger on the bun after cooking. So, some meat processors started including other ingredients, particularly soy protein, in the formula for their patties.

SOY PROTEIN, added in small amounts to meat patty formulas, not only boosts protein content of the patty, but also helps the patty hold its juices all thru cooking.

The customer gets a bigger, juicier, more nutritious patty that tastes better. The trouble came because some restaurants and drive-ins kept calling their improved meat products "hamburgers." Many were either not aware of what the USDA rules were or didn't know the ingredient list in their patties had been changed to accomplish the desired improvements.

Until USDA regulations are changed, however, food service establishments will not be allowed to call their improved chopped or ground meat sandwiches "hamburgers," although a variety of other names are permitted.

Maybe somebody will come up with a really meaningful new name, meanwhile, that does the job of alerting consumers to the advantages of the new kind of soy protein-fortified meat product that's appearing in more and more eating establishments.

With the new consumer demand for improved nutrition, better quality products, and stabilized prices, supplemental protein in foods is a natural development. One that's bound to become more in demand, according to nutritionists. But a few problems about identity still remain to be ironed out.

The consumer has a right to know when he's getting a product that's improved. That way he can objectively compare and patronize those establishments that offer the best value for the money.

She Overcomes Winter With 'Flower Power'

by LOIS SEILER

When Mrs. Dale E. Schafernak of Addison plans a dinner party, the table setting is as important as the food.

An expert flower arranger as well as good cook, Judith Schafernak knows that an attractive atmosphere enhances the enjoyment of a meal. Thus, to her, a suitable flower arrangement is as essential to a well-planned party as the proper preparation of the menu itself.

Artistic by nature, Judith has always been creative, craft projects being her specialty. After moving to their home at 413 Wesley Drive, Addison, she and her husband, Dale, an industrial designer, turned their talents towards the garden. They designed their own landscaping, which has since won both first and second place awards in the flower garden competition sponsored by the Villa Park Men's Garden Club.

Dale is recording secretary of this group, which is the largest men's garden club in the country, while Judith is a past-president of the Addison Community Garden Club and is now serving as its program chairman.

Because she wanted to surround herself with the things she grew and bring the outdoors in, Judith became interested in flower arranging. She has won several major awards on the local level for her outstanding arrangements, as well as a blue ribbon award at the World Garden Show held at the Amphitheater.

"I love all aspects of Garden Club work," Judith exclaimed. A student judge for the Garden Club of Illinois, she is working towards being a national judge.

It was natural for Judith to utilize her creative instincts in the kitchen, too. She devised a recipe for stuffed Rock Cornish Hens that is elegant and unusual dinner fare.

Rather than stuff the whole hens, Judith cuts them in half and roasts them first, then turns the halves over and fills the cavity of each with a tasty rice mixture. A sprinkling of paprika adds color to the savory stuffed hens.

To complement both the appearance and flavor of this entree, Judith suggests a green vegetable, such as broccoli, green beans with bacon bits or peas, and a special tossed salad.

She concocted the salad herself, too, combining lettuce, cucumber and onion slices with a sour cream dressing. The dressing has a sweet-sour flavor with just the right amount of tang to offset the richness of the hens.

As the finale for this elegant meal Judith likes to serve an impressive dessert such as a chocolate torte or a rum cake topped with sugared strawberries.

Along with gardening and cooking, Judith enjoys sewing for herself and her three daughters, Krina, 8, Daria, 5, and Melissa, 2 years old. A former school teacher, she is now active in the PTA at Wesley School.

Her green thumb also extends indoors where she grows over 100 African violet plants and has blue ribbons as evidence of her expertise in this endeavor, too.

after onions are transparent.

Mix together onion, mushrooms and rice. Turn over Cornish hens, skin side down in roasting pan, and fill cavities with rice mixture. Sprinkle with paprika and return to 350 degree oven for an additional 15 minutes. Serves 6.

TOSSED SALAD WITH SOUR CREAM DRESSING

1 head Iceberg lettuce, broken up
1 cucumber, thinly-sliced
1/2 red onion, sliced into rings
1 cup sour cream
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon white vinegar

Combine lettuce, cucumber and onion in a salad bowl.

Mix together the sour cream, sugar and vinegar. About 15 minutes before serving, pour over salad. Toss lightly and chill. Serves 6 or more.

Edible Topiary Tree

STUFFED CORNISH HENS

4 one-pound Rock Cornish game hens
3 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, minced
1 cup uncooked rice
2 cups water
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
Paprika

Split Cornish hens into halves. Wash; pat dry. Season with salt and pepper and place in roasting pan, skin side up. Brush with melted butter. Roast 45 minutes at 350 degrees, basting frequently.

Place the rice, water and salt into a two-quart saucepan. Bring to a full boil; turn heat down low and cover. Simmer until all water is absorbed, about 14 minutes. Then set aside with lid on, for an additional 10 minutes.

Saute onion in butter. If fresh mushrooms are used they may be browned together with onion. If substituting prepared mushrooms, drain liquid and add

6" styrofoam ball tree branch painted white paraffin soup bowl cauliflower cherry tomatoes mushrooms green peppers string beans
endive

Secure green styrofoam ball onto tree branch. Melt paraffin and pour into soup bowl holding branch in place until hardened. (Note: when wax removal is desired, place bowl in freezer and wax cake will lift out easily.) Cover styrofoam ball with parsley, secured with straight pins. Clean and prepare edibles and arrange attractively over tree-top, attaching with toothpicks. The variations are as unlimited as your imagination.

DURING THE INDOOR months when fresh blossoms from the garden are non-existent, create your own Garden of Eden centerpiece with edible items from the produce market. Selecting a love apple from her "Please Eat Me Tree" is Judith Schafernak of Addison. Cauli-flowerets, cherry tomatoes, mushrooms, green peppers, string beans, parsley and endive can be combined as an attractive accent and menu accompaniment for almost any table setting.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

A Greek Style Dinner Party

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Why not have a Greek theme at your next dinner party? Serve Moussaka with hard rolls and a large tossed Greek salad, adding the traditional Greek feta cheese and olives. For dessert serve the Melomakarona cookies below. I would also suggest Ouzo as an after dinner treat. This is served with water over ice.

Of course, Moussaka need not be reserved for dinner parties alone. Because a single recipe makes a rather large amount, divide it into several serving dishes, make one and freeze the rest. Your family is sure to like this recipe, the national favorite of Greece. Although the list of ingredients is long, the recipe is really quite simple to make.

Single recipe yields 8 to 10 servings.

MOUSSAKA

2 medium sized egg plants salt
1 1-pound can stewed tomatoes approximately 1/2 cup butter or vegetable oil
2 cups chopped frozen onions
2 pounds ground lean lamb juice of 1/2 lemon
1 clove garlic, minced or pressed
1 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1/4 cup snipped parsley
1 tablespoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 cup flour
2 cups milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/8 teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups (1 pint)
ricotta cheese
1/2 cup grated parmesan cheese
3 eggs, beaten

Pare egg plant and cut lengthwise into 3/8-inch thick slices. Sprinkle with salt and set aside. This salting draws out excess liquid and bitterness. However, if the egg plants are fairly young and do not have any bitterness this step is not necessary. To determine whether this is necessary, simply taste a small piece of the egg plant.

Thoroughly drain the juice from the stewed tomatoes. When completely drained, chop the pulp and set aside. In 2 tablespoons of butter or vegetable oil saute onions until soft. Add lamb, lemon juice and garlic. Continue cooking over medium heat, stirring until all the meat is browned. Now add chopped tomatoes, tomato sauce, parsley, 1 tablespoon of salt and cinnamon. Cook, stirring, until liquids disappear. With a paper towel dry egg plants and saute in a large skillet, using approximately 2 tablespoons of butter or vegetable oil with each batch. Continue cooking until the egg plant slices are tender all the way through. In a separate pan melt 2 tablespoons of butter, add flour and continue cooking until completely blended. Now add milk, salt and nutmeg and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Reduce heat and continue cooking for 5 minutes. Cool slightly before adding cheeses and beaten eggs. Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Layer the egg plant in the bottom of a large 13x9x2-inch baking dish or several smaller ones. Spoon half the meat mixture over the egg plant and repeat layers. After all the egg plant slices and meat mixture has been layered, spoon cheese sauce over the top. Bake for 30 minutes. Brown top under the broiler if necessary. Remove from the oven and let stand 15 minutes. Slice into squares, much as you would a cake. Serve immediately.

To Freeze: Freeze assembled casserole before baking. Make sure that dish is wrapped in freezer proof material, date, label and freeze immediately.

To Serve When Frozen: Thaw completely. Follow above baking directions.

GREEK MELOMACARONA COOKIES

A favorite Greek cookie — always served at Christmastime — but delicious anytime. They are a bit more trouble than the usual cookies, but definitely worth the effort.

Single recipe yields approximately 8 dozen cookies.

1 cup (2 sticks) butter
1 cup vegetable oil
2 egg yolks
7/8 cup sugar
2 tablespoons bourbon

1/3 cup orange juice grated rind of 1 orange
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/4 teaspoon mace
1/4 teaspoon cloves
6 1/4 cups flour
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 1/2 cups honey
1 1/2 cups water
2 tablespoons confectioners
sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
grated rind of 1 orange
1/2 cup finely chopped walnuts
Preheat oven to 350 degrees.
Cream butter until light and fluffy. Then slowly add vegetable oil. When this is well blended add egg yolks and sugar, and continue beating until mixture is very light and fluffy. Continue mixing at medium speed. Now add remaining ingredients of bourbon, orange juice, grated orange rind, vanilla, baking powder, soda, cinnamon, mace and cloves. When this is all well blended add flour 1 cup at a time, mixing well after each addition.

Cookies may be formed and molded in the hand and on the pan. Use ungreased cookie sheets. Using a generous teaspoon of dough form and flatten into an oblong oval. Cookies should be at least 1/4-inch thick. Cookies may be placed close together on baking sheet as they do not spread. Bake in a 350-degree oven until lightly browned (about 15 minutes). Remove from pan and set on absorbent paper.

In a large flat skillet combine sugar, honey and water. Bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Lower heat and simmer for 10 minutes. In a small dish combine confectioners sugar, cinnamon, orange rind and walnuts, mixing well. As soon as time permits, place baked cookies in simmering honey and sugar mixture. Float for 1/2 minute, then turn cookies over and float for another 1/2 minute. Remove cookies with a slotted spoon onto waxed lined baking sheets. Sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon-nut mixture. Let cookies set out for 1 to 2 hours to properly "dry out."

To freeze: Put cookies in a large flat freezer container in single layers, separated by waxed paper. Freeze.

To serve: Remove those cookies that you intend to use and thaw.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

More and more readers write or call to request some quick and easy recipes — which also are delicious. Well, here's one which combines delicate flavors of chicken breasts and artichokes with the robustness of bacon. Preparation can't require more than 15 minutes if all ingredients are on hand and the cooking time doesn't require close supervision.

To serve four, pick up at your grocer's, four large chicken breasts and a tall can of artichoke hearts. Wash chicken and wipe dry. Open the artichoke hearts, drain and space them well in the bottom of a lightly buttered roasting pan.

Place the chicken breasts atop the artichokes and sprinkle with a mixture of 2 teaspoons leaf oregano, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper, and 1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning.

SPREAD A STRIP of bacon over each chicken breast. Mix 1/2 cup chicken consommé with 1/2 cup dry vermouth and pour over. Preheat oven to 325 degrees and cook for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Baste once or twice.

Arrange chicken pieces and artichokes on heated platter or serve on individual heated plates, garnished with parsley.

To serve with the chicken breasts, a quick and easy vegetable dish, also excellent to the taste.

Preparation time, practically nil and cooking time 15 minutes before the chicken is ready. In a saucepan melt 1 1/2 tablespoons butter and in it saute gently 1/2 cup chopped green onions.

Add 1/2 cup boiling water, a 10-ounce package of frozen peas. Season with 1/2 teaspoon sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt, a pinch of marjoram, 1 tablespoon finely minced parsley, and several dashes of freshly ground black pepper. Cover and cook over low heat 10 minutes or until peas are tender. Drain before serving.

The Miracle Of Milk

by LAWRENCE M. HURSH, M.D.

Consultant, National Dairy Council
When you think about it, those quarts and gallons of milk that American families use each day are a miracle. Milk is probably the original convenience food — not just from mother to infant, but arriving in your home as it does, ready to pour and serve. And the technology that brings it to you each day from farm to family is as advanced as any in American industry.

For milk is unique in that the dairy industry operates under more voluntary and legal regulations than any other food. Its purity is guarded by a vast array of techniques, procedures, and tests that protect the consumer, starting with the dairy animals and ending at your store's dairy case or your home refrigerator.

Whole milk contains not less than 3.25 per cent milk fat and not less than 8.25 per cent milk solids-not-fat. Individual states set their own laws and these percentages can vary somewhat with each state. Most whole milk in the United States is pasteurized and homogenized. An 8-ounce glass of whole milk contains about 160 calories.

In contrast to whole milk, skim milk is fresh whole milk that has had the fat removed. Thus, skim milk contains only an average 90 calories for each glass. Again, standards in different states vary but the milk fat in skim will usually be between 0.1 per cent to two per cent. Skim milk's nutritive value is the same as whole milk except for the milk fat and vitamin A that it does not contain. Many dairies, though, add vitamin A and D.

Then there is the so-called two per cent milk.

As the name implies, two per cent milk contains two per cent milk fat. Thus it is a richer product than skim milk, but does not have as much fat as whole milk. It is made from fresh whole milk and skim milk, and nets out at about 150 calories per 8-ounce glass. Many dairies add nonfat dry milk and various vitamin and/or mineral preparations.

Make sure that you're as careful in handling milk after it is in your home as dairymen have been in bringing it from the farm to you. Your general rule should be to keep milk clean, cool, and covered.

Baked Corned Beef Burgers

A California Delight

California cooking is as freewheeling and uninhibited a cuisine as you will ever encounter. Out of a patchwork culinary tradition made up of bits and pieces from just about every corner of the world, the California cook can always find something imaginative and fresh for the old family menu.

Brussels sprouts for example. Full of crunch and flavor they are . . . and very beautiful to look at . . . like very crisp flowers. And they are California's own. They flourish along a dewy strip of Pacific coast and are picked and frozen in their prime so you may find them at all seasons of the year in your supermarket.

So what's new with Brussels sprouts? A fast and rollicking boil with cloves and pepper and orange peel and a sauce of Orange Hollandaise. New also is Brussels sprouts served with a savory mustard butter.

BRUSSELS SPROUTS WITH ORANGE HOLLANDAISE

4 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts

8 whole cloves
1¼ teaspoons grated orange peel
1/8 teaspoon pepper
6 egg yolks
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper and nutmeg
5 tablespoons orange juice
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup butter or margarine, melted

Cook Brussels sprouts with cloves, ½ teaspoon orange peel and 1/8 teaspoon pepper covered in 1-inch boiling salted water 5 to 10 minutes or until just tender; drain and keep warm. Combine yolks, remaining orange peel and seasonings in electric blender; blend 5 seconds. Blend in orange and lemon juice over low speed, then gradually add bubbling hot butter blending until thick. Pour into heat-proof dish; keep warm over hot water, stirring occasionally. Serve with hot Brussels sprouts.

Makes 8 servings.

MUSTARD BUTTER WITH SPROUTS

½ cup butter
1½ tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen California Brussels sprouts
Cream butter with mustard, parsley and garlic powder. Cook Brussels sprouts as directed on package. Drain if necessary. Serve topped with soft mustard butter.
Makes 6 servings.

Carrots That Cater

It's one thing to urge your family "Eat your vegetables, they're good for you!" . . . quite another to make them eager vegetable eaters because they really enjoy them. Too often vegetables are the ho hum course in the meal, rather than the jolly ho ho.

We all know that vegetables are good for us, a powerhouse of vitamins and minerals, yet surprisingly low in calories. Take carrots for example, they are rich in Vitamin A for good eyesight, healthy skin, growth and resistance to infection.

The secret of success in serving vegetables is often in the way they are presented. If you'd like your family to clamor for carrots, treat them to Fruited Honey Glazed Carrots.

The crinkle cut carrots are glazed with honey to give them a subtle sweet flavor, then frozen in a flavor-tight cooking pouch for ease of preparation. They're new in your grocer's freezer case. Chopped dates, crushed pineapple and macadamia nuts are the flavor additions that give a hint of Hawaii to the carrots and makes them people pleasers!

FRUITED HONEY GLAZED CARROTS

1 16-ounce package honey glazed crinkle cut carrots frozen in flavor-tight cooking pouch
2 tablespoons chopped dates
2 tablespoons crushed pineapple, drained
1 tablespoon pineapple juice
Chopped macadamia nuts or cashews
Cook carrots according to package directions. Combine carrots with dates, pineapple and pineapple juice. Garnish with nuts.

Test Your Buying 'Know-How'

The myriad supplies of canned and frozen vegetables found in today's food buyer. And it's no wonder, for a multi-test prepared by the U.S. Department of

The following VQ (vegetable quotient) wishes and prices confront the shopper. The following VQ (vegetable quotient) wishes and prices confront the shopper. The following VQ (vegetable quotient) wishes and prices confront the shopper.

1. Vegetables that are canned and frozen are

a. leftover fresh vegetables
b. grown especially for canning or freezing.
c. grown in hothouses.

(b) Grown especially for canning or freezing. Because vegetables should be canned or frozen as soon as possible after harvest to retain their nutritional value and quality, canners and freezers usually contract to buy vegetables before they are planted. The vegetables are then delivered to the processing plant as soon as they are harvested, while they are at their best.

Some vegetable varieties have been developed especially for freezing or canning. Hothouse vegetables are usually sold as fresh vegetables.

2. The least expensive styles of vegetables are

a. French-style or julienne.
b. whole vegetables.
c. dices, short cuts, or pieces.

(c) Dices, short cuts, or pieces. Whole vegetables usually cost more than cut styles, because it is hard to keep these fragile products whole during processing. French-style or julienne vegetables, which are sliced lengthwise, are more costly to process than other cut styles. Short cuts, dices, and pieces are least expensive, and a good buy for use in soups, stews or souffles.

3. You can tell a canned or frozen vegetable is of high quality by its

a. taste.
b. appearance.
c. price.
d. all of these.

(d) All of these. Top quality canned and frozen vegetables are the most tender and flavorful and most uniform in color and shape or size. They therefore usually cost more than lower qualities.

4. The term "U.S. Fancy" on a can or frozen package of vegetables refers to a. the style of the vegetable.

b. its quality.
c. the sauce it is packed in.
d. the size of the can or package.

(b) Its quality. U.S. Fancy is another name for U.S. Grade A. U.S. Grades A, B and C were established by USDA to describe different levels of quality in canned and frozen vegetables.

U.S. Grade A, top quality, is the kind of vegetable you'd probably serve at special meals.

U.S. Grade B (or Extra Standard) vegetables are of the next highest quality; they look and taste almost as good as U.S. Grade A and are good for everyday meals or for use in casseroles or gelatin salads.

U.S. Grade C (or Standard) vegetables are more mature and not as uniform in color and flavor as the higher grades. They are a thrifty buy for use in dishes where appearance of the vegetable is not important.

When the U.S. grade name is shown on a label, it means the vegetables have been officially graded by USDA.

5. Bulging or swelling of a can indicates a. spoilage.

b. the can was dropped.
c. overpacking.

(a) Spoilage. Don't buy or use cans that are bulged or swelling.

6. When buying frozen vegetables, you should make sure the package is a. wet.

b. soft.
c. firm.

(c) Firm. Don't buy soft, limp, wet or sweating packages; these are signs that the vegetables have defrosted or are in the process of defrosting. The vegetables may be safe to eat, but normally there will be a loss of quality.

7. The U.S. Department of Agriculture inspects all canned and frozen vegetables for wholesomeness.

a. True.
b. False.

(b) False. The U.S. Department of Agriculture does inspect canned and frozen vegetables for quality, upon request of processors, but assurance of the wholesomeness of these products is the responsibility of the Food and Drug Administration.

Inspection for quality (grading) is not required by law and processors must pay a fee for the service. Under USDA's continuous inspection program, an inspector is on duty in the processing plant at all times the plant is operating. In addition to checking the quality of the product, he checks the plant and equipment for cleanliness.

When vegetables are packed under continuous USDA inspection, the U.S. grade name may be shown on the can or the package. The grade name and the statement, "Packed under continuous inspection of the U.S. Department of Agriculture," may also be shown within the USDA shield.

8. Labels on canned and frozen vegetables are required by Federal law to show

a. the number of servings.
b. the grade and quality of the vegetable.
c. the style of the vegetable.
(c) The style of the vegetable. The Schaumburg Eyes Plans For Transit Center

by MARY REIFSCHEIDER

A transportation center, including a railroad station, parking areas and bus services, may be built with federal funds in Schaumburg.

Thomas Ploss, chairman of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific Railroad Project Transi-Plan, told Schaumburg officials and residents Tuesday that such a center is being considered for the spot where the proposed Elgin-O'Hare Expressway crosses the Milwaukee Road's tracks in southwestern Schaumburg.

Project Transi-Plan has spearheaded the move to create the Northwest Suburban Transit District. Suburban communities served by the Milwaukee Road's western line from Elmwood Park to Elgin have been asked to participate in the district.

The district, which nine communities have joined and Schaumburg is considering joining, will be eligible to receive federal funds to improve public transportation facilities.

THE MILWAUKEE ROAD wants the district formed to get additional equipment that it will lease for commuter service.

The deadline for joining in the district is Jan. 31. Each community that is part of the district will have a representative to a board that will govern the district.

Ploss said the district will not levy taxes to pay for additional equipment the Milwaukee Road will use.

Passenger service on the western line is growing at a rate of five per cent per year, Ploss said. The Milwaukee Road does not have sufficient revenue to buy more passenger cars and engines to serve commuters, Ploss said.

The district could improve other phases of public transportation such as buses, Ploss said.

Ploss implied that the chances of Schaumburg getting a commuter station without joining the district wouldn't be too great. Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates commuters using the Milwaukee Road must now drive to Roselle, Melrose Park or the Oakbrook station in Hanover Park.

Ploss said the Roselle station is now the busiest along the line, with about 1,100 passengers daily. The second largest is Elgin with 850.

MUCH OF THE ROSELLE station traffic comes from Schaumburg Township, he said.

The district will decide where stations are located.

Representatives to the district are appointed by the village president, Ploss said. The district can issue revenue bonds to purchase equipment. Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel said if the bonds are defaulted, the bond holders, not the taxpayers in the transportation district would be stuck.

Ploss said only three towns, including Schaumburg, Streamwood and Franklin Park, have not made a decision about joining the district. The district will be formed whether or not these communities join.

Schaumburg trustees indicated their intent to join the district. The ordinance had its first reading Tuesday and will come before the board for final action Jan. 26.

Similar districts have been formed with the Burlington Railroad and the Illinois Central Railroad in other sections of the metropolitan area.

The districts receive two-thirds funds from the federal government for equipment. Ploss said this is expected to be upped to 90 per cent this year.

Interest Rate Cut To Affect Buyers

by JERRY THOMAS

The reduced interest rate ceiling on Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgages will create an increased interest — in buying, predict Schaumburg and Hanover Township builders.

Major builders in Schaumburg, Hanover Park and Hoffman Estates have been predicting a "banner sales year" for 1971 since last summer.

This week's announcement by George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development, that the ceiling on government guaranteed home loans has been reduced to 7.5 per cent changed their mind.

This second reduction in less than two months changed their reaction from confident to downright ecstatic.

3-H BUILDERS in Hanover Park have put in over 2,000 homes. A new 800 acre annexation into DuPage County opens the door to more building of single family homes and an "excellent" sales year. Especially in view of the reduction, said general sales manager William Maybrook.

Maybrook said "naturally when interest rates go down we anticipate the mortgage market will open up, and to a degree so will the buyer."

3-H doesn't see any tremendously dramatic change since sales have been good, but the reduction will be meaningful, promised Maybrook.

"To be dramatic, or really felt in the home buyers pocketbook, land, construction and all other costs must go down too," said Maybrook.

MAYBROOK SIMPLIFIED the reduction by explaining that to a homeowner it means a savings of 35 cents per thousand dollars per month on his mortgage.

Taking into consideration the last reduction and this week's reduction this could mean about $15 a month less if a man bought a $28,000 home.

"That $15 could mean the difference between qualifying for a FHA or VA loan or not," he said.

Larwin Illinois Inc. Builders in Hanover Park had an excellent market in 1970 and believes '71 will be a super excellent sales year.

Ed Kirk, vice president and of Larwin, builders of Greenbrook Country in DuPage County, said anything that tends to reduce costs of a home is a good reason for buying.

"I look forward to more people being home owners and the reduction is sure to stimulate interest in buying," said Kirk.

KIRK NOTED that most of Larwin's sales have been made using conventional financing.

Campanelli Bros. Builders in Schaumburg uses conventional mortgages; FHA and VA account for about 1/3 each of sales said Vince Carsello, sales manager.

"Wonderful, for us and the young people," he said.

Carsello said Campanelli builders sees the reduced ceilings as a direct boon to young home buyers.

He believes the newly marrieds are the backbone of the nation and the reduced interest may make the difference between the ability to qualify or not.

Crane Called Nuisance, Ask Its Removal

The crane which has sat idle for weeks at the corner of Higgins Road and Aztec Lane in Hoffman Estates will soon be used again, Wallace Bolm, public works superintendent said this week.

His comment came in answer to Trustee Edward Hennessy's question, "When will the crane be removed?"

Hennessy said the crane is a nuisance and hazard to children who play on it. He added that several of his neighbors have asked him to eliminate the possible dangers the crane possesses.

Bolm said the crane is needed on the site because of some re-tunneling to be done on the sewer line being installed for Hoffman Estates.

A letter will be sent to the contractor on the sewer job asking that a date be stated when the crane will be removed.

If the crane is not gone by the date stated, the village will take action against the contractor. The letter was to be sent at the suggestion of Village Atty. Edward Hofert.

Seek To Expand Boys Club Barn

by STEVE NOVICK

Exciting plans are in the making by leaders of the Hoffman Estates Boys Club.

Nightly in Hoffman Estates 40 to 50 boys gather at the Boys Club barn behind village hall for a supervised program of games.

But, leaders at the club now want to expand their facility, converted from a partially burned out barn, to include boys older than the grade school group usually found at the club.

Plans include the construction of a gym facility on the club's upper level with a half court basketball court and space for gymnastics and wrestling. The project is expected to cost $5,000 in materials alone. Labor for the construction will be volunteered, said Boys Club officials. The group is waiting for an announcement from the Hoffman Estates Jaycees saying Jaycee help will be available.

Boys Club president Ed Cyrier and Vice Pres. Bob Hill this week told of the club's history and major renovation on the first floor last year with only $100 being spent.

WALKING INTO the club, dark paneling greets the walls to the eye level of many of the small boys enjoying the facility.

Fresh paint, inside and out is evident on the remaining walls.

A room with two pool tables sits on the barn's wing where only a charted frame once stood. The pool room's floor is cushioned with a patch work of carpet tiles set from scraps donated by a local merchant.

The main room has pin ball machines, vending machines, table hockey and checker games. A juke box once used for teen dances sits usable in a corner.

A ceramic tile bathroom is available for young ladies visiting the club and work to tile the boys room is underway.

The paneling came out of Tony Stompanato's basement, a man long active with the club.

THE PAINT was donated by an area merchant who prefers to remain anonymous.

Stompanato, along with "Ike" Eisenhower and Bob Taft did most of the tiling, plumbing and paneling work in the club last year.

The paint work on interior walls was done by the boys who use the club and their mothers. The external walls, last summer, were painted by the Hoffman Estates Jaycees.

It's a facility made from the muscle and sweat of community members who have worked and often struggled over the years to keep the club alive.

The Hoffman Estates Boys Club was founded in 1961 and operated out of local

Boys Face Expulsion After Blast

Two Schaumburg boys, aged 14 and 16, are being charged with criminal damage to property after they allegedly exploded a M-80 firecracker in a Schaumburg High School restroom Monday morning.

The firecracker, said by school principal Carl Weimer to be equivalent to a quarter stick of dynamite, exploded at about 9:30 a.m. Monday in a boys lavatory off a first floor hallway and opposite the school cafeteria. No one was injured, but damage to the lavatory is listed by police at about $150.

Just prior to the explosion, two boys, identified by teachers and students in nearby classrooms, were seen leaving the restroom and running down the hall, said Weimer.

WEIMER SPOKE TO the students over the school's public address system that morning, explaining what had happened and expressing his concern for the safety of students. School police consultant Kenneth Alley handled the investigation.

The boys are to be taken before the Dist. 211 Board of Education tonight for an expulsion hearing. Later they will appear in Cook County Family Court on the property damage charge, said Police Chief Martin Conroy. They also may be charged with violation of a village ordinance prohibiting firecrackers, said Conroy.

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steel. From Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacca, and Margaret Henney — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearing.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Interest Rate Is Reduced

indicate home buying this year will be "great," he predicts.

Sheffield Towne, a townhouse development of Levitt Builders in Schaumburg, opened this past summer.

Cliff Johnson, sales manager at Sheffield Towne said last year was good and this year considering the reduction should be better than good.

Cheaper payments, make it easier to qualify and anything that makes it easier to buy helps, he said.

Levitt uses FHA and VA loans, but very few people go out and get their own financing. The builder usually does this and "does it best," said Johnson.

He pointed out that the builder is still faced with the task of finding a lending institution willing to advance money at the government ceiling.

HANOVER BUILDERS in Hanover Park wasn't impressed with the reduction. "We don't go FHA or VA, too much red tape, too complicated and the discount points were too high," said a salesman.

However Kaufmann and Broad home salesman Don Hanson said "it's a tremendous shot in the arm."

Hanson, who acts as a salesman in the K and B Barrington Square townhouse development in Hoffman Estates, said two home buyers were asking about the new rate as early as Wednesday morning.

"It proved to me people have been watching the rates, and most of our home buyers are looking for FHA and VA loans," said Hanson.

Barrington Square has sold about 350 townhouses and will build about 1,400 more in the next two years.

"SALES FOR THIS year should be fantastic," predicts Hanson.

Lancer Corporation in Schaumburg sells homes in the $35,000 to $55,000 bracket.

Most of their financing is on a 20 percent down conventional loan but, psychologically the announcement will affect them too.

Builders who use government guaranteed loans agreed that the money difference meant a lot to their customers but even those who sold high priced homes and did not depend on the FHA or VA financing agreed all sales go up when interest rates go down.

Why? "It's just a generally more relaxed market and people don't hold on so hard when they hear interest rates are down," said Carsello.

"They are definitely in a buying mood," Carsello said.

Board Told: Don't Alter Code

Sol Alfe, representing the Concerned Citizens of Schaumburg steering committee, told village officials Tuesday, "We don't want building codes in Schaumburg altered."

Alfe, Phil Simmerer from the same group, and about 45 Schaumburg residents attended Tuesday's board session to verify that Schaumburg officials would not permit so-called low or moderate-income housing to be built in the village.

The issue was raised last week when the press disclosed that Campanelli Brothers had built one home in violation of Schaumburg building codes. The home had bedrooms that did not meet the 100 square foot minimum requirement.

LAST FRIDAY Mayor Robert O. Atcher issued a statement saying the house would have to be altered or torn down. It cannot be sold or built in Schaumburg, he said. His full statement appeared in Monday's Herald.

His statement was passed out to residents at Tuesday's meeting.

Campanelli's experimental house was an attempt to meet Federal Housing Authority Title 235 requirements. That program subsidizes interest payments for low and moderate-income families.

"I talked with Mr. Campanelli today and he has learned he can't build homes in Schaumburg that meet our requirements under Title 235," Atcher said. That statement brought applause from the audience.

Simmerer asked, "Will we ever have low-cost housing in Schaumburg?"

Atcher answered, "In my opinion, no, unless the federal government forces the issue."

TRUSTEES, at Simmerer's request were polled for their views of low-cost housing.

Trustees Sig Thorsen and Mat Helsper said they were against low-cost housing. Trustee Ray Kessel said, "This involves two questions, including a moral one. But since the people I represent are against it, I can't be in favor of it."

Trustee Gordon Mullins said, "If builders can put in housing for low-income families following Schaumburg building codes, there'd be low-income housing. I don't think this will happen."

Trustee James Guthrie said the village should maintain its quality standards for building. Trustee Jack Larsen was absent.

Musicrama Unit Slates Concert

Theron Spurr

Musicrama, a Hoffman Estates civic group, will sponsor a program of secular and sacred music at 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Hillcrest School, 201 Hillcrest, Hoffman Estates Called a Singarama, the program will focus on performances by the Theron Spurr family of Joliet. The family has recorded its music, and performed in concerts across the country. In their performance, the family will use taped background music by Ralph Carmichael and Thurlow Spurr's Spurlows, a group directed by Theron Spurr's brother.

Also singing will be the Conaires, a mixed chorus, and the Conettes, a girl's chorus, both of Conant High School. They will be directed by their teacher, Dr. Donald Breshears

An artist, Burnette Pletan, who complete a two by four foot painting in 20 minutes, will appear, billed as The World's Fastest Artist.

Jack Thompson, a Musicrama member, will be master of ceremonies. Hosts will be Mr. and Mrs. James Berndt of 251 Highland Blvd., Hoffman Estates. Admission is free

Helgeson Won't Run Again

Harris Helgeson

Harris Helgeson, a 22-year veteran of the High School Dist. 211 School Board, has announced he will not seek reelection in the April 10 school board elections.

Helgeson is the second Dist. 211 incumbent to announce his retirement from the board. Lyle Johnson of Hoffman Estates, the other Dist. 211 board member up for reelection, has also said he will not run again this year.

Helgeson joined the Dist. 211 board in 1948. He has lived in Palatine since 1921 and is a graduate of Palatine High School.

"I think we have fine students and a good administration and I have enjoyed working with the school board for so long, but I think it is time to get someone new on the board," Helgeson said.

"The board will be beginning a new building program this spring and it will be a good time for someone new to come on the board," he continued.

Both Helgeson and Johnson are announcing their decision not to run again early so that Dist. 211 residents will have time to consider replacements. "I hope some good people will give the upcoming election some thought. With two places on the seven-member board vacant, there is a good opportunity for new people to enter the election race," Johnson said in December.

Residents seeking election to the Dist. 211 board must submit petitions with 50 valid signatures to the district's business office between Feb. 24 and March 19. Petitions will be available after the Jan. 28 school board meeting.

Gymnastics and tumbling for boys and girls in grades 1-6 will be on Friday from 4:00 to 4:45 p.m. beginning Feb. 5.

schools two nights a week.

In 1963 club officials took over the barn with its partially burned out wing.

TWO YEARS LATER the barn's doors were opened for boys club activity that included leather craft, photography and judo.

The Titans football team was also started in 1965 which proved to be the staple for the Boys Club across recent years.

Teen dances started in 1967 with live bands. During that period the main room was painted black and had psychedelic lights. The dances, however, were too much of a financial strain and the youngsters began drifting away from the dance programs.

For a six month period in 1967 the barn was closed for lack of funds, but since the re-opening Boys Club officials have been able to keep the facility "above water."

The football program has remained the biggest attraction. In 1969 a second football team, the Lancers, was organized and last fall, the Knights, for pee wee players got its start.

THE BOYS CLUB football program has taken its teams to play in Ohio and Missouri. Last Thanksgiving two teams, one from Ohio and another from New York were hosted by the Hoffman Estates group.

The local teams won both games against the out of state challengers, but at a dinner for 400 people, held at St. Hubert's Catholic Church, everyone received prizes; Cyrier said.

The Boys Club is not exclusive, he added.

Across the years the Girl Scouts, Guild

Players, and Independence Day Committee have used the facility.

With the expansion program the Jaycees are expected to use the club as their regular meeting place. Under proper conditions the facility will be available to other groups too, he added.

MOVIE NIGHT IS soon to begin at the club every other Wednesday night. Films of big sporting events and vocational films will be shown to the boys.

The club's annual homecoming parade and beauty pageant will continue as part of the football program.

Reformation of an organized women's auxiliary and girl's night at the Boy's Club is also being considered.

The election of new Boys Club officers and the planning of new programs will be taken up at the group's annual meeting. It will be held Feb. 2, at the Boys Club barn beginning at 7:30 p.m.

All members of the community are invited to attend and participate, Cyrier said.

In addition to Cyrier and Hill, the club's current officers are Bill Guth, secretary; and Ken Kennitz, treasurer.

Policy decisions are made by a 13 man board of directors.

OK School Boundary Change

by JUDY BRANDES

Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 53 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and 214. Dist. 211 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

Moratorium Asked On Zone Requests

Jack Pahl, Elk Grove Village president, has asked the Cook County Zoning Board to place a moratorium on rezoning requests near Elk Grove Village.

Pahl said he wants the moratorium to be in effect until the county planning commission and the village can meet to agree on future land use in the unincorporated areas surrounding the 21,541 population community.

The village and county have been at odds over a decision by the Cook County Board to rezone a 50-acre tract for 1,336 units, largely multiple-family dwellings, just outside Elk Grove Village.

The village has opposed the decision, saying the development is contrary to its overall plan for development of the community.

Pahl said he wants county authorities to sit down with village officials to agree on land usage and then present it to the property owners for their consideration.

A CASE IN POINT occurred Monday

when the county zoning board had a hearing on a request for a service station at the northeast corner of Rte. 53 and Devon Avenue.

Testifying before the zoning board, Pahl said if the request was granted it would be spot zoning and not in keeping with the Elk Grove Village comprehensive plan. It would set a precedent for strip commercial zoning, he said.

Pahl asked for the moratorium and said he would hope to work with the county in the future on the development of the unincorporated areas which are largely undeveloped.

the village's many departments.

TRYING TO LAY out in a manner most beneficial an area for computers was one example of difficulty Cowin expressed.

The municipal building committee is in general agreement, but some details still have to be worked out, Lind added.

He said all plans should be finalized in time to draw up specifications and let bids in March.

Purchase of the new facility's site should be closed in the last week of January. The property is 6.69 acres on the north side of Golf Road, west of the Golf-Higgins Roads intersection.

The $151,000 purchase price for the site will be part of the $1.1 million cost for the new police and municipal building.

Under the present situation, any developer that comes to the county can make a request for a project and the village is then left to the whim of the developer, Pahl said.

THE SOUTHWEST sector outside of Elk Grove Village has been of special concern to village trustees in the light of county board decisions approving of multiple-family developments there.

The area is north of Devon Avenue and east of the I-90 Expressway under construction.

In 1969 the county rezoned 27 acres for about 400 dwellings near there and in December granted rezoning for the 1,336 units nearby. Another developer in the area has also asked the village to be annexed so he can build multiples.

According to the village, it has designated the area for single-family homes, in its comprehensive plan.

City Hall Plans 'Refined'

Final "refinements and adjustments" are being made to the new Hoffman Estates police and municipal building plans, prior to ground breaking to take place in April. Trustee Bruce Lind said this week.

Lind is chairman of the village police and municipal building committee.

At a meeting last week, village officials met with Arch. Andrew McPherson of Otis Associates, Northbrook to discuss the plans, Lind added.

Additional space allocations in the 31,000 square foot building for the village's civil defense team was one of the items discussed, Lind said.

Trustee William Cowin added how it is difficult to project the needs for space of

Highrises Get Initial OK

Condominium highrises with a total of 480 units received an initial okay from the Schaumburg village board Tuesday.

Developer Elmer Gleich is proposing to build four 10-story buildings on 40 acres on the south side of Schaumburg Road, west of Meacham Road.

Trustees concurred with the recommendation of the Zoning Board of Appeals and directed village Atty. Jack M. Siegel to prepare an ordinance.

Gleich said the units will sell for $35,000 to $37,000. He said 440 or 92 per cent will be two bedroom units while the remainder will be three bedrooms.

The development will include a seven acre natural lake that was drained about 20 years ago.

According to stipulations, he must start the project within a year and complete it within five years.

School Dist. 54 will receive $100 per unit. No school site will be donated.

THE BUILDING COVERAGE is 77 per cent, while the paved area is 17 per cent. The green space will be 75 per cent.

Gleich agreed to donate a one-acre well site to the village and provide a well or the cost of extending water lines from Woodfield Mall Shopping Center.

The total value of the project is $14 million, Gleich said. He told trustees he has financing to begin construction.

This project is the first condominium complex proposed in Schaumburg.

Final action on the Gleich proposal cannot come until sometime in February since ordinances must now be read twice at a board meeting.

Hazardous Skating At South Twin

An amber flag which indicates restricted ice skating has been posted at South Twin Lake, Mrs. Anne M. Schuerings, director of parks and recreation for Hoffman Estates Park District, said Wednesday.

The amber flag was introduced as a third point in the park district's ice safety warning system by the park board last week.

Previously the district has used only a red flag, indicating unsafe conditions, and a green flag indicating that ice has reached safe depths.

With the institution of the amber flag, residents will be able to skate on park ponds before the ice core depths have reached eight inches, however, the warning will be posted at the discretion of the park director after careful inspection.

Skating is currently being permitted at Puffer, High Point and Highlands park ponds, under park district supervision.

These three areas are equipped with flood lights and warming houses and, weather conditions permitting, are open from 4 to 9 p.m. on weekdays.

The areas are open from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. weekends and skating guards are on duty during all times when ponds are open for skating.

Posting of the amber flag indicates that areas of a pond are safe for skating while parts of the ice may be restricted.

Use of the amber flag also means that warming houses may or may not be open and park equipment may not have been used for snow clearance and ice maintenance.

South Twin Lake is not equipped with either lights or a warming house although the district is attempting to clear that pond when possible.

Residents using the ponds are asked to observe all rules established by the park district which are posted at warming houses.

For further information of the skating program or to determine which locations are open contact park offices, 529-8800 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays or from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

After business hours the park district uses a recorded answering service to publicize ice depths and skating areas open.

Employee Insurance Plan Postponed

The village board in Hoffman Estates this week postponed the adoption of a health insurance plan for village employees.

The insurance program will be brought up for consideration again when meetings start to plan the budget for the village's new fiscal year, which begins April 1.

In the plan, each of the village's 65 employees would be eligible in case of illness to receive $75 a week for up to 26 weeks after their full sick leave pay runs out.

Employees currently receive 10 days sick leave a year that may be accumulated if not used.

The item was tabled on grounds that it should be offered to employees as a new benefit when "discussions" begin with various departments on pay and benefit increases for the new fiscal year.

Premium for the proposed health insurance coverage would cost the village about $2,400 a year, which officials said is not budgeted for the current fiscal year.

Police Were Kept Busy Last Year

The number of incidents investigated by Schaumburg village police in 1970 was 18 per cent higher than in 1969, Chief Martin Conroy told the Village Board Tuesday night.

The department handled a total of 11,825 incidents last year, as compared with 10,022 the year before, he said. In a written report submitted to the board, Conroy listed the types of incidents reported, the amount of time spent by his officers on their various duties, statistics on auto accidents, the types of offenses committed in the village, the number of offenses his men cleared, and the number of traffic violation citations issued.

Most categories showed significant increases for 1970, although some showed decreases.

VILLAGE OFFICERS spent 25,435 man hours patrolling in their cars, or 21 per cent more hours than in 1969, said Conroy. They covered a total of 344,096 miles. Their traffic direction duties took 1,171 man hours, a 43 per cent increase over the previous year.

The officers spent 3,152 hours investigating citizen complaints, or 82 per cent more time than in 1969. Juvenile investigations showed an 83 per cent increase in time spent, from 196 to 360 hours. Other time was spent on accident investigation; station duty; reports and interviews and training. The only area showing a decrease in time spent was follow-up investigation. The biggest increase was 113 per cent for training. In 1969, the men spent 648 hours in school, while in 1970 they spent 1,384 hours training.

The most frequently received citizen complaint was for loose animals, at 868, while the least frequently reported was accidental death, only four.

The complaint category showing the largest increase was fire alarms, jumping from none in 1969 to 36 in 1970. The department investigated six natural cause deaths last year, the same number as handled the year before. There were 21 suicide attempts in the village during 1970, but only 10 in 1969.

REPORTS OF suspicious vehicles seen in the village also rose, from 84 to 182, an increase of 116 per cent. Ambulance calls rose 60 per cent, from 179 to 287. Domestic problems increased, with 105 families summoning police to settle disputes last year, compared to 96 the year before.

The department made 53,385 checks of buildings for security during 1970, an increase of 24 per cent over the 42,828 security checks from 1969. It served 62 arrest warrants last year, and only 32 the previous year. Reports of abandoned autos dropped from 54 in 1969 to 45 in 1970.

The number of auto accidents in the village increased from 599 in 1969 to 742 last year. Of last year's accidents, 629 caused property damage, 108 left persons with injury and four were fatal. There were no fatal accidents in 1969.

WHILE THE DEPARTMENT had no murders, attempted murders or rapes during either year, there was one rape attempt in 1970. The attempted rape was not solved.

For the first time since 1968, the village experienced a robbery last year. Aggravated assaults, burglaries, attempted burglaries, thefts and auto thefts increased. Assaults went from three to five, burglaries from 32 to 72, attempted burglaries from 18 to 28, thefts from 124 to 256 and auto thefts from six to seven.

While police solved one more assault case last year than in the previous year, they solved fewer burglaries. Only five burglaries were cleared from the books for 1970, while 14 were cleared in 1969. Police solved three burglary attempts in 1970, two more than in 1969, and 49 thefts, 22 more than in 1969. Each year, four auto thefts were solved.

IN LESS SERIOUS offenses, bomb threats quadrupled, going from three in 1969 to 12 last year. Drug violations increased by nearly half, from 26 in 1969 to 38 in 1970.

By far the largest increase in minor offenses was in runaways. In 1969 only four runaways were reported, while there were 36 last year.

Other increases were seen in cases of fraud, bad checks, con games, possession of stolen property or burglary tools, reckless conduct, obstructing justice, child neglect, disorderly conduct and truancy. Decreases were noted in criminal damage to property, sex offenses (going from 11 to eight), weapons violations, liquor violations and curfew violations.

THE DEPARTMENT MADE 5,562 traffic arrests last year, and 4,624 in 1969. Of the 1970 arrests, 133 were for driving under the influence of alcohol, or 27 per cent less than in the previous year. The most frequent charge was speeding, showing up 3,273 times, or 37 per cent more often than in 1969.

The village department decreased the number of warning traffic tickets given, going from 935 in 1969 to 778 in 1970.

Woodfield Mall Payouts Approved

Payouts for road and public underground improvements at Woodfield Mall were approved by the Schaumburg Village Board, sitting as the Board of Local Improvement, Tuesday.

The cost for the improvements is paid by the property owners who benefit from the work. In this case those owners are Woodfield Associates, Marshall Field and Co. and Sears-Roebuck Co.

The payouts included $50,128 to Dunteman & Co. for road work; $37,012 to R. J. Petersen Co., engineers; $17,128 to Jack M. Siegel for legal services; and $5,509 to the Village of Schaumburg.

Elgin Of 1866 Captured

Area residents can now see downtown Elgin as it looked to veterans returning home after the civil war . . . only one bridge across the river, a scattering of buildings along Chicago Street and Grove Avenue. The Elgin of 1866 is captured in a seventeen foot long panoramic photograph which is a feature of the Elmer Bylleck Collection of Historical Photographs which was officially opened this week at the Elgin Young Women's Christian Association, 220 E. Chicago Street.

Bylleck, an architect and lifelong Elgin resident, has assembled an irreplaceable collection of over 2,000 photographs of Elgin dating from 1863 to the present. In past years, selected photographs from his collection have been displayed by Gyllck at Sears Art Gallery, Larkin High School, the Chicago Historical Society, and in conjunction with the Elgin National Road Races 60th anniversary in October, 1970. To make his collection available to more individuals, groups, and school classes, Gyllck has established a permanent exhibit at the YWCA.

The Elmer Gyllck Collection of Historical Photographs is contained in a glass-enclosed case, 38 feet long and 42 inches high. The exhibit, in a roped off area at the north end of the YWCA cafeteria, is available for viewing by the public without charge whenever the YWCA cafeteria is open.

Break Car Windows At Apartment Site

Schaumburg Village Police are investigating 15 related shooting incidents at International Village apartment complex, where auto windows were shot out Monday night with either a BB-gun or an air gun.

Damage was reported to the police by Richard J. Anderson and Robert L. Holden, residents, who had parked their cars in the complex lot at 1304 E. Algonquin Rd. Anderson placed the time of damage between 11:30 p.m. and midnight Monday.

On arriving at the lot, police noted 15 cars had been shot at, with damage to front and side windows.

A smashed windshield also was reported Tuesday by Betty Jo Haake, 1326 Algonquin. Police did not know the instrument used to shatter the glass, which was completely knocked out.

FIFTY OF THE OLDER photographs in the Gyllck collection are presently displayed with explanatory captions. Gyllck plans to change the photographs periodically to show how Elgin has progressed throughout the years. He has also offered to meet by arrangement with student groups or other organizations who may be interested in the history of the photographs.

Gyllck is a life member of the Chicago Historical Society and a director of the Elgin Area Historical Society. He began his collection 15 years ago with the purchase of 300 glass plates of photographs taken by John Manley Adams and his son Spencer Adams, early Elgin photographers. Gyllck has purchased additional collections from many sources including the Chicago Historical Society.

Gyllck, an amateur photographer for many years, is interested in maintaining a pictorial record of modern Elgin and has succeeded in taking photographs of most of the buildings in Elgin. The entire area which was razed for the Civic Center has been preserved on film. Gyllck also enlarges and repairs old photographs and postcards to add to his collection.

To insure that future generations will have access to the Elmer Gyllck Collection of Historical Photographs, Gyllck has arranged it to become the property of the Elgin Area Historical Society after his death.

Stolen Check Turns Up In Local Shop

A check stolen from a Melrose Park firm Dec. 31 turned up in the Town Square Grog Shop, 101 Town Square, Schaumburg, the same day, Schaumburg Village Police have learned.

Bud Mertens, owner of the shop, called police Tuesday to report he had accepted a $104.45 check Dec. 31, and learned Tuesday the check was not good. Drawn on the First National Bank of Maywood, the check was signed by Frank Ronstien and payable to Darlene Kirchhardt, who's signature was used in cashing it. The check showed a company name of Chicago Bandag, Inc.-New Tire Division Melrose Park.

Police checked with Bandag and with Melrose Park police and learned about 300 checks were stolen from the firm.

Grant Third Jayne Probe Continuance

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago. Palatine police made their request on advice from the state attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Firestone To Open New Service Center

The opening of the Firestone tire and auto service center in Hoffman Estates is planned for mid-February. J. M. Gallagher Firestone's Chicago district manager announced.

The facility will be located in the Golf-Rose Shopping Center and will include eight service bays.

Tires for both cars and trucks will be available at the Firestone dealership along with service on auto undercarriages to include shock absorbers, brakes, and front end alignment.

"We want to be known as the passenger and tire headquarters in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg," a Firestone spokesman said yesterday.

The Firestone dealership will employ 11 full-time persons and four to six part-time employees, he added.

OK Special Permit For Olinkraft

Despite the threat of a lawsuit by a New Yorker, Wheeling's Zoning Board of Appeals has recommended that a special use permit be granted to the Olinkraft plant at 1175 Wheeling Rd.

If the village board acts favorably on the recommendation, Olinkraft will be permitted to construct a concrete platform to store rolls of paper outside its plant.

The board's unanimous recommendation was made Tuesday after Village Atty. Paul Hamer told the board if there is a suit between Olinkraft (which has a 35-year lease on the plant) and the property owner, Abraham Pearlman of New York, the village would be involved in name only.

THE BOARD voted to allow construction of a 10,000 square foot concrete slab for storage of rolls of paper in stacks up to 20 feet high.

The paper is used by the local plant in manufacturing of corrugated cardboard boxes and shipping containers.

James McCabe, attorney for Olinkraft Inc., told the zoning board that Pearlman only wanted to stop the slab from being built in order to get the company to renegotiate the plant lease for a higher rent.

McCabe said that the local plant has been losing money and that it needs the outside storage to enable it to expand its operation.

HERB SCHMIEDEKE, general manager at the plant, explained that because of changing economic conditions the plant has had to shift from producing low-price volume packaging to making a full line of packagings to compete in the Chicago market.

The plant, one of the largest in Wheeling, employs 100 persons, he said.

Space which had originally been used for storage has been converted for equipment to make new products and thus additional storage space is necessary, Schmiedeke said.

He said the paper rolls which are to be stored on the concrete slab are weather proof and are wrapped so tightly that they cannot be burned.

AT THE REQUEST of the zoning board the company agreed to fence the area. The board also recommended a restriction on the ordinance that only rolled paper used in construction of corrugated products could be stored there.

Schmiedeke said that the company hopes to use the slab later as footing for a building addition if its business improves. He said that most corrugated paper products plants operate in a similar manner.

The special use permit is necessary because outside storage is not permitted in the light industrial zoning on the property.

McCabe explained that the lease between the owner and the tenant company allows construction of additional buildings on the property provided the additions don't injure the original buildings and that they basically adhere to the architectural design of the plant.

In a letter protesting the special use an attorney for Pearlman said the owner "strenuously objects to the granting of the variations and will take all necessary steps to prevent such construction including bringing an action for an injunction enjoining the contemplated construction."

WORKMEN ARE busy remodeling the old St. Mark's United Church of Christ in Wheeling into a new library for the Wheeling Public Library District. Equipment and books from the current library building on Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling are expected to be moved into the new building in April. Voters approved the remodeling in a referendum last spring. The library serves Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

Urge Denial Of Duplex Rezoning

The Wheeling Zoning Board of Appeals Tuesday recommended by a 5 to 2 vote that a rezoning request for a home at 231 S. Wheeling Ave. be denied by the village board.

Board members who voted for the denial said that although only one home was involved they feared that rezoning might set a precedent which would encourage the construction of apartment buildings in an area of single-family homes.

The request asked that the home which was built as a duplex be rezoned so that it can legally be occupied by two separate families. The existing zoning restricts the home for use by a single family, and the upper portion of the property is now vacant.

OWNERS OF THE property, Roland and Wanda Heckenbach, explained to the zoning board members that when they received the building permit for the duplex in 1948 there was no restriction that it be only occupied by one family.

They submitted a petition signed by 23 of their neighbors who did not object to allowing the house to be used as a duplex.

Zoning board chairman Douglas Cargill indicated that there are two undeveloped lots in the vicinity which might be proposed for an apartment building if the Heckenbachs, were granted multiple-family zoning.

Cargill also suggested the possibility that a later owner of the Heckenbachs' property might raise the existing duplex and build an apartment building. The Heckenbachs said they planned to sell the property.

Frank Wojek, a board member who favored rezoning, said he could not see how allowing a home built as a duplex to be used as one would be setting a multiple-family-zoning precedent in the area.

RON POTTER, another board member, said he did not think the property should come under today's standards. He said that since the building existed before the village zoning laws it should be exempted from the single-family restriction.

However, board member Al Martin said he feared that if the rezoning were granted "anyone with a house built before 1960 could come in and ask to have a two-flat."

Cargill said that there were other duplexes zoned as single-family homes in that area of the village.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer agreed that the approval of the rezoning could be "precedent setting" because, he said, the village has always tried in the past to eliminate non-conforming uses (such as rented apartments over stores) when the property is sold.

Argument To Be Settled Soon

Go To Court Jan. 26 On Horse Issue

The Village of Wheeling and William Simpson will go to court Jan. 26 to settle the argument over four horses.

Simpson, general manager of Mykroy Inc., an industrial manufacturing firm, at 645 S. Wheeling Rd. says he has a right to keep the horses on his property. Simpson has been raising and selling horses and ponies from the site for almost 20 years.

But the village board, village attorney, and village building and zoning department say the horses are illegal.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer says that since Simpson has never had a business license that included the selling of horses and since the keeping of horses on the property has not been continuous, Simpson isn't exempt from current laws under a grandfather clause as he claims.

VILLAGE ORDINANCES require that farm animals such as horses, cows and chickens can only be kept on commercial farms of more than 10 acres.

ON MONDAY, the Wheeling Village Board reaffirmed its stand that the horses must go, despite two letters submitted on Simpson's behalf.

A letter from Atty. William A. Black pointed out that none of the adjoining property owners object to Simpson's horses and that horses are also kept at the nearby Evanger Dog and Cat Food Co. Inc.

Black noted that horses have been kept on the property for many years before the property was annexed to the village.

A second letter from Earl Lossau, president of the Cerc Manufacturing Co. which boards Mykroy on the north said that Cerc "has been here since April of 1957 and Simpson's horses and ponies have never bothered us in all that time."

Simpson has been given a ticket for violating village zoning ordinances, according to Village Building and Zoning Director William Bieher.

The ticket and the case will come to trial on Jan. 26 in Arlington Heights District Court.

Dist. 21 Caucus Needs Members

Community organizations are still being sought to join the Dist. 21 General Caucus, which will interview and endorse candidates for the April school board election.

The caucus held an organizational meeting Tuesday at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

Mrs. Shirley Kanoles, acting publicity chairman of the caucus, said that the turnout for the meeting Tuesday was lower than in previous years.

"We would like a better representation from community groups on the caucus."

Now we have only 10 or 15 groups represented," she said.

She said that organizations desiring membership in the caucus should contact Mrs. Howard Rice of Buffalo Grove at 537-5962. All civic, service and educational organizations in the Dist. 21 area are eligible to apply for membership on the caucus. If accepted, each group will be allowed one voting delegate and one non-voting alternate delegate.

New members will be accepted until the next meeting of the group on Jan. 19.

Officers will be elected and a publicity committee will be appointed at the Jan. 19 meeting. A nominating committee will also be elected to screen potential school board candidates and select the better-qualified ones to be interviewed by the general caucus in February. The by-laws of the caucus will also be reviewed at the Jan. 19 meeting.

The school board election in Dist. 21 will be held on April 10. Two three-year terms on the board must be filled at that time. The terms of Jeremiah Crise and Ronald Weiner will expire in April.

District 21 Schools

School Dist. 21 includes the following schools: Louisa May Alcott, Eugene Field, Robert Frost, Joyce Kilmer, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Edgar Allan Poe, Carl Sandburg, Booth Tarkington, Mark Twain and Walt Whitman elementary schools and James Fenimore Cooper, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Jack London junior high schools.

Bids Taken For Village Vehicles

Bids on a fleet of cars for various village departments were opened Monday at the Wheeling Village Board meeting but the contract will not be awarded until the bids can be studied.

Apparent low bidder was Grand Spaulding Auto Sales of Chicago.

The total bid price submitted by that firm was $18,263. The fleet includes four marked police cars, one unmarked police car, a station wagon for the fire department and a car for the building department.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 15,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensey — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Randleman. Randleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearings.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Teacher Salaries Will Be Revised Again

Two alternative 1971-72 salary schedules were presented to the Dist. 96 school board Monday by Supt. William Hitzeman.

However, after board discussion, the proposed schedules were returned to Hitzeman for revision.

Several board members commented that a schedule should be devised to allow teachers to receive the maximum salary in fewer number of years, and that there should be a greater difference in the salaries of teachers with B.A. and M.A. degrees.

Hitzeman told the board that he doesn't feel the district can offer its teachers more than a 6 or 7 per cent increase in their present salaries in 1971-72.

"I don't think we're in a position financially to offer them more," he said.

UNDER ONE proposed schedule, the starting salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree and no experience would be $7,700. The top salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree would be $10,000 after 13 years experience.

The range for a teacher with a B.A. degree and nine additional semester hours of college courses would be $7,800 starting, $10,900 after 15 years experience. Starting salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree plus 18 semester hours would be $7,900, and $11,300 after 17 years.

For a teacher with a M.A. degree, starting salary would be $8,050 with no experience and $11,500 after 17 years experience. For teachers with a M.A. degree plus 15 semester hours, the starting salary would be $8,200 and $11,650 after 17 years experience.

In the second proposed plan, the starting salary for teachers with a B.A. degree and no experience would be $7,800 and $10,100 after 13 years experience.

For those with a B.A. degree and nine semester hours, the starting salary would be $7,900 and $11,000 after 17 years of experience.

TEACHERS WITH a B.A. degree and 18 semester hours would start at $8,000 and receive $11,400 after 20 years experience. Teachers with a M.A. degree would start at $8,150 and receive $11,600 after 20 years experience. Teachers with a M.A. Degree and 15 semester hours would start at $8,300 and receive $11,750 after 20 years experience.

Hitzeman said he would like to start a district-sponsored insurance program in Dist. 96 in 1971-72. He said he is now investigating types of insurance programs offered in other local school districts and will present a proposal for a Dist. 96 insurance program to the board in the near future.

Faculty Cagers Whip Cubs, 82-70

by DAVE PALERMO

There he was, your star third baseman and mine. Ron Santo, racing up and down the basketball court at the Prospect High School fieldhouse.

And there was Ferguson Jenkins, the Number One pitcher for the Chicago Cubs, comically giving a referee a hard time after being called for committing a violation so obvious a third grader might have buried his head in his hands in disgust.

And finally there was Paul Popovich, a utility infielder for the Cubs, firing those two-handed push shots that went out in the 1930s: most of them missing the rim, the backboard, the works.

It was Tuesday night at the Prospect High School fieldhouse and members of the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team were taking on the faculty at Prospect in a game of basketball.

IF YOU ASK ANY one of the over 3,500 fans who crowded into the gym what the final score was, they may not be able to come up with the answer: 82 to 70 in favor of the faculty.

The reason the final score might have slipped their minds is that it was one of those rare athletic events that didn't necessitate rooting for any one team. The fans came to see the players.

Among the Cubs players there were Billy Williams, Randy Hundley, Ron Kessinger, Glenn Beckert, Phil Regan and Ken Holtzman — players that to most of those in the stands would have otherwise been nothing more than dots on a television screen or lifeless images on a bubble gum card.

And for the students it was even more of a treat. Not only did they get to watch the Cub players, they got to razz their teachers who, for the most part, played like they've decided to spend the rest of their lives in front of a classroom.

Those who started for the faculty were Ron Ashley, Jim DuVal, John McGee, Mike Nisen and "Hammerin'" Hank Szymanski.

NICKNAMED "The Twinkletoe Boys" by public address announcer Red Rush, the faculty led throughout the game. It was 31-25 after the first quarter, 49-40 at halftime, 64-32 at the end of the third stanza and finally, 82 to 70 at the final buzzer.

Aside from Rush's comical and light-hearted announcing and the sometimes amusing play of men who have decided not to make baseball their livelihood, it was Jenkins who kept the fans laughing.

Jenkins, who toured with the Harlem Globetrotters, a traveling professional few shots at the basket. The only catch was that each time the youth missed, Jenkins removed an article of clothing from him.

Finally, sans coat, tennis shoes, stocking cap and glasses, the youngster banked it in from two feet out.

AMONG THOSE IN the stands was Mary Ellen Karakis, a teen-ager from Cicero who doesn't settle for seeing most of the Cub home games and a few of those away, including Montreal. She got the basketball schedule from the wife of Phil Regan and was on hand when they beat Waukegan High School's faculty Sunday.

Perched behind the Cub's bench, she earned herself a "high-ya sweetie" from Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the Cubs manager and a surprise spectator at the game.

While most of the spectators flooded the gym floor to get autographs from the players after the game, Miss Karakis preferred to stand outside and intercept the players on the way out.

One of her girlfriends said she likes Paul Popovich you know — the one who shoots those two-handed push shots.

comic basketball team, began the evening by intentionally falling flat on his face when announced by Rush as a member of the starting lineup.

Later, during the game, Jenkins stopped play and took a youngster from his seat in the stands to let him take a

Eye Civil Defense Group

Buffalo Grove officials are considering establishing a civil defense commission instead of naming a new civil defense director, according to Donald Thompson, village president.

Thompson said the idea was presented at Monday night's executive session of the village board, called to screen applicants for the civil defense director's job.

"All of the applicants were so strong, it occurred that it would be desirable to have all of them working on civil defense," Thompson said.

"We checked it out with our attorney and he said it would be legal to form a commission," he added.

The village board still has to interview two more applicants for the position at next Monday's board meeting. No formal proposal to form a commission will be made until after all applicants have been considered, Thompson said.

Under the commission arrangement, according to Thompson, the village board would appoint commissioners, who would in turn select a civil defense director among themselves.

THOMPSON POINTED out the advantages of having a civil defense commission rather than a single civil defense director.

"With a commission, the members could work in a liaison capacity with individual village departments. For instance, one man could act a liaison with the fire department. Another could work with the police department, and a third with the public works department," he said.

"That way we could use all of the available abilities of citizens in civil defense, instead of selecting one man and letting the other knowledgeable people go."

Buffalo Grove has been without a civil defense director since last June when Village Mgr. Richard Decker was fired. He was also civil defense director.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter applied for the job, but told the trustees the job would take much of his time and that he would welcome the appointment of a "qualified director," if one could be found.

Grant Third Jayne Probe Continuance

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 20 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the state attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

SPANISH INSTRUCTION with English textbooks will be the way Teresa Delgadillo teaches a course on the GED Test for Mexican Americans in the Northwest suburbs.

'Chicano' Seeks Class Recruits

Teresa Delgadillo, daughter of a "Chicano" family, would like to see the Mexican-Americans living in the Northwest suburbs be as proud of their background as she is of hers.

"Chicano is an identification word which has caught on in the West. I'd like to see it catch on here among the people with a Mexican heritage," she said.

HELPING Mexican-Americans accept and be proud of their heritage has been a lifelong project for Teresa. Next week she will begin teaching an evening course at Palatine High School to help Spanish speaking people study for the High School Equivalency Test.

A word-of-mouth campaign is under way in the Mexican-American communities in the Northwest suburbs to recruit students for the class. "The only way I can reach them is to go to the places where Mexican-Americans hang out and talk about the class," Teresa said.

"Chicano" is what Mexican-Americans High School Dist. 211, which is sponsoring the class, is contacting employers of Mexican-Americans for help in promoting the class.

"MY PARENTS were fiercely proud of their Mexican background and taught my brother and sister and me to also be proud. We all work in helping Chicanos get ahead, but not by denying our background."

Teresa is married to Jack Bevington, whom she met in college in Los Angeles. "Because of me we have been prejudiced against. My children are also feeling prejudice in their Palatine school. I am appalled that people around here do not realize there is a problem."

She plans to teach the course in English but talk in Spanish on specific problems students have. "I never studied Spanish in school. We spoke it at home only."

The test, which the course prepares students to take, is in English. "I find the hardest parts for Spanish speaking Americans to pass are the reading and math sections."

ONCE A STUDENT passes all five sections of the equivalency test, he receives a certificate stating he has a general educational background similar to that of a high school graduate.

Teresa has been a teacher seven years. While living in Denver two years ago, she helped begin a program to help inmates of the Denver County Jail study for the high school equivalency test.

"When we started the program, one woman finished and got her certificate. Now almost half the class finishes with a high school equivalency certificate."

TERESA FEELS adult education programs will help her suburban Chicano friends. "You have to give them a feeling of self worth. I really hope this program will help."

Anyone interested in the course, call GED for Spanish Speaking People, can contact the Dist. 211 Administration Building, 1750 Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

Report 12 Openings At Center

There will be openings for 12 additional students at the Trinity Laubach Literacy Center next week. The center is located at the Trinity United Methodist Church, 605 W. Golf Rd. in Mount Prospect.

The center is for non-English speaking adults and those who wish to improve their knowledge of English. According to Patricia Sandberg, one of the center's co-directors, the course is designed to give persons a working knowledge of English in a relatively short time.

No admission or tuition is charged at the center. The only expense for students is the cost of the books used in the course. That ranges from $1.20 to $1.60 for each of the five books that are used.

Mrs. Sandberg said that persons who want to enroll for the course can come to the center next Tuesday night during the class session. Classes are held from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. twice a week. Depending on the student's ability and the time he spends on the lessons, it will take him between a year and 18 months to complete the course, she said.

The center opened Jan. 5. Currently eight students are enrolled. The tutors, who work with students on a one-to-one basis, were trained during workshops held late last year.

The facility at Trinity Church is the first such center in the Northwest suburbs. It is affiliated with the Chicago Area Reading and Literacy Centers Inc., a nonprofit corporation.

Sign 'Negotiations' Pact

After seven months of bargaining, a "professional negotiations agreement" was signed this week by representatives of School Dist. 23 teachers and school board.

Items which may be negotiated by the teachers (the Prospect Heights Education Association) and the school board are included in the agreement. Negotiation procedures are also listed in the agreement.

The agreement will go into effect next August and will apply to negotiations between the teachers and the school board for the 1972-73 school year. It does not apply to the 1971-72 salary negotiations slated to start in February.

However, approval of the agreement does clear the way for the negotiations to begin. According to representatives of the teachers' group, they will probably have a salary proposal ready for presentation to the school board by Feb. 15. The proposal will be based on questionnaires concerning salaries, teacher evaluations and fringe benefits, filled out by all of the teachers.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR the 1971-72 school year will be carried out according to provisions in the current professional negotiations agreement, drawn up last year.

According to school officials, there are substantial differences between the current agreement and the new one which was just approved. The current agreement lists only teacher compensation, including salaries and fringe benefits, as a negotiable item. The new agreement, however, also outlines a grievance procedure and provides for mediation.

Ken Bates, a representative of the teachers' group, termed the new agreement "one of the best in the Northwest area." Administrators and school board members in the district have expressed similar sentiments.

Under the new agreement, teachers have specific steps they may follow if they have a grievance. First they may take their problem to the school principal. If they are not satisfied with the first step, they may go to the district superintendent and finally to the school board. According to Gerald McGovern, principal of the Douglas MacArthur Junior High School, "the procedure stops short of guaranteeing the teacher his grievance will be corrected to his satisfaction."

ANOTHER PART of the agreement says that if an impasse is reached in negotiations between the teachers and the school board, outside mediators will be brought in. In this case, a third party would review the proposals of both negotiating teams. If the impasse is still not resolved, a "fact finder" may be brought in. That person would review the proposals and then make specific recommendations.

Neither the actions of the mediator or the fact finder will be binding. The teachers and school board may consider the opinions of the third parties, but they do not have to follow them.

The main focus of negotiations under the new agreement will be the merit system of teacher compensation, according to school officials. Under the merit system, teachers receive a cost of living increase and a merit increase. This year the cost of living increase equaled 6.3 percent of the teachers' base pay. Teachers rated "superior" also received $800. "Above average" teachers received $400, and "competent" teachers received $200. Below-average teachers were asked to leave the district.

This is the first year the merit system has been used in the district. The district is the only one in the Northwest suburban area that uses the system in determining salary hikes. In the past the district used the step system in which teachers' salaries were increased according to their experience.

IN 1968 THE TEACHERS and the school board signed a contract providing for the merit system during the 1970-71 and 1971-72 school years. The contract does not extend over the 1972-73 school year, which will be the subject of negotiations under the new agreement.

If the teachers and school board decide during the negotiations next fall that the merit system is unsatisfactory, the contract may not be renewed. During the summer of 1970 the teachers expressed dissatisfaction with the merit system. According to Bates, this dissatisfaction was based on the amount of the merit increases and not the system itself. Now, he said, most of the teachers are satisfied with the increases and the system.

Formal negotiations in Dist. 23 began in 1967, soon after the teachers' group was organized. In the spring of 1968, a mutual agreement was signed by the two parties, which soon led to the formulation of an evaluation instrument. The instrument, which is annually revised, lists criteria by which teachers are evaluated. The present merit system is an outgrowth of the first evaluation instrument, according to school officials.

OK School Boundary Change

by JUDY BRANDES

Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 57 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and 214. Dist. 211 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

Exit Ramp To Close

A temporary exit ramp off Rte. 53 at Rand Road will be closed by the Illinois Division of Highways Friday. The closing came as a result of the completion last December of an exit ramp at Dundee Road along Rte. 53.

Bureau of Traffic detours engineer Ted Koczynski said the Rand Road exit ramp will no longer be serviceable after Friday. It was built as a temporary ramp until the Dundee Road exit ramp could be completed.

The ramp was left open an extra month so that motorists could get used to using the Dundee Road exit. Koczynski said

He said the bureau has already notified the state police and other authorities of the ramp closing. The south-bound entrance ramp on Rand Road at Rte. 53 will remain open.

Donna Sue Singleton Has New Home

Donna Sue Singleton, 27 months, has a new home less than 10 days after a tragic automobile accident took the lives of her mother and father, two sisters and a brother.

She is living with her aunt, Shirley Singleton, 29, and grandmother, Mrs. Halie Singleton, 62, on a small farm in Speedwell, Tenn.

Donna Sue was released from W. S. Major Hospital in Shelbyville, Ind., Tuesday following her recovery from internal injuries sustained in the Jan. 3 automobile accident. At one time she was in critical condition.

The accident occurred on Interstate 74, near Shelbyville, when the Elk Grove Village family was returning from a holiday trip to see relatives in Claiborne County, Tenn. Also killed in the accident were three women in another car.

In a telephone conversation with her aunt and grandmother yesterday, they said the girl was doing fine.

"Donna was playing with her doll and buggy," said her aunt, legal guardian of the child.

The grandmother said Donna will have a couple of good playmates in her son, Wayne's two children, Kevin, 3, and Terry, six weeks, who live next door.

The farm has "a little tobacco, hay, and we have some cattle," Miss Singleton said.

Donna is all right, she said, except for a cut on her left leg. The stitches are out now, she said, but the bandage is still there.

Mrs. Singleton said Donna received many cards while at the hospital from people wishing her well. Miss Shirley Singleton and her brother, Wayne, picked the child up from the hospital this week.

Donna's parents lived in Elk Grove Village since 1966 and were always in regular attendance at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, according to friends.

Her brother, Michael, 7, and sisters, Sandra, 9, and Diana, 5, attended the Ira Rupley School in Elk Grove Village. Mr. Edsel Singleton, 32, was employed as a centerless grinder with R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co. in Centex Industrial Park in the village.

The Singletons' closest relative while living in Elk Grove Village, was a sister of Singleton, Mrs. Charles Tibbs of 56 W. Westfield Ln., Des Plaines.

Independent Party Works On Platform

"Professionalism in Government" will be the keynote of the platform for candidates running on the Wheeling Independent Party slate, the Party's platform committee has announced.

Preliminary drafts of the groups' platform were prepared at an executive board meeting this week.

The party's nominating committee is "actively looking for candidates" to interview for places on the party's slate for the April 20 village election, according to nominating committee chairman Jerry Fuller.

Anyone wishing to nominate themselves or another person for the party's slate may call Fuller at 537-6955.

The next meeting of the party to choose candidates for the slate has been rescheduled for Feb. 2.

WORKMEN ARE busy remodeling the old St. Mark's United Church of Christ in Wheeling into a new library for the Wheeling Public Library District. Equipment and books from the current library building on Milwaukee Avenue in Wheeling are expected to be moved into the new building in April. Voters approved the remodeling in a referendum last spring. The library serves Wheeling and the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

See Capacity Enrollment By Next Year

Despite the opening of Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove next month, capacity enrollment can be expected in Dist. 96 by "the middle or end of next year," according to Supt. William Hitzeman.

The district can absorb only 366 additional students before a third school or double shifts will be necessary, he indicated.

Hitzeman presented figures at Monday's school board meeting which indicated enrollment in Dist. 96 has grown by 20 students from Dec. 14 to Jan. 11. Total enrollment is now 804.

The school district has been on double shifts since September, a situation which will terminate with the opening of Willow Grove next month.

Following a one-hour executive session, Board Pres. Arthur Edmunds said the board has instructed Hitzeman to study the situation and make a recommendation to the board in the near future.

The situation is complicated because no court date has been set on the retrial of the condemnation suit the district filed last year against the building firm of Levitt and Sons, Inc. The court has not decided whether to accept or reject Levitt's appeal of the retrial decision.

THE DISTRICT condemned 15 acres of land in the Strathmore section of Buffalo Grove for a third school site. Following a jury trial last summer, the jury determined that the land was worth $350,000, considerably more than Dist. 96 had indicated it could pay.

However, the district won a new trial of the case.

Hitzeman said yesterday that the district has anticipated the enrollment increase.

"We had hoped our condemnation suit would be settled by this time. We will have to come up with an alternative plan (for obtaining a third school site)," he

Building Pace Is Disputed

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson yesterday disputed school Supt. William Hitzeman's statement that building in the Strathmore subdivision has resumed at a rapid pace.

Hitzeman, superintendent for School Dist. 96, said at a school board meeting Monday that the increased building in Strathmore may force Dist. 96 schools to operate on double shifts, unless a new school is built.

"Our figures show that Levitt (the developers of Strathmore) have built 158 homes in the last six months, based on the number of requests the building department has received for occupancy permits. That's about 25 homes per month. They have laid off half of their work force," Thompson said.

"There are houses standing empty they can't even sell," he added.

said, "I hope to present another plan at the next school board meeting."

Hitzeman said enrollment has grown more rapidly in the district in the past month than in the preceding few months.

He attributed this mainly to the development of the Strathmore subdivision.

In the figures Hitzeman presented to the board Monday, he indicated Willow Grove School could handle 625 students in kindergarten through fifth grade if class size was limited to 25 students. He reported that presently the district already has 569 students in these grades, allowing an increase at Willow Grove of only 56 more students.

Lake County Fire Station Possible

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said that if a municipal fire department is formed, there is a possibility that a fire station would have to be built somewhere in the Lake County portion of the village.

"It's debatable," Winter told the Herald yesterday. "I would have to talk to the rating bureau about it. The ideal situation would be to have a station up there and one on Dundee Road. The one we have here is great for the area we have to cover right now."

The Illinois Fire Rating Bureau inspects and rates all fire departments in the state. Insurance companies use the rating to compute the premiums resi-

Thompson Undecided On Fire Dept.

Buffalo Grove Village Pres. Donald Thompson said yesterday he is undecided about the formation of a municipal fire department.

The village board is in the process of studying the feasibility of organizing a municipal department that would cover all areas of the village. Currently, the homes north of Checker Road are protected by the Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District.

A report on the cost of forming and operating an all-village department will be presented at next Monday's village board meeting.

"The concept is a good idea. The problem is the cost. The people have indicated that they don't want to pay for good fire protection and a rough estimate is that it would cost about $75,000 more to have a municipal department," Thompson said.

Thompson was referring to a referendum approved by 60 homeowners disannexing their homes from the Wheeling fire district and joining the Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District. The tax rate in the Long Grove district is half of the Wheeling rate.

"The final decision will be made when all the facts are known," Thompson said. "It has become an emotional issue. There are personality conflicts involved."

dents must pay for fire insurance.

THE BUFFALO GROVE Fire Department serves all areas of the village south of Checker Road. The section north of Checker Road is in the Long Grove Rural Fire Protection District and is served by the Long Grove Fire Department from a station in Long Grove.

The Buffalo Grove Department is a private non-profit organization which receives money for its operation from a tax the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District levies on village residents.

If a municipal fire department is formed, a station in Lake County might be needed to handle fires now fought by Long Grove firemen, Winter said.

The Buffalo Grove Village Board is currently studying the feasibility of forming a municipal department. This would mean one fire department would serve all areas within the village limits.

The board has received two reports recommending a municipal department be organized but neither report estimated the amount of money that would be needed to establish such a department. Trustee Robert Gleason is studying the costs involved in organizing and maintaining a municipal department and will report to the board at next Monday's meeting.

WINTER SAID HIS department is operating on a $48,000 budget this year and estimated that next year's budget would jump to $125,000. "The reason for the increase is that we want to hire three full-time men for a day shift, because most of the volunteer men are out of town and working during the day," the chief said.

"We are going to ask for that much and hope we can get it from the Wheeling fire district," he added.

Winter said he conditionally favors the formation of a municipal department. "I support it to the point that the whole village is protected by one department from the same place. That is the only advantage I can see in it. If someone would point out other advantages I would be glad to listen, but so far, I haven't heard any."

Caucus Seeks More Members

Community organizations are still being sought to join the Dist. 21 General Caucus, which will interview and endorse candidates for the April school board election.

The caucus held an organizational meeting Tuesday at Jack London Junior High School in Wheeling.

Mrs. Shirley Kanoles, acting publicity chairman of the caucus, said that the turnout for the meeting Tuesday was lower than in previous years.

"We would like a better representation from community groups on the caucus. Now we have only 10 or 15 groups represented," she said.

She said that organizations desiring membership in the caucus should contact Mrs. Howard Rice of Buffalo Grove at 537-5562. All civic, service and educational organizations in the Dist. 21 area are eligible to apply for membership on the caucus. If accepted, each group will be allowed one voting delegate and one non-voting alternate delegate.

New members will be accepted until the next meeting of the group on Jan. 19. Officers will be elected and a publicity

District 21 Schools

School Dist. 21 includes the following schools: Louisa May Alcott, Eugene Field, Robert Frost, Joyce Kilmer, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, Edgar Allan Poe, Carl Sandburg, Booth Tarkington, Mark Twain and Walt Whitman elementary schools and James Fenimore Cooper, Oliver Wendell Holmes and Jack London junior high schools.

A committee will be appointed at the Jan. 19 meeting. A nominating committee will also be elected to screen potential school board candidates and select the better-qualified ones to be interviewed by the general caucus in February. The by-laws of the caucus will also be reviewed at the Jan. 19 meeting.

The school board election in Dist. 21 will be held on April 10. Two three-year terms on the board must be filled at that time. The terms of Jeremiah Crise and Ronald Weiner will expire in April.

St. Mary's Slates Spaghetti Dinner

A fund-raising spaghetti dinner will be held at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Buffalo Grove following the Super Bowl football game this Sunday.

The dinner, including spaghetti, salad, garlic bread, and desert will be served from 4 to 7 p.m. Children under 3 will be admitted free and $1 will be charged for children aged 4 to 12. An adult ticket will cost $1.50.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensey — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearings.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Teacher Salaries Will Be Revised Again

Two alternative 1971-72 salary schedules were presented to the Dist. 96 school board Monday by Supt. William Hitzeman.

However, after board discussion, the proposed schedules were returned to Hitzeman for revision.

Several board members commented that a schedule should be devised to allow teachers to receive the maximum salary in fewer number of years, and that there should be a greater difference in the salaries of teachers with B.A. and M.A. degrees.

Hitzeman told the board that he doesn't feel the district can offer its teachers more than a 6 or 7 per cent increase in their present salaries in 1971-72.

"I don't think we're in a position financially to offer them more," he said.

UNDER ONE proposed schedule, the starting salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree and no experience would be $7,700. The top salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree would be $10,000 after 13 years experience.

The range for a teacher with a B.A. degree and nine additional semester hours of college courses would be $7,800 starting, $10,900 after 15 years experience. Starting salary for a teacher with a B.A. degree plus 18 semester hours would be $7,900, and $11,300 after 17 years.

For a teacher with a M.A. degree, starting salary would be $8,050 with no experience and $11,500 after 17 years experience. For teachers with a M.A. degree plus 15 semester hours, the starting salary would be $8,200 and $11,650 after 17 years experience.

In the second proposed plan, the starting salary for teachers with a B.A. degree and no experience would be $7,800 and $10,100 after 13 years experience.

For those with a B.A. degree and nine semester hours, the starting salary would be $7,900 and $11,000 after 17 years of experience.

TEACHERS WITH a B.A. degree and 18 semester hours would start at $8,000 and receive $11,400 after 20 years experience. Teachers with a M.A. degree would start at $8,150 and receive $11,600 after 20 years experience. Teachers with a M.A. Degree and 15 semester hours would start at $8,300 and receive $11,750 after 20 years experience.

Hitzeman said he would like to start a district-sponsored insurance program in Dist. 96 in 1971-72. He said he is now investigating types of insurance programs offered in other local school districts and will present a proposal for a Dist. 96 insurance program to the board in the near future.

Eye Civil Defense Group

Buffalo Grove officials are considering establishing a civil defense commission instead of naming a new civil defense director, according to Donald Thompson, village president.

Thompson said the idea was presented at Monday night's executive session of the village board, called to screen applicants for the civil defense director's job.

"All of the applicants were so strong, it occurred that it would be desirable to have all of them working on civil defense," Thompson said.

"We checked it out with our attorney and he said it would be legal to form a commission," he added.

The village board still has to interview two more applicants for the position at next Monday's board meeting. No formal proposal to form a commission will be made until after all applicants have been considered, Thompson said.

Under the commission arrangement, according to Thompson, the village board would appoint commissioners, who would in turn select a civil defense director among themselves.

THOMPSON POINTED out the advantages of having a civil defense commission rather than a single civil defense director.

"With a commission, the members could work in a liaison capacity with individual village departments. For instance, one man could act a liaison with the fire department. Another could work with the police department, and a third with the public works department," he said.

"That way we could use all of the available abilities of citizens in civil defense, instead of selecting one man and letting the other knowledgeable people go."

Buffalo Grove has been without a civil defense director since last June when Village Mgr. Richard Decker was fired. He was also civil defense director.

Fire Chief Wayne Winter applied for the job, but told the trustees the job would take much of his time and that he would welcome the appointment of a "qualified director," if one could be found.

Grant Third Jayne Probe Continuance

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the state attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

Faculty Cagers Whip Cubs, 82-70

by DAVE PALERMO

There he was, your star third baseman and mine, Ron Santo, racing up and down the basketball court at the Prospect High School fieldhouse.

And there was Ferguson Jenkins, the Number One pitcher for the Chicago Cubs comically giving a referee a hard time after being called for committing a violation so obvious a third grader might have buried his head in his hands in disgust.

And finally there was Paul Popovich, a utility infielder for the Cubs, firing those two-handed push shots that went out in the 1950s most of them missing the rim, the backboard, the works.

It was Tuesday night at the Prospect High School fieldhouse and members of the Chicago Cubs professional baseball team were taking on the faculty at Prospect in a game of basketball.

IF YOU ASK ANY one of the over 3,500 fans who crowded into the gym what the final score was they may not be able to come up with the answer: 82 to 70 in favor of the faculty.

The reason the final score might have slipped their minds is that it was one of those rare athletic events that didn't necessitate rooting for any one team. The fans came to see the players.

Among the Cubs players there were Billy Williams, Randy Hundley, Ron Kessinger, Glenn Beckert, Phil Regan and Ken Holtzman — players that to most of those in the stands would have otherwise been nothing more than dots on a television screen or lifeless images on a bubble gum card.

And for the students it was even more of a treat. Not only did they get to watch the Cub players, they got to razz their teachers who, for the most part, played like they've decided to spend the rest of their lives in front of a classroom.

Those who started for the faculty were Ron Ashley, Jim DuVal, John McGee, Mike Nisen and "Hammerin'" Hank Szymanski.

NICKNAMED "The Twinkletoe Boys" by public address announcer Red Rush, the faculty led throughout the game. It was 31-26 after the first quarter, 49-40 at halftime, 64-52 at the end of the third stanza and finally, 82 to 70 at the final buzzer.

Aside from Rush's comical and light-hearted announcing and the sometimes amusing play of men who have decided not to make baseball their livelihood, it was Jenkins who kept the fans laughing.

Jenkins, who toured with the Harlem Globetrotters, a traveling professional few shots at the basket. The only catch was that each time the youth missed, Jenkins removed an article of clothing from him.

Finally, sans coat, tennis shoes, stocking cap and glasses, the youngster banked it in from two feet out.

AMONG THOSE IN the stands was Mary Ellen Karakis, a teen-ager from Cicero who doesn't settle for seeing most of the Cub home games and a few of those away, including Montreal. She got the basketball schedule from the wife of Phil Regan and was on hand when they beat Waukegan High School's faculty Sunday.

Perched behind the Cub's bench, she earned herself a "high-ya sweetie" from Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the Cubs manager and a surprise spectator at the game.

Store Owner Faces Charge Of Obscenity

Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) agents and Palatine detectives confiscated more than $5,000 worth of books and magazines which are allegedly obscene from the Palatine Book Store, 16 S. Bothwell, yesterday.

Arthur V. Ziarkowski, the store's 54-year-old proprietor and a resident of 4907 Blue Bird Ct., Crystal Lake, was arrested and charged with obscenity said Det. Richard Sikorski.

Ziarkowski was released on a $500 bond late yesterday afternoon and is scheduled to appear in the Arlington Heights branch of the Cook County Circuit Court on Jan. 29. He is subject to a $1,000 fine or one year imprisonment.

Sikorski and Det. Norman Beacham and four IBI agents made the raid at 2 p.m. Nearly 14 cardboard boxloads of books were confiscated from an "adult only" section of the store.

The arrest was based on the purchase of a book by an IBI agent recently and a new ruling on obscenity by the Illinois Supreme Court last November.

An IBI agent purchased a copy of "The Orgy" on Nov. 27. The book was then sent to the legal research department of the Illinois Attorney General's office where it was deemed obscene.

Sikorski said the 1,513 other books which were taken by authorities will have to be reviewed by the same legal department. If they are not ruled obscene they will be returned to Ziarkowski.

One IBI agent said several similar raids were made on Chicago book stores in the last week and were based on the same supreme court ruling.

OK School Boundary Change

by JUDY BRANDES

Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 53 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and 214. Dist. 211 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

STUDENTS ENROLLED in a class for the Educable Mentally Handicapped at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine participate in a picture-word association exercise with their classroom teacher, Mrs. Patricia Ancona. There are four self-contained EMH classrooms at Hunting Ridge, which houses the largest number of students in special education of any of the 17 Dist. 15 schools.

Dist. 15 Geared To Individuals

by MARGE FERROLI

Accountability. It's a big and important word to most school districts right now.

Being accountable to the students in a district means responding to the individual educational needs of each student. In Elementary School Dist. 15, accountability has been demonstrated for years through its special education and psychological services program.

"We're trying to give every child equal opportunity to achieve up to his potential," Arnold DeGuise, Dist. 15 psychologist and director of the special education program, said.

Through psychological and intelligence testing, students in Dist. 15 can be placed into different groups according to their levels of ability. On this smaller group level, where the children's needs are similar, instruction by a specially trained teacher becomes more meaningful to each student.

THERE ARE a vast number of categories that fall under the classification of special education, varying from the maladjusted to the physically handicapped. "It's the question of degree that causes a problem when categorizing students," DeGuise said. Although physical handicaps can be pretty clearly defined and dealt with, emotional problems that have an effect on a child's ability to learn are often variable and more difficult to determine.

After sufficient physical, neurological and intellectual testing is given a child, he is placed in a particular classroom situation. Dist. 15 provides special instruction to students with physical handicaps, such as those that are hard of hearing, partially sighted, deaf or blind.

Expensive programs for Educable Mentally Handicapped students are also offered by the district. Much of the EMH instruction is handled in what DeGuise calls "self-contained classrooms," in which the EMH students receive daily instruction in the same environment without having to transfer from room to room or building to building.

A LARGE NUMBER of special education students fall into the learning disabilities category, in which children with certain perceptual handicaps or social and emotional problems receive special daily instruction.

Resource rooms outside of the regular classrooms have been set up in eight of the 17 Dist. 15 schools. In individual daily sessions, students with less severe learning disorders are taken out of their regular classrooms for supplemental instruction. These resource room sessions help a child keep up with his regular classroom load and fellow students.

DeGuise estimated there are some 250 children currently enrolled in actual special education classes in Dist. 15. However, the program is more far reaching. Between 700 and 800 children each school year regularly visit speech correctionists to overcome speech problems that often stem from psychological problems rather than physical defects.

Another 600 students a year are given diagnostic testing on the request of their classroom teachers or school principals, DeGuise said. This testing provides a basis for interpretation of certain social or learning problems that have become apparent during the school year.

A staff of 40 teachers and psychologists handle the special education program this school year, although DeGuise said the staff should increase to over 50 for

Village Joins Mutual Aid Fire Plan

Palatine became part of a large-scale mutual aid plan among Northwest suburban fire departments after village trustees gave their vote of approval Monday night.

They voted to join the new and improved mutual aid association among some 15 neighboring communities on the request of Orville Helms, village Fire Chief.

The agreement establishes a relatively automatic system whereby neighboring communities will respond to backup or assist each other in fighting major fires, said Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun.

Other fire departments participating in the program include Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg, Prospect Heights and North Maine.

"THE MUTUAL AID agreement will apply only in circumstances of a major event tying up the local fire department and will not involve routine calls," Braun said.

"This particular agreement serves to formalize the informal practice which is already in effect among our neighboring communities," he added.

Under the new system, a box alarm system with specific codes will be set up in Palatine to make the call to their towns a faster, more efficient process.

UP TO NOW, Chief Helms has had to personally call other commanding officers to request assistance. The box alarms will be installed in various sections in town. Each box is coded for location and the fire chief only has to radio in the box alarm number to his local dispatcher.

The dispatcher will then call the Arlington Heights fire department where a special signal will be sent out to nearby communities in order to guarantee an automatic response.

Cracker Barrel

In regards to the Sellergren, Inc., plan to create a 200 yard buffer zone around the company's development, Palatine Park Board Pres. Norman Gaare said, "They must think those people living in the houses have leprosy."

Before the village board approved a mutual aid agreement among Northwest suburban fire departments Monday night, Mayor John Moodie explained to the other board members, "You might say they've lived together for 20 years and now they're making it legal."

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $300,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensley — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearings.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutton at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Tax Vote: June?

by JIM HODL

Will the proposed mental health referendum be held on Feb. 20 as requested by the four-township mental health steering committee?

If the problems concerning precincts are not cleared up by the end of the month, the referendum's date may be postponed.

Somewhere, somebody found a legal reference to the number of polling places that are to be in service during each election. The number is the same required for a Presidential election.

However, there is a big difference between electing a president and voting for a new tax levy. For one thing, there is more interest in electing a president among the people. A lower expected voter turnout would require fewer polling places.

ALSO, THERE is a money problem. While the four townships involved in the referendum (Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Wheeling) have many precincts, they do not all have enough money to man all of them with judges.

Palatine and Wheeling townships are two townships that are low on funds. With their fiscal years ending around the April Town meetings, funds are harder to come by.

Palatine Township, after losing their tax surplus last year, had tight budget this year. An unexpected drain of the general assistance fund has already created some problems. Paying 210 judges to man 42 precinct polling places would really put a drain on township finances.

So, the township wants to have only a few precincts. The township could afford 30 judges better than 210.

Volunteer judges have also been suggested. However, who will volunteer to spend an entire Saturday from sunrise to late evening to watch a polling place? Volunteers would be harder to come by than paid judges, especially with only 40 days notice from the mental health steering committee.

KEN DOUGAN, executive director of referendum publicity, has stated the vote must take place on Feb. 20. Any time else would create a conflict with other referendums, elections and tax payments.

James Hodl

Prospect Heights has a grade school referendum on Feb. 6 while Arlington Heights has a referendum set for March 13. This precludes most of these two months. In April, village boards, school boards, library boards, park boards and what-have-you boards will be elected. Income tax will be collected April 15 and the property tax will be collected a month later.

In all, with the possible exception of March 27, the referendum could not be held until June, if one is to believe the mental health steering committee.

Their request grants little flexibility to the townships with their precinct problems. They can either rush for Feb. 20 or wait until June.

"THIS SITUATION may be a creation of the steering committee's misunderstanding of how townships set up elections. They may not have realized the precinct problem, the costs involved, or even the time involved.

Rushing to a referendum may not only create extra problems for the townships, but a problem for those who will vote on the matter Feb. 20, if it is held then.

The announcement of the referendum may come so fast, many people may miss it completely. They will not turn out to vote and those who would want to oppose the new tax may have an easy time defeating it.

Realizing the program recommended by the committee is good and a long time in coming, and that a 10 cent on $100 tax assessment isn't high, the committee should have given the townships more room to maneuver.

If the referendum is postponed, it will be this situation that will be the cause.

Jayne Inquest Continued Again

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the state attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14217 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

Police Structure Change Is Coming

The structure of the Rolling Meadows police department will be changed Feb. 15, according to a resolution passed by city council.

The resolution provides for two lieutenants, three sergeants, four corporals and 16 patrolmen, along with the chief of police. Presently the police department is operating with a chief of police, one captain, a vacant lieutenant's position, four sergeants, and 20 patrolmen.

Case recommended to the city license, police and health committee that the corporal position be a line officer's position on the street, when the sergeant is not around.

Council Raps Health Unit

The Rolling Meadows city council agenda allocates 20 minutes for the audience to speak at each council meeting. The 20-minute time limit was extended to over an hour Tuesday. The discussion brought out many of the city's criticisms of Palatine township activities.

City alderman fired questions at K. E. Dougan and Byrn Witt, director of Clearbrook Center, who had appeared before the council to get the city's support of the mental health referendum and "straighten out any misunderstanding."

Ald. William Ahrens and Thomas Scanlan voiced displeasure at the number of Rolling Meadows residents on the seven member Palatine Township Mental Health board of directors. Only one Rolling Meadows resident is a member of that board. Council members said 40 per cent of the township population is in the city and that about 40 per cent of the members of the board should be Rolling Meadows residents.

MAYOR ROLAND MEYER asked whether politics would play a part in the mental health services, if the township runs the program. Meyer also said the township may "dry up" in a few years and asked what would then happen to the program.

Dougan answered both questions and stated that "we hitched ourselves to the townships only because state law requires us to." If the townships dry up, Dougan said the legislature will provide another entity to take its place, according to his reports from state officials. He said there should be no politics because the mental health agencies will have a majority of members on the board. But he also said the township board of auditors, not the township mental health boards, will make the mental health levy.

Meyer also questioned the administrative costs of the mental health boards. Dougan said there would only be a three-member paid staff.

ALD. SCANLAN said he wasn't satisfied with a present township group and cited the Palatine Township Youth Commission as a "group that does not believe in records and does not keep them."

Martin Pratt, a member of the Palatine Township Mental Health Board, spoke near the end and said he would step down himself and let a Rolling Meadows resident take a seat on the board to "get the good will of the city" toward the mental health referendum.

Nicholas Schmidt, a member of the city mental health committee, said that there had been a lack of communications between the city and the township. But he said, "I would like to see us get behind this thing."

City Clerk's Job To Be Part-time

The city clerk position will be a part-time job after the election this year.

City council voted to make the position part-time by making the salary $600 a year. The city clerk position is one of the nine city offices open in the April election.

The clerk position now is a full-time job held by Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth.

From The Library

By the staff of the Palatine Public Library

Books for women top the list of new books available at the Palatine Public Library this week. One book is "A Word to the Wives," by Dorothy and Mary Rodgers, the wife and daughter of composer Richard Rodgers. It deals with two generations worth of practical and imaginative ideas about the house, decorating, entertaining, living with children and husbands and one's self.

"Surviving As a Woman" by Betty Canary tells how women can keep their chins high, their courage up and how to never get caught with their britches down. Jean Kinney is authoress of "Living With Zest in an Empty Nest, or What to Do When the Kids Leave Home."

There are also new books on women's liberation at the library. A case for the feminist movement is told by one of the movement's founders, Shulamith Firestone in "The Dialect of Sex." Robin Morgan presents an anthology of women's liberation writings in "Sisterhood Is Powerful."

ONE OF THE OLDER new books is by Frank Manolson, DVM. It is titled "My Cat's In Love, or How to Survive Your Feline's Sex Life, Pregnancy and Kitten-ing." Murders and manners of the age of Victoria are explored in "Victorian Studies in Scarlet."

"Japan" surveys virtually every aspect of the fascinating Oriental island from its peoples to its culture, both past and present. It is authored by Martin Hurlimann "Treasure Rooms of America's Mansions, Manors and Houses" by Rita Reis describes 54 great showplaces built from the 17th century to modern times.

"Damn Everything But the Circus" is a collection of drawings by Corita Kent that captures the gaiety, spirit and excitement of the circus. "America's Folk Art" by Robert L. Polley describes the treasures of American folk art and craft in distinguished museum's collections. Karl E. Meyers writes of the splendors of the past in "The Pleasures of Archeology."

"JASON POTTER'S Space Walk" by R. L. Duffus is one of many new fiction books at the library this week. This novel deals with an aging California bartender recovering from surgery and has a fantastic experience with angels. He secures another million years of life for the human race.

A good mystery novel is "Stab in the Back" by Charles Drummond. It deals with the disappearance of the valuable Dackern Jewels. Pamela Hansford Johnson is authoress of "The Human Board," a dramatic novel set in an English boarding school.

"A Family Failure" by Renate Rasp is considered to be the best novel to come out of Germany since World War II. It deals with "Kuno" who is a failure to his family. "Fingers in the Door" by Frank Touhy is a collection of the author's short stories.

Finally, there is a new mystery by Hugh McLeaure. The novel is fast paced and titled "A Question of Negligence."

Benstein Appointed To Zoning Board

Harry Benstein, 337 S. Hart St., was appointed to the village zoning board of appeals Monday night, not the plan commission as reported in Wednesday's Herald.

The zoning board meets tonight to discuss the Sellergren Inc. project. It will be Benstein's first session.

Township Officials To Meet On Mental Issue

Officials from Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships will meet Saturday morning to compare notes and problems concerning the upcoming mental health referendum. A proposed tax of 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation will be levied if the referendum passes.

Supervisors, clerks and attorneys of the townships will meet in the Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, at 11 a.m. Saturday to discuss problems they have been having with the referendum, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 20. A main problem will concern the number of precincts in the townships.

Other problems concerning the setting up of the election in the four townships will also be discussed.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen and Wheeling Township supervisor Mrs. Frank Kolerus arranged for the Saturday meeting. Both were concerned about the unanswered questions created by the mental health steering committee's proposal, which came a little over 40 days before the referendum was to be held.

Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove townships have dozens of precincts, most of which they would like to consolidate for the balloting. Attorneys for the townships are looking into whether a reduced number of precincts and polling places can legally be used during the voting.

Ken Dougan, executive director promoting the referendum, said the attorneys of the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council believe the number of precincts can be reduced legally. He said they are writing up a brief on this matter now.

Other items to be discussed by the township officials include the joint printing of ballots, whether there is time to announce special township meetings to resolve local problems concerning the referendum, and whether there is still enough time to post the referendum.

There is a general feeling among the township officials that the referendum should be held on Feb. 20. No official would state if his township was interested in changing the date.

"We were unhappy with the short notice the steering committee gave us, but if we have to hold the referendum with all 57 of our precincts, we'll go ahead with it," said Elk Grove Township Clerk George R. Busse.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen was less happy with current affairs. He said Palatine Township does not have the funds to hire judges to man all 42 of the township's precincts. He said, however, that the Feb. 20 referendum date is still not impossible for his township to meet.

The townships have to resolve their problems before the end of the month since an election has to be announced 20 days before it will be held. If the townships cannot announce the referendum by Feb. 1, it will have to be postponed.

Dougan said the Feb. 20 date was chosen because it will not conflict with other referenda and with the April election, income tax collection and property tax collections. Grade school referenda will be held in Prospect Heights on Feb. 6 and in Arlington Heights on March 13.

A joint mental health program will be coordinated through the Northwest Council if the referendum is passed. A special tax will be levied to pay for the better service the four-township programs will offer. A special mental health district will be set up encompassing the four townships.

'Chicano' Seeks Class Recruits

Teresa Delgadillo, daughter of a "Chicano" family, would like to see the Mexican-Americans living in the Northwest suburbs be as proud of their background as she is of hers.

"Chicano is an identification word which has caught on in the West. I'd like to see it catch on here among the people with a Mexican heritage," she said.

HELPING Mexican-Americans accept and be proud of their heritage has been a lifelong project for Teresa. Next week she will begin teaching an evening course at Palatine High School to help Spanish speaking people study for the High School Equivalency Test.

A word-of-mouth campaign is under way in the Mexican-American communities in the Northwest suburbs to recruit students for the class. "The only way I can reach them is to go to the places where Mexican-Americans hang out and talk about the class," Teresa said.

"Chicano" is what Mexican-Americans High School Dist. 211, which is sponsoring the class, is contacting employers of Mexican-Americans for help in promoting the class.

"MY PARENTS were fiercely proud of their Mexican background and taught my brother and sister and me to also be proud. We all work in helping Chicanos get ahead, but not by denying our background."

Teresa is married to Jack Bevington, whom she met in college in Los Angeles. "Because of me we have been prejudiced against. My children are also feeling prejudice in their Palatine school. I am appalled that people around here do not realize there is a problem."

She plans to teach the course in English but talk in Spanish on specific problems students have: "I never studied Spanish in school. We spoke it at home only."

The test, which the course prepares students to take, is in English: "I find the hardest parts for Spanish speaking Americans to pass are the reading and math sections."

ONCE A STUDENT passes all five sections of the equivalency test, he receives a certificate stating he has a general educational background similar to that of a high school graduate.

Teresa has been a teacher seven years. While living in Denver two years ago, she helped begin a program to help inmates of the Denver County Jail study for the high school equivalency test.

"When we started the program, one woman finished and got her certificate. Now almost half the class finishes with a high school equivalency certificate."

TERESA FEELS adult education programs will help her suburban Chicano friends: "You have to give them a feeling of self worth. I really hope this program will help."

Anyone interested in the course, call GED for Spanish Speaking People, can contact the Dist. 211 Administration Building, 1750 Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

Singleton Girl Fine: Aunt

Crash Survivor Has New Home In Tenn.

Donna Sue Singleton, 27 months, has a new home less than 10 days after a tragic automobile accident took the lives of her mother and father, two sisters and a brother.

She is living with her aunt, Shirley Singleton, 29, and grandmother, Mrs. Hallie Singleton, 62, on a small farm in Speedwell, Tenn.

Donna Sue was released from W. S. Major Hospital in Shelbyville, Ind., Tuesday following her recovery from internal injuries sustained in the Jan. 3 automobile accident. At one time she was in critical condition.

The accident occurred on Interstate 74, near Shelbyville, when the Elk Grove Village family was returning from a holiday trip to see relatives in Claiborne County, Tenn. Also killed in the accident were three women in another car.

aunt and grandmother yesterday, they said the girl was doing fine.

"Donna was playing with her doll and buggy," said her aunt, legal guardian of the child.

The grandmother said Donna will have a couple of good playmates in her son, Wayne's two children, Kevin, 3, and Terry, six weeks, who live next door.

The farm has "a little tobacco, hay, and we have some cattle," Miss Singleton said.

Donna is all right, she said, except for a cut on her left leg. The stitches are out now, she said, but the bandage is still there.

Mrs. Singleton said Donna received many cards while at the hospital from people wishing her well. Miss Shirley Singleton and her brother, Wayne, picked the child up from the hospital this week. Donna's parents lived in Elk Grove Village since 1966 and were always in regular attendance at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, according to friends.

Her brother, Michael, 7, and sisters, Sandra, 9, and Diana, 5, attended the Ira Rupley School in Elk Grove Village. Mr. Edsel Singleton, 32, was employed as a centerline grinder with R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co. in Centex Industrial Park in the village.

The Singleton's closest relative while living in Elk Grove Village, was a sister of Singleton, Mrs. Charles Tibbs of 56 W. Westfield Ln., Des Plaines.

Residents seeking election to the Dist. 211 board must submit petitions with 50 valid signatures to the district's business office between Feb. 24 and March 19. Petitions will be available after the Jan. 28 school board meeting.

"I hope some good people will give the upcoming election some thought. With two places on the seven-member board vacant, there is a good opportunity for new people to enter the election race," Johnson said in December.

Larry Paddock, of 2405 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, pleaded guilty to the charge, which was reduced to a misdemeanor by the court. Charges against Paddock of possession of drugs and resisting arrest were dropped, with leave to reinstate.

Charges against a co-defendant in the case, Jeff Wehrmeister, 18, of 711 N. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights, were also dropped, with leave to reinstate.

Judge Francis Glowacki delayed sentencing Paddock until Feb. 12, pending a presentence investigation.

Paddock and Wehrmeister were arrested by Arlington Heights police Oct. 20 after a resident reported a suspicious car in a parking lot behind 315 N. Salem Ave.

The Singleton's closest relative while living in Elk Grove Village, was a sister of Singleton, Mrs. Charles Tibbs of 56 W. Westfield Ln., Des Plaines.

Residents seeking election to the Dist. 211 board must submit petitions with 50 valid signatures to the district's business office between Feb. 24 and March 19. Petitions will be available after the Jan. 28 school board meeting.

Both Helgeson and Johnson are announcing their decision not to run again early so that Dist. 211 residents will have time to consider replacements. "I hope some good people will give the upcoming election some thought. With two places on the seven-member board vacant, there is a good opportunity for new people to enter the election race," Johnson said in December.

Larry Paddock, of 2405 Hawk Ln., Rolling Meadows, pleaded guilty to the charge, which was reduced to a misdemeanor by the court. Charges against Paddock of possession of drugs and resisting arrest were dropped, with leave to reinstate.

Charges against a co-defendant in the case, Jeff Wehrmeister, 18, of 711 N. Mitchell Ave., Arlington Heights, were also dropped, with leave to reinstate.

Judge Francis Glowacki delayed sentencing Paddock until Feb. 12, pending a presentence investigation.

Paddock and Wehrmeister were arrested by Arlington Heights police Oct. 20 after a resident reported a suspicious car in a parking lot behind 315 N. Salem Ave.

Hope, Crosby Still Popular

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by: The Headliners: Bob Hope and Bing Crosby, according to the key television ratings, continue to earn the remarkably loyal support of their longtime fans. In the national rankings for the two weeks ending Dec. 20, a Hope program finished first and a Crosby Christmas special placed second among all shows. Another oldtimer, Robert Young, came in third with his ABC-TV series, "Marcus Welby, M.D."

Crosby, by the way, stars next Tuesday as a physician in a suspense drama, "Dr. Cook's Garden," on ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week." "The Point," a "Movie of the Week" animated musical fantasy narrated by Dustin Hoffman, and created and sung by the brilliant pop composer Harry Nilsson, airs for 90 minutes on Feb. 2.

The stars of NBC-TV's "Bonanza," Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker and Michael Landon, are reported set with new two-year contracts, with each getting $16,000 a show next season, and $17,000 a segment the season after that. They currently get $15,000 an episode.

Dean Martin's Jan. 28 NBC-TV hour features sons and daughters of famous performers — including Frank Sinatra Jr., Dino Martin and the children of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Lucie and Desi Jr.

George Plimpton, the author who likes to try personally the skills he writes about, football, baseball, golf, and who recently did an ABC-TV special with John Wayne about moviemaking — "Shoot Out at Rio Lobo" — has another unique hour coming up on the same network Feb. 2. In this one, he joins the circus, and the show is entitled "Plimpton! The Man on the Flying Trapeze". It is also reported that he will do a special in which he tries his hand at being a nightclub comedian in Las Vegas.

"Charlie Chan," the old Oriental detective of numerous popular movies, is being revived for an original two-hour "World Premiere" film on NBC-TV, and he will be played by Ross Martin, formerly of the CBS-TV series "The Wild Wild West." The word is that the two-hour original may well develop into a weekly series if things work out. The Programs: CBS-TV's detective show, "Mannix," surprised the industry by finishing No. 1 in the national ratings for the week ending Jan. 3. The same network's new Mary Tyler Moore series came in fifth. And NBC-TV's nighttime Orange Bowl football game between Nebraska and Louisiana State University ranked eighth.

NBC estimates that almost 64 million persons will watch Sunday's pro football Super Bowl game between Baltimore and Dallas. According to the network, the five highest-rated sports events of all time on television were:

- (1) Last year's Super Bowl game.
- (2) Last year's Texas-Notre Dame gridiron contest in the Cotton Bowl.
- (3) The fourth game of the 1968 World Series between baseball's Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals.
- (4) Last year's Rose Bowl meeting between Michigan and the University of Southern California.
- (5) The fourth game of the 1963 World Series between the Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees.

Harris Helgeson

Harris Helgeson, a 22-year veteran of the High School Dist. 211 School Board, has announced he will not seek reelection in the April 10 school board elections.

Helgeson is the second Dist. 211 incumbent to announce his retirement from the board. Lyle Johnson of Hoffman Estates, the other Dist. 211 board member up for reelection, has also said he will not run again this year.

Helgeson joined the Dist. 211 board in 1948. He has lived in Palatine since 1921 and is a graduate of Palatine High School.

"I think we have fine students and a good administration and I have enjoyed working with the school board for so long, but I think it is time to get someone new on the board," Helgeson said.

"The board will be beginning a new

OK High School Boundary Change

by JUDY BRANDES

Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 53 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and Dist. 214 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

STUDENTS ENROLLED in a class for the Educable Mentally Handicapped at Hunting Ridge School in Palatine participate in a picture-word association exercise with their classroom teacher, Mrs. Patricia Ancona. There are four self-contained EMH classrooms at Hunting Ridge, which houses the largest number of students in special education of any of the 17 Dist. 15 schools.

Local Mayor To Be Paid $5,000 Starting In May

The Rolling Meadows mayor will be the highest paid mayor in the area in May.

The city council approved, in a 7-2 vote, a salary of $5,000 a year for the Rolling Meadows mayor to become effective May 1. The mayor position is up for election April 20.

The mayor presently receives $3,000. The present salary was raised from $2,000 in 1969.

In comparison to surrounding communities, Rolling Meadows pays the best for the number one elected position, although most communities call their top elected post the village president. Arlington Heights pays $2,000 a year salary to their village president Mount Prospect and Palatine also pay $2,000 a year.

THE VILLAGE of Wheeling pays $3,000 a year to its president. Elk Grove Village president's salary is $2,400 and Buffalo Grove village president gets $1,800.

The office of city treasurer will also get a pay raise in May. The council approved a raise from $2,000 a year salary to $3,500 a year. The city treasurer position is also open in the April election.

Scanlan Will Not Seek Reelection

Ald Thomas W. Scanlan will not seek reelection to his post as Rolling Meadows alderman from ward one.

"It is with sincere regret I will not run for the post, but my job is very demanding and I plan to spend more time with my family," he said.

Scanlan has been a resident of the city for 16 years and was first elected as an alderman in 1967.

The man who calls himself the "out-spoken alderman" was instrumental in obtaining a city-owned garbage system and was chairman of the special committee to study the refuse problem. He is also a member of the license, police and health committee.

Cracker Barrel

Between mini-classes at Sacred Heart of Mary High School this week, girls have been seen playing cards on the floors of the halls. One wonders, however, how serious these games are getting. One girl had a sign next to her that read "Never give a sucker an even break."

Police in Rolling Meadows are getting romantic. A wolf whistle and "Hiya, babe" was heard coming out of a squad car on Central Road recently.

Although there was no ice on the floor of Kimball Hill school Tuesday night, the school attracted a lot of hockey fans. Chico Maki, Black Hawk hockey star, attracted so many fans at Kimball Hill PTA that it was standing room only — just like at a Hawk's game.

Proclaim Jaycee Week

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer has proclaimed the week of Jan. 17-23 as Jaycee Week in the city. Meyer read a proclamation at the Tuesday city council meeting and cited the Jaycees for their past, present, and planned services to the city.

The Jaycees are planning a number of events during Jaycee Week, including a Boss' night dinner at Lancer's restaurant Monday. A guest speaker is scheduled.

The local Jaycee Week is in conjunction with the 51st anniversary of the national organization.

Dist. 15 Geared To Individuals

by MARGE FERROLI

Accountability. It's a big and important word to most school districts right now.

Being accountable to the students in a district means responding to the individual educational needs of each student. In Elementary School Dist. 15, accountability has been demonstrated for years through its special education and psychological services program.

"We're trying to give every child equal opportunity to achieve up to his potential," Arnold DeGuisne, Dist. 15 psychologist and director of the special education program, said.

Through psychological and intelligence testing, students in Dist. 15 can be placed into different groups according to their levels of ability. On this smaller group level, where the children's needs are similar, instruction by a specially trained teacher becomes more meaningful to each student.

THERE ARE A vast number of categories that fall under the classification of special education, varying from the maladjusted to the physically handicapped. "It's the question of degree that causes a problem when categorizing students," DeGuisne said. Although physical handicaps can be pretty clearly defined and dealt with, emotional problems that have an effect on a child's ability to learn are often variable and more difficult to determine.

After sufficient physical, neurological and intellectual testing is given a child, he is placed in a particular classroom situation. Dist. 15 provides special instruction to students with physical handicaps, such as those that are hard of hearing, partially sighted, deaf or blind.

Expensive programs for Educable Mentally Handicapped students are also offered by the district. Much of the EMH instruction is handled in what DeGuisne calls "self-contained classrooms," in which the EMH students receive daily instruction in the same environment without having to transfer from room to room or building to building.

A LARGE NUMBER of special education students fall into the learning disabilities category, in which children with certain perceptual handicaps or social and emotional problems receive special daily instruction.

Resource rooms outside of the regular classrooms have been set up in eight of the 17 Dist. 15 schools. In individual daily sessions, students with less severe learning disorders are taken out of their regular classrooms for supplemental instruction. These resource room sessions help a child keep up with his regular classroom load and fellow students.

DeGuisne estimated there are some 250 children currently enrolled in actual special education classes in Dist. 15. However, the program is more far reaching. Between 700 and 800 children each school year regularly visit speech correctionists to overcome speech problems that often stem from psychological problems rather than physical defects.

Another 600 students a year are given diagnostic testing on the request of their classroom teachers or school principals, DeGuisne said. This testing provides a basis for interpretation of certain social or learning problems that have become apparent during the school year.

A staff of 40 teachers and psychologists handle the special education program this school year, although DeGuisne said the staff should increase to over 50 for 1971-72. Since the program began in 1961, it has been undergoing a gradual expansion, with a heavy increase in services going into effect when DeGuisne took over the operation in 1967.

Although Dist. 15 is self-sufficient in providing instruction to students in many special education categories, there are certain areas of low incidence for which the district itself does not provide instruction.

However, the district does participate in the Northwest Suburban Special Education Organization, a cooperative of local school districts, which helps place children with low incidence problems such as multiple handicaps, in programs outside the district.

"Permanence and centralization is extremely important to the success of a special education program," DeGuisne said. The less students are transported from school to school, the stronger the educational impact will be.

If anything, the addition represents a genuine concern for the unique educational problems of handicapped students and should be a definite step towards continued expansion of a strongly needed program.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensey — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearings.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

Tax Vote: June?

by JIM HODL

Will the proposed mental health referendum be held on Feb. 20 as requested by the four-township mental health steering committee?

If the problems concerning precincts are not cleared up by the end of the month, the referendum's date may be postponed.

Somewhere, somebody found a legal reference to the number of polling places that are to be in service during each election. The number is the same required for a Presidential election.

However, there is a big difference between electing a president and voting for a new tax levy. For one thing, there is more interest in electing a president among the people. A lower expected voter turnout would require fewer polling places.

ALSO, THERE is a money problem. While the four townships involved in the referendum (Palatine, Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Wheeling) have many precincts, they do not all have enough money to man all of them with judges.

Palatine and Wheeling townships are two townships that are low on funds. With their fiscal years ending around the April Town meetings, funds are harder to come by.

Palatine Township, after losing their tax surplus last year, had tight budget this year. An unexpected drain of the general assistance fund has already created some problems. Paying 210 judges to man 42 precinct polling places would really put a drain on township finances.

So, the township wants to have only a few precincts. The township could afford 30 judges better than 210.

Volunteer judges have also been suggested. However, who will volunteer to spend an entire Saturday from sunrise to late evening to watch a polling place? Volunteers would be harder to come by than paid judges, especially with only 40 days notice from the mental health steering committee.

KEN DOUGAN, executive director of referendum publicity, has stated the vote must take place on Feb. 20. Any time else would create a conflict with other referendums, elections and tax payments.

From The Library

by VIRGINIA CONNELL

January is V.I.P. month at Rolling Meadows Library.

Beginning this month, all first grade boys and girls are eligible to register for their first library card. Actually no resident of the city is denied library privileges but it is a very important step when a first grader can fill out an application card. The child is asked to print name, address, telephone number, school and grade. Other information is filled out by parents.

The library has several hundred pre-primers and graded primers, to say nothing of the easy books to read.

A fun book at this age is Evers' "Copy Kitten" and "More About Copy Kitten." First Copy Kitten had to learn the hard way, he was a kitten. Then he went about reforming his friends the duck, dog, yes, and even the giraffe, when he tries to rescue the kitten in the pond only to come out wet himself. Does kitten learn that not all his friends are alike? This doesn't interfere with their friendship and everyone is happy in the end.

"Biddy and The Ducks" written by Sondergaard with a word list of 32 easy words, centers around a little girl who finds six eggs and coaxes Biddy the hen to sit on them until they hatch. Much to Biddy's surprise, when hatched she finds herself the mother of six baby ducks and doesn't understand why they wander off to the pond and prefer to swim rather than scratch and dig on the ground.

Do you remember when you were a first grader and the books you had to choose from to read? Two books the young reader today can enjoy are:

"You Will Go To The Moon" by Freeman. A small boy visits a space center and is shown all the steps of man's endeavors to land on the moon. It explains the three steps of the rocket's firing.

Leo Pay's "Look At The Moon" has a list of new words in the back of the book to help the young reader. Billy and Wendy look at the moon and each make up a Prospect Heights has a grade school referendum on Feb. 6 while Arlington Heights has a referendum set for March 13. This precludes most of these two months. In April, village boards, school boards, library boards, park boards and what-have-you boards will be elected. Income tax will be collected April 15 and the property tax will be collected a month later.

In all, with the possible exception of March 27, the referendum could not be held until June, if one is to believe the mental health steering committee.

Their request grants little flexibility to the townships with their precinct problems. They can either rush for Feb. 20 or wait until June.

THIS SITUATION may be a creation of the steering committee's misunderstanding of how townships set up elections. They may not have realized the precinct problem, the costs involved, or even the time involved.

Rushing to a referendum may not only create extra problems for the townships, but a problem for those who will vote on the matter Feb. 20, if it is held then.

The announcement of the referendum may come so fast, many people may miss it completely. They will not turn out to vote and those who would want to oppose the new tax may have an easy time defeating it.

Realizing the program recommended by the committee is good and a long time in coming, and that a 10 cent on $100 tax assessment isn't high, the committee should have given the townships more room to maneuver.

If the referendum is postponed, it will be this situation that will be the cause.

Jayne Inquest Continued Again

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the state attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

Police Structure Change Is Coming

The structure of the Rolling Meadows police department will be changed Feb. 15, according to a resolution passed by city council.

The resolution provides for two lieutenants, three sergeants, four corporals and 16 patrolmen, along with the chief of police. Presently the police department is operating with a chief of police, one captain, a vacant lieutenant's position, four sergeants, and 20 patrolmen.

Case recommended to the city license, police and health committee that the corporal position be a line officer's position on the street, when the sergeant is not around.

Council Raps Health Unit

The Rolling Meadows city council agenda allocates 20 minutes for the audience to speak at each council meeting. The 20-minute time limit was extended to over an hour Tuesday. The discussion brought out many of the city's criticisms of Palatine township activities.

City alderman fired questions at K. E. Dougan and Byrn Witt, director of Clearbrook Center, who had appeared before the council to get the city's support of the mental health referendum and "straighten out any misunderstanding."

Ald. William Ahrens and Thomas Scanlan voiced displeasure at the number of Rolling Meadows residents on the seven member Palatine Township Mental Health board of directors. Only one Rolling Meadows resident is a member of that board. Council members said 40 per cent of the township population is in the city and that about 40 per cent of the members of the board should be Rolling Meadows residents.

MAYOR ROLAND MEYER asked whether politics would play a part in the mental health services, if the township runs the program. Meyer also said the township may "dry up" in a few years and asked what would then happen to the program.

Dougan answered both questions and stated that "we hitched ourselves to the townships only because state law requires us to." If the townships dry up, Dougan said the legislature will provide another entity to take its place, according to his reports from state officials. He said there should be no politics because the mental health agencies will have a majority of members on the board. But he also said the township board of auditors, not the township mental health boards, will make the mental health levy.

Meyer also questioned the administrative costs of the mental health boards. Dougan said there would only be a three-member paid staff.

ALD. SCANLAN said he wasn't satisfied with a present township group and cited the Palatine Township Youth Commission as a "group that does not believe in records and does not keep them."

Martin Pratt, a member of the Palatine Township Mental Health Board, spoke near the end and said he would step down himself and let a Rolling Meadows resident take a seat on the board to "get the good will of the city" toward the mental health referendum.

Nicholas Schmidt, a member of the city mental health committee, said that there had been a lack of communications between the city and the township. But he said, "I would like to see us get behind this thing."

City Clerk's Job To Be Part-time

The city clerk position will be a part-time job after the election this year.

City council voted to make the position part-time by making the salary $600 a year. The city clerk position is one of the nine city offices open in the April election.

The clerk position now is a full-time job held by Mrs. Elizabeth Houldsworth.

OFF THEY GO into the yonder . . . and when they come down they will provide news about air currents. Helium filled balloons with post cards attached were released yesterday by St. James Junior High School students Patricia Willow, left, and Mary Schlickman yesterday.

The cards ask that anyone finding a balloon notify the girls so they can determine wind patterns. The girls are preparing one of approximately 110 science projects for the science fair to be held at the school in March. Winners will go to the Chicago science fair.

Township Officials To Meet On Mental Issue

Officials from Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships will meet Saturday morning to compare notes and problems concerning the upcoming mental health referendum. A proposed tax of 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation will be levied if the referendum passes.

Supervisors, clerks and attorneys of the townships will meet in the Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, at 11 a.m. Saturday to discuss problems they have been having with the referendum, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 20. A main problem will concern the number of precincts in the townships.

Other problems concerning the setting up of the election in the four townships will also be discussed.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen and Wheeling Township supervisor Mrs. Frank Kolerus arranged for the Saturday meeting. Both were concerned about the unanswered questions created by the mental health steering committee's proposal, which came a little over 40 days before the referendum was to be held.

Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove townships have dozens of precincts, most of which they would like to consolidate for the balloting. Attorneys for the townships are looking into whether a reduced number of precincts and polling places can legally be used during the voting.

Ken Dougan, executive director promoting the referendum, said the attorneys of the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council believe the number of precincts can be reduced legally. He said they are writing up a brief on this matter now.

Other items to be discussed by the township officials include the joint printing of ballots, whether there is time to announce special township meetings to resolve local problems concerning the referendum, and whether there is still enough time to post the referendum.

There is a general feeling among the township officials that the referendum should be held on Feb. 20. No official would state if his township was interested in changing the date.

"We were unhappy with the short notice the steering committee gave us, but if we have to hold the referendum with all 57 of our precincts, we'll go ahead with it," said Elk Grove Township Clerk George R. Busse.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen was less happy with current affairs. He said Palatine Township does not have the funds to hire judges to man all 42 of the township's precincts. He said, however, that the Feb. 20 referendum date is still not impossible for his township to meet.

The townships have to resolve their problems before the end of the month since an election has to be announced 20 days before it will be held. If the townships cannot announce the referendum by Feb. 1, it will have to be postponed.

Dougan said the Feb. 20 date was chosen because it will not conflict with other referenda and with the April election, income tax collection and property tax collections. Grade school referenda will be held in Prospect Heights on Feb. 6 and in Arlington Heights on March 13.

A joint mental health program will be coordinated through the Northwest Council if the referendum is passed. A special tax will be levied to pay for the better service the four-township programs will offer. A special mental health district will be set up encompassing the four townships.

JIM DUVAL (5) grabs a pass on the baseline as Chicago Cubs shortstop Don Kessinger tries to intercept. The Prospect High School faculty, with Duval scoring 23 points, dumped the Cubs 82-70

Tuesday at the Prospect fieldhouse. Taking a spill is J. C. Martin, a catcher for the Cubs, and in the background (51) is faculty player Lou Schairer.

Proceeds from the game, viewed by more than 3,500 people, will go toward "charitable" student council programs.

Negotiations Pact Signed In Dist. 23

District 23 Schools

Douglas MacArthur Junior High, Betsy Ross, Anne Sullivan, Dwight Eisenhower, and John Muir.

After seven months of bargaining, a "professional negotiations agreement" was signed this week by representatives of School Dist. 23 teachers and school board.

Items which may be negotiated by the teachers (the Prospect Heights Education Association) and the school board are included in the agreement. Negotiation procedures are also listed in the agreement.

The agreement will go into effect next August and will apply to negotiations between the teachers and the school board for the 1972-73 school year. It does not apply to the 1971-72 salary negotiations slated to start in February.

However, approval of the agreement does clear the way for the negotiations to begin. According to representatives of the teachers' group, they will probably have a salary proposal ready for presentation to the school board by Feb. 15. The proposal will be based on questionnaires concerning salaries, teacher evaluations and fringe benefits, filled out by all of the teachers.

NEGOTIATIONS FOR the 1971-72 school year will be carried out according to provisions in the current professional negotiations agreement, drawn up last year.

According to school officials, there are substantial differences between the current agreement and the new one which was just approved. The current agreement lists only teacher compensation, including salaries and fringe benefits, as a negotiable item. The new agreement, however, also outlines a grievance procedure and provides for mediation.

Ken Bates, a representative of the teachers' group, termed the new agreement "one of the best in the Northwest area." Administrators and school board members in the district have expressed similar sentiments.

Under the new agreement, teachers have specific steps they may follow if they have a grievance. First they may take their problem to the school principal. If they are not satisfied with the first step, they may go to the district superintendent and finally to the school board. According to Gerald McGovern, principal of the Douglas MacArthur Junior High School, "the procedure stops short of guaranteeing the teacher his grievance will be corrected to his satisfaction."

ANOTHER PART of the agreement says that if an impasse is reached in negotiations between the teachers and the school board, outside mediators will be brought in. In this case, a third party would review the proposals of both negotiating teams. If the impasse is still not resolved, a "fact finder" may be brought in. That person would review the proposals and then make specific recommendations.

Neither the actions of the mediator or the fact finder will be binding. The teachers and school board may consider the opinions of the third parties, but they do not have to follow them.

The main focus of negotiations under the new agreement will be the merit system.

tem of teacher compensation, according to school officials. Under the merit system, teachers receive a cost of living increase and a merit increase. This year the cost of living increase equaled 6.3 per cent of the teachers' base pay. Teachers rated "superior" also received $600. "Above average" teachers received $400, and "competent" teachers received $200. Below-average teachers were asked to leave the district.

This is the first year the merit system has been used in the district. The district is the only one in the Northwest suburban area that uses the system in determining salary hikes. In the past the district used the step system in which teachers' salaries were increased according to their experience.

IN 1968 THE TEACHERS and the school board signed a contract providing for the merit system during the 1970-71 and 1971-72 school years. The contract does not extend over the 1972-73 school year, which will be the subject of negotiations under the new agreement.

If the teachers and school board decide during the negotiations next fall that the merit system is unsatisfactory, the contract may not be renewed.

During the summer of 1970 the teachers expressed dissatisfaction with the merit system. According to Bates, this dissatisfaction was based on the amount of the merit increases and not the system itself. Now, he said most of the teachers are satisfied with the increases and the system.

Formal negotiations in Dist. 23 began in 1967, soon after the teachers' group was organized. In the spring of 1968, a mutual agreement was signed by the two parties, which soon led to the formulation of an evaluation instrument. The instrument, which is annually revised, lists criteria by which teachers are evaluated. The present merit system is an outgrowth of the first evaluation instrument, according to school officials.

Sports Night Monday

Monday is family sports night at Indian Grove School in Prospect Heights.

The event is sponsored by the school's PTA, as part of the current year's program theme "growing together with our children."

Pat Stapleton, captain and the defenseman for the Chicago Black Hawks professional hockey team, will be the guest speaker at the PTA meeting. He will discuss hockey playing and give out autographed pictures.

Bands Prepare For Fiedler's Baton

The John Hersey High School bands are busy rehearsing for their third annual Pops Concert Jan. 26, to be conducted by Arthur Fiedler, conductor of the Boston Pops Symphony Orchestra.

The concert will be presented at 8 p.m. in the Hersey gymnasium, 1900 East Thomas St., Arlington Heights. Tickets, $2.50 per person, and may be purchased by contacting the school at 259-8500.

Fiedler will conduct the band's symphonic winds group in playing "Festive Overture" by Dmitri Shostakovich, "American Salute" by Morton Gould, and "Finale From The New World Symphony" by Antonin Dvorak. The symphonic winds will also play "America the Beautiful," and "Hello Dolly."

Leroy Anderson's "Serenata" will also be conducted by Fiedler and performed by the concert band. The concert band will also play "California Dreamin'," "Monday, Monday," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," and "West Side Story."

THE STAGE BAND will open the concert with four tunes ranging from jazz to rock.

The band faculty, including Donald Canova and Robert Rogers, and the Hersey administration are now making arrangements for Fiedler's visit. Soon after his arrival Jan. 25, Fiedler will rehearse with the high school bands and later talk to the band members at a reception. Fiedler will attend another reception and luncheon the next day for the parents of the band members, who comprise the Hersey Instrumental Association. Later that day the parents will prepare the gym for the concert. Fiedler's appearance is sponsored by the association.

After the concert Tuesday evening, Fiedler will attend a third reception to which community leaders from throughout the Midwest have been invited.

Fiedler was first appointed conductor of the Boston Pops in 1930. He began his career at the age of 20 as a violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. More than 47 million records by Fiedler and the Boston Pops have been sold since 1935.

The Cubs In Action On Page 12

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensley — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearing.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

The top aide to Sen. Hiram Fong — Robert T. Carson — was indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of perjury and conspiracy to fix a securities fraud case involving a reputed New York Mafia chief.

211-214 High School Boundary Change Is Approved

by JUDY BRANDES
Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 53 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and 214. Dist. 211 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

Survivor Of Crash Gets New Home

Donna Sue Singleton, 27 months, has a new home less than 10 days after a tragic automobile accident took the lives of her mother and father, two sisters and a brother.

She is living with her aunt, Shirley Singleton, 29, and grandmother, Mrs. Halie Singleton, 62, on a small farm in Speedwell, Tenn.

Donna Sue was released from W. S. Major Hospital in Shelbyville, Ind., Tuesday after the accident occurred on Interstate 74, near Shelbyville, when the Elk Grove Village family was returning from a holiday trip to see relatives in Claiborne County, Tenn. Also killed in the accident were three women in another car.

In a telephone conversation with her day following her recovery from internal injuries sustained in the Jan. 3 automobile accident. At one time she was in critical condition.

aunt and grandmother yesterday, they said the girl was doing fine.

"Donna was playing with her doll and buggy," said her aunt, legal guardian of the child.

The grandmother said Donna will have a couple of good playmates in her son, Wayne's two children, Kevin, 3, and Terry, six weeks, who live next door.

The farm has "a little tobacco, hay, and we have some cattle," Miss Singleton said.

Donna is all right, she said, except for a cut on her left leg. The stitches are out now, she said, but the bandage is still there.

Mrs. Singleton said Donna received many cards while at the hospital from people wishing her well. Miss Shirley Singleton and her brother, Wayne, picked the child up from the hospital this week.

Donna's parents lived in Elk Grove Village since 1966 and were always in regular attendance at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, according to friends.

Her brother, Michael, 7, and sisters, Sandra, 9, and Diana, 5, attended the Ira Rupley School in Elk Grove Village. Mr. Edsel Singleton, 32, was employed as a centerless grinder with R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co. in Centex Industrial Park in the village.

The Singletons' closest relative while living in Elk Grove Village, was a sister of Singleton, Mrs. Charles Tibbs of 56 W. Westfield Ln., Des Plaines.

Sewer Installation On Schedule

Work on the installation of sanitary sewers to service three subdivisions south of Golf Road and west of Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect is about 30 per cent complete.

David Creamer, director of the Mount Prospect Public Works Department, said yesterday two construction crews from S. H. Cassidy Inc. of Skokie are working on the project.

Work includes laying underground pipes on Can-Dota and Wa-Pella streets south of Weller Creek for the installation of sanitary sewers, and a lift station to service Windsor and Huntington Estates, and the Kaplan and Braun subdivision south of Golf Road.

The project calls for the installation of underground pipes in the parkway on the west side of Wa-Pella Street south to the south property line of Sunset Park School. The sewer lines will then be continued west on the school property to Can-Dota street and south on the east side of Can-Dota to Golf Road.

Creamer said the trenches have already been dug along the east parkway of Can-Dota to Golf Road.

"At present, one crew is working in the area of Golf Road and Wa-Pella Street, tricot property just south of the creek at Man-A-Wa and Wa-Pella streets, where the Metropolitan Sanitary District interceptor sewer is located," he explained.

The project, scheduled for completion in about two months, will provide sanitary sewers in this area with a direct line to the MSD interceptor sewer. "By trying directly into the MSD sewer, we can eliminate some of the sewer problems we have in this section of the village."

"We can't tie in with our own sewers system because they're already overloaded," Creamer said.

In addition to the installation of sanitary sewers, a lift station will also be built on the south side of Golf Road at Wa-Pella Street. Cost of both projects is estimated at about $137,000. Village Engineer Bill McManamon said the cost will be shared by the developers of the three subdivisions.

Mock UN Session Set

Three foreign sailors currently stationed at Great Lakes Naval Air Base in Glenview will participate in a mock United Nations session today organized by students at Prospect High School.

The session will be held at 10 a.m. and will deal with the admittance of Red China into the UN.

The three sailors expected to attend the mock session are from France, Turkey and Ethiopia.

Approximately 30 students enrolled in a persuasive speech class at the school are participating in the session. David Thomas of Mount Prospect will act out the role of the secretary-general.

SPANISH INSTRUCTION with English textbooks will be the way Teresa Delgadillo teaches a course on the GED Test for Mexican Americans in the Northwest suburbs.

'Chicano' Seeks Class Recruits

Teresa Delgadillo, daughter of a "Chicano" family, would like to see the Mexican-Americans living in the Northwest suburbs be as proud of their background as she is of hers.

"Chicano is an identification word which has caught on in the West. I'd like to see it catch on here among the people with a Mexican heritage," she said.

HELPING Mexican-Americans accept and be proud of their heritage has been a lifelong project for Teresa. Next week she will begin teaching an evening course at Palatine High School to help Spanish speaking people study for the High School Equivalency Test.

A word-of-mouth campaign is under way in the Mexican-American communities in the Northwest suburbs to recruit students for the class. "The only way I can reach them is to go to the places where Mexican-Americans hang out and talk about the class," Teresa said. In California proudly call themselves.

"Chicano" is what Mexican-Americans High School Dist. 211, which is sponsoring the class, is contacting employers of Mexican-Americans for help in promoting the class.

"MY PARENTS were fiercely proud of their Mexican background and taught my brother and sister and me to also be proud. We all work in helping Chicanos get ahead, but not by denying our background."

Teresa is married to Jack Bevington, whom she met in college in Los Angeles. "Because of me we have been prejudiced against. My children are also feeling prejudice in their Palatine school. I am appalled that people around here do not realize there is a problem."

She plans to teach the course in English but talk in Spanish on specific problems students have: "I never studied Spanish in school. We spoke it at home only."

The test, which the course prepares students to take, is in English: "I find the hardest parts for Spanish speaking Americans to pass are the reading and math sections."

ONCE A STUDENT passes all five sections of the equivalency test, he receives a certificate stating he has a general educational background similar to that of a high school graduate.

Teresa has been a teacher seven years. While living in Denver two years ago, she helped begin a program to help inmates of the Denver County Jail study for the high school equivalency test.

"When we started the program, one woman finished and got her certificate. Now almost half the class finishes with a high school equivalency certificate."

TERESA FEELS adult education programs will help her suburban Chicano friends: "You have to give them a feeling of self worth. I really hope this program will help."

Anyone interested in the course, call GED for Spanish Speaking People, can contact the Dist. 211 Administration Building, 1750 Roselle Rd., Palatine, 359-3300.

Men Forming Talk Group

A new roundtable discussion group for men is being formed in the Mount Prospect area. The group will hold its first weekly meeting at 6:30 p.m. next Monday at the Village Pancake House on Rand Road in Mount Prospect.

The new organization is known as "Search and Share." According to one of its originators, David Quigley, "each meeting will be divided into three parts of learning and sharing." The first part will be "an informal discussion period moderated by a different member each week."

The second will be "a formal period at which three different members each week present their views on subjects, generally of their own choice. The third and final part will be "an evaluation period during which the entire meeting is evaluated by a panel composed of club members."

Purpose of the group, said Quigley, is to "develop leadership abilities, develop better informed citizens, and develop improved conversational abilities."

At the group's first meeting Monday, information will be distributed on the group. No reservations for the new group are required. Those seeking additional information can call Quigley after 6 p.m. His phone number is 827-4845.

Charged With Car Theft

A 48-year-old Des Plaines man was charged with a car theft Monday following a complaint signed by Mack Cadillac Corp. of Mount Prospect.

Thomas McKenna, of 1984 Wellwyn Ave., was arrested by Downers Grove police after he sold the allegedly stolen auto to Borg Pontiac of Downers Grove. McKenna was charged with auto theft and theft of license plates registered to Alan Chapman, of 742 W. Algonquin Rd., Mount Prospect.

McKenna was released to the Mount Prospect Police Department, where he was charged on two counts and released on $10,000 bail. McKenna is scheduled to appear in Niles Court Feb. 9 on the charges.

Police said McKenna was identified by a salesman for Mack Cadillac as the man who allegedly stole a 1970, blue-green Cadillac convertible Saturday.

The salesman told police he had allowed McKenna, who had identified himself as James Pierce of Park Ridge, to test-drive the car, which he then allegedly stole. According to police, McKenna told the salesman he wanted to show the auto to his wife and he would return the car in 30 minutes.

When McKenna didn't return with the car, the salesman called police. Monday a salesman for Downers Grove Oldsmobile called Mack Cadillac inquiring about the list price of a 1970 Cadillac convertible, police said.

Police said a description of the car in question by the Downers Grove salesman matched the description of the auto stolen from Mack Cadillac.

Since McKenna had already left the Downers Grove dealership, the salesman notified police of the stolen auto.

In the meantime, McKenna sold the allegedly stolen car to Borg Pontiac. Police said McKenna and a salesman for Borg Pontiac were stopped by Downers Grove police when the car in which they were riding matched the description of the stolen auto.

Police said McKenna had sold the auto using a title, insurance policy and driver's license issued to Louis Conti, of 7155 N. Kenton, Lincolnwood.

The license plates on the allegedly stolen auto were registered to Chapman, who reported the plates stolen to Cook County police Monday.

The motor number of the car, sold by McKenna, matched the serial number of the auto stolen from Mack Cadillac, police said. Identification issued to Conti, which McKenna used to sell the auto, was reportedly stolen from the glove compartment of Conti's car. Police said both cars were the same model and color with the exception of Conti's car being a hardtop.

Resource Center Gets Grant

The Northwest Human Resources Development Center in Rolling Meadows has received a $10,000 grant from the state of Illinois to train local law enforcement officials in crime and delinquency.

According to Thomas Jauch, director of the center, the money will be used to train all Northwest suburban police forces that apply for the training. Jauch said that he expects about 100 police officers to take part in the training.

Two officers from each area force will be invited to participate in the classes to be held at night and on weekends, Jauch said.

Classes will be taught in behavior development, delinquency, drug addiction and handling sexual offenses. The classes will be concerned with handling domestic problems, according to Jauch.

ABOUT 40 TO 50 police cadets will be instructed by Jauch and his staff. Jauch said he expects about 40 police officers from area police forces to enroll in the classes. Enrollment is not limited. Classes will be held at the center on Central Road.

The center applied for the grant in May and will begin conducting classes next month.

The program will have three stages. Jauch will teach police cadets at the academy. He will also teach "refresher courses" to officers who have been on the force 10 or 15 years. The officers will then go back to the force and educate the other officers in handling of domestic affairs.

THE MONEY WILL be used primarily for instructional materials and salary of the teaching personnel, Jauch said. Donald MacBride, a new member of the center, will teach some classes. There will also be two consultants from the police academy working in the program.

The grant is part of Gov. Ogilvie's Action Now program to help police officers handle crime and delinquency.

Continue Jayne Inquest

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the state's attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, state attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

Presbyterian Church Selects New Pastor

The Rev. Amos Neilson Wilkie is the new pastor of Community Presbyterian Church, 407 N. Main St., in Mount Prospect. He was named to the post last week.

Rev. Wilkie is currently the pastor at the Coleville United Presbyterian Church in Silver Spring, Md., a post he has held for more than 10 years.

A graduate of McCormick Theology Seminary in Chicago and Hartwick College in New York, he has also served as pastor of churches in Wisconsin and New York.

Township Officials To Meet On Mental Issue

Officials from Palatine, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships will meet Saturday morning to compare notes and problems concerning the upcoming mental health referendum. A proposed tax of 10 cents on $100 assessed valuation will be levied if the referendum passes.

Supervisors, clerks and attorneys of the townships will meet in the Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine, at 11 a.m. Saturday to discuss problems they have been having with the referendum, tentatively scheduled for Feb. 20. A main problem will concern the number of precincts in the townships.

Other problems concerning the setting up of the election in the four townships will also be discussed.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen and Wheeling Township supervisor Mrs. Frank Kolerus arranged for the Saturday meeting. Both were concerned about the unanswered questions created by the mental health steering committee's proposal, which came a little over 40 days before the referendum was to be held.

Palatine, Wheeling and Elk Grove townships have dozens of precincts, most of which they would like to consolidate for the balloting. Attorneys for the townships are looking into whether a reduced number of precincts and polling places can legally be used during the voting.

Ken Dougan, executive director promoting the referendum, said the attorneys of the Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council believe the number of precincts can be reduced legally. He said they are writing up a brief on this matter now.

Other items to be discussed by the township officials include the joint printing of ballots, whether there is time to announce special township meetings to resolve local problems concerning the referendum, and whether there is still enough time to post the referendum.

There is a general feeling among the township officials that the referendum should be held on Feb. 20. No official would state if his township was interested in changing the date.

"We were unhappy with the short notice the steering committee gave us, but if we have to hold the referendum with all 37 of our precincts, we'll go ahead with it," said Elk Grove Township Clerk George R. Busse.

PALATINE TOWNSHIP supervisor Howard Olsen was less happy with current affairs. He said Palatine Township does not have the funds to hire judges to man all 42 of the township's precincts. He said, however, that the Feb. 20 referendum date is still not impossible for his township to meet.

The townships have to resolve their problems before the end of the month since an election must be announced 20 days before it will be held. If the townships cannot announce the referendum by Feb. 1, it will have to be postponed.

Dougan said the Feb. 20 date was chosen because it will not conflict with other referenda and with the April election, income tax collection and property tax collections. Grade school referenda will be held in Prospect Heights on Feb. 6 and in Arlington Heights on March 13.

A joint mental health program will be coordinated through the Northwest Council if the referendum is passed. A special tax will be levied to pay for the better service the four-township programs will offer. A special mental health district will be set up encompassing the four townships.

Board Approves Five-Point Plan For Town Traffic

A five-point plan to alleviate some of the traffic problems in downtown Mount Prospect was approved Tuesday by the village board.

Purpose of the plan is to improve traffic control and safety by redesigning key intersections in the downtown business district. Intersections slated for improvements this year include Lincoln, Main and Elmhurst Road; Main, Evergreen, Prospect and Northwest Highway; Maine and Busse Avenue; Main and Central Road; and Northwest Highway, Maple and Evergreen streets.

The village board met Tuesday with the safety commission and members of the Chamber of Commerce to discuss details of a traffic study conducted last year by the engineering firm of Crawford, Bunte and Roden. The St. Louis firm was hired by the village to survey major intersections throughout town and recommended ways to solve some of the traffic problems in the village.

The safety commission reviewed the traffic study, submitted last March, and recommended Tuesday the board schedule immediate improvements for key intersections and streets in the downtown area.

These improvements will be only one part of the "comprehensive" village traffic plan. Additional projects will have to be tackled over a two-year period because they require extensive engineering studies and financing.

THE INTERSECTION of Northwest Highway, Maple and Evergreen streets will be changed to allow only one-way traffic eastbound on Evergreen between Maple and Elm Streets. The change is expected to alleviate traffic control and safety problems near the village hall and post office.

The intersection of Lincoln, Main and Elmhurst Road will be redesigned to eliminate the safety problems around the S-bend of Elmhurst Road (Route 83). Traffic northbound and southbound on Elmhurst Road will have the right-of-way.

Traffic eastbound on Lincoln Street will be allowed to turn only southbound on Elmhurst Road (Route 83) or northbound on Elmhurst Avenue. Traffic westbound on Lincoln Street will be allowed to turn north on Elmhurst Road (Main Street) or south on Main Street.

TRAFFIC SOUTHBOUND on Elmhurst Road (Main Street) will not be allowed to continue south on Main Street at Lincoln. Traffic northbound on Elmhurst Road (Route 83) will not be allowed to continue north on Elmhurst Avenue at Lincoln.

In short, the intersection will be redesigned to eliminate cross traffic on the S-bend of Elmhurst Road. According to police, the S-bend has been a safety problem and the site of many auto accidents in recent years.

Improvements at the intersection of Main, Evergreen, Prospect and Northwest Highway were approved by the board pending additional discussion with businessmen in the immediate area. Village trustees, safety commissioners and members of the Chamber of Commerce could not agree on how traffic on Evergreen Avenue should be rerouted.

Crawford, Bunte and Roden recommended Evergreen Avenue be changed to one-way westbound which would eliminate a "bottleneck" at the intersection south of the Chicago and North Western R.R. tracks.

SOME MEMBERS OF the Chamber of Commerce suggested, if Evergreen is one-way westbound, the present traffic lanes could be used for diagonal parking and the median strip could be removed with that area used for traffic. The trees located in the median on Evergreen would have to be removed, according to this plan.

It was pointed out that the trees would eventually have to be destroyed because of Dutch Elm disease since the government's ban on DDT (used to prevent Dutch Elm disease), it is estimated many of the elm trees in the village will become diseased in two to three years.

Disagreements over redesigning Evergreen Avenue prompted village officials to postpone any final decision until they could meet with merchants whose businesses may be affected by the change. A meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 10 in the municipal building.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR the intersection of Main and Northwest Highway will include the addition of left-turn bays at all four corners. However, improvements here will also depend on details of the plan for Evergreen Avenue.

Residents May Register To Vote

Mount Prospect residents may register to vote today through Tuesday at the village clerk's office located on the first floor of the municipal building, 112 E. Northwest Hwy.

After Tuesday, voter registration will not be accepted by the village clerk until after the village elections April 20.

Mount Prospect residents, who wish to vote April 20 but have not registered, must do so at the village clerk's office no later than next Tuesday or at the township clerk's office no later than March 23.

18-YEAR-OLD residents may also register but they will not be allowed to vote in the village elections April 20. Although the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the 18-year-old vote is constitutional, the law applies only to federal elections.

The village clerk's office is open weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mount Prospect residents who live in Wheeling Township may register to vote at the township offices, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., Arlington Heights. Registration will be accepted weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Mount Prospect residents who live in Elk Grove Township may register at the clerk's office in the town hall, 2400 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights. The clerk's office is open weekdays, except Wednesday, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Office hours on Wednesday and Saturday are from 9 a.m. to noon.

Voter registration at the village clerk's office will be resumed April 26 and continue through Sept. 27.

not to make baseball their livelihood, it was Jenkins who kept the fans laughing.

Jenkins, who toured with the Harlem Globetrotters, a traveling professional comic basketball team, began the evening by intentionally falling flat on his face when announced by Rush as a member of the starting lineup.

Later, during the game, Jenkins stopped play and took a youngster from his seat in the stands to let him take a few shots at the basket. The only catch was that each time the youth missed, Jenkins removed an article of clothing from him.

Finally, sans coat, tennis shoes, stocking cap and glasses, the youngster banked it in from two feet out.

Perched behind the Cub's bench, she earned herself a "high-ya sweetie" from Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the Cubs manager and a surprise spectator at the game.

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops — more than 13,000 of them — dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.08 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates — Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensey — accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearing.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

Condon Gets Solid Backing By Colleagues

Members of the Arlington Heights Park Board defended one of their own members Tuesday night passing a resolution urging Edward Condon to retain his seat on the Park Board.

The resolution, which was introduced with a humorous poem, was in answer to an editorial which appeared in the Arlington Heights Herald Dec. 28. The editorial asked for the resignation of board member Condon, who was appointed to the board in March, 1968.

The editorial was based on the change in the state law since then which requires appointees to stand for election at the next regular election. With the regular park elections coming up in April, the editorial asked for Condon's resignation on the basis of adhering to the spirit of the new law. At present, Condon will not have to stand for election and will serve until April, 1973.

WHEN THE EDITORIAL appeared, the headline mistakenly said, "Edward Gordan Should Resign."

The resolution, approved by four board members, with Condon abstaining, reads as follows:

"Whereas, we hold these truths to be self-evident:

"Editorial writers are profound,

"Many live to become renowned,

"They write of cabbages and kings,

"People, the law and things,

"But, alas, even after most careful study, an editorial writer

"May make headline boobos and reach conclusions he ought-not-er,

"And this is what happened to an editorial in the Arlington Heights Herald of Monday, December 28, 1970, entitled "Edward Gordan Should Resign" (see Edward Condon).

"And the Board of Park Commissioners of the Arlington Heights Park District by this resolution takes exception to that editorial wherein Edward Condon was urged to resign as a Park District Commissioner because his continuance in office violated 'the spirit of the present law governing Park District appointees,' albeit recognizing his sterling qualities."

"NOW, THEREFORE, be it resolved, by the Arlington Heights Park District, through its duly authorized and assembled Board of Park Commissioners:

"1. That the law under which Edward Condon was appointed is clear and unambiguous and he is entitled to occupy the office of commissioner until April, 1973, without fear of successful challenge.

"2. That under these circumstances, there is no need to call upon the soaring spirits of the law."

"3. That if Edward Condon were to resign in response to the editorial a majority of the five-member board could be inexperienced during a period when a

3 Presented To Dist. 25 Caucus

Three names were presented to the Dist. 25 School Board Caucus last night as possible candidates for the Board of Education.

Delegates to the caucus expressed disappointment at the shortage of potential candidates and voted to extend the deadline for nominations until 12:01 a.m., Monday.

Three seats on the Board of Education will be vacated by incumbents after the April election. The caucus will slate three candidates for these positions at its final meeting Feb. 3.

Possible candidates nominated last night are:

—Richard Smiley, 42, of 436 S. Yale

Ave., who works in the data processing division of IBM. Smiley has lived in the district for two years and has four children.

—Robert Kazlauskis, 35, of 639 N. Kaspar, who is the manager of the policy department of Chicago Title and Trust Co. He has been a resident for five years and has four children. He served as chairman of the 1970 school board caucus.

—Ted Bialek, 43, of 1527 N. Pine, who is a financial operations consultant for International Minerals and Chemicals in Skokie. He has been a resident for seven years and has five children.

THESE CANDIDATES and any others whose names are submitted by Monday morning will be interviewed by an eight-member selection committee which will report to the Feb. 3 meeting. On Feb. 3, delegates will name the three candidates the caucus will endorse.

Following presentation of the three names, Caucus Chairman Donald Schroeder told delegates he was disappointed that they had not presented more candidates. He said, "You folks aren't doing your job. You must scour your community for outstanding candidates for these vacancies. To go to a meeting and screen three candidates for three positions is kind of a farce."

Park Missile Is Aimed At Nike Site, Too

by SANDRA BROWNING

Everybody wants the Army Air Defense Command Nike site in Arlington Heights.

Or so it seems judging from recent actions by the Arlington Heights Village Board and the Arlington Heights Park Board.

During a Park Board meeting Tuesday night, board member Roy Bressler said that the board members should get "our objectives lined up with the village on the Nike site."

The park district would like to acquire the site on Central Road and develop it as a golf course if and when the site is declared as surplus by the federal government.

However, the village has also put itself on the waiting list, if and when the site is declared surplus.

And in the hierarchy of who gets first crack at federal land which is declared surplus, the village comes before the park district. Both come after federal and state agencies.

PARK BOARD members took no formal action on Bressler's suggestion to get together with the village on the project.

The park board is in the process of forming a citizens' committee to acquire the site. A list of names drawn up by park board members has been submitted and letters of invitation will be going out soon.

Board members hope this committee will act as a pressure group to contact state and federal legislators and administrators to lobby for the 140-acre site.

Volunteers for the committee are also being sought and persons interested in working with the group may contact Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation, at the park district's administration offices.

Later in the meeting, Thornton told board members the village has approved the proposed location of the covered bridge in Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Safford Drive. The bridge was donated to the park district by a local developer who had built the bridge as a publicity gimmick.

PARK DISTRICT personnel dismanted the bridge, numbering the boards so it could be reassembled, in September, 1969. Since then, the bridge boards have been stored.

A portion of Camelot Park is slated by the village for development of a retention basin to prevent flooding from McDonald Creek, which flows through the park. The park district has been waiting for village approval before reassembling the bridge.

Now that the village has granted approval of the location of the bridge, drawings for footings for the bridge will be prepared and approved by the park board.

In other action, the board approved a bill of about $260 from Lancer's Steak House. The bill was a result of the Christmas party for park district employees.

2 Park Boards To Meet Jan. 26

A tentative date of Jan. 26 was set Tuesday night by the Arlington Heights Park Board for a joint meeting with the Salt Creek Rural Park Board.

Charles Cronin, president of the Arlington Heights Park Board, said he had contacted the president of the Salt Creek Park Board and both agreed on a Jan. 25 date. However, that is the date of the Arlington Heights Park Board's regularly scheduled meeting at Frontier Park, Kennicott Drive and Palestine Road. Residents in the area of the park on the northwest side of the village will be attending the meeting and board members decided not to try to hold the joint meeting until the next day.

THE ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Park Board has been eying the Salt Creek Rural Park District for more than a year because the rural park district includes the Arlington Park Race Track and surrounding land.

The Arlington Heights Park District would like to add the track property to its assessed valuation since the property was annexed to the village.

Cronin said the Salt Creek Rural Park Board president had no objections to sitting down with the other park board to discuss the possibilities of annexation of the smaller park district to the Arlington Heights Park District.

An official announcement on the joint meeting will be made after Cronin checks with the Salt Creek Rural Park Board again.

Finally, sans coat, tennis shoes, stocking cap and glasses, the youngster banked it in from two feet out.

Perched behind the Cub's bench, she earned herself a "high-ya sweetie" from Leo "The Lip" Durocher, the Cubs manager and a surprise spectator at the game.

Eye Reciprocal Borrowing

by WANDALYN RICE
Arlington Heights residents may soon find themselves competing with persons from neighboring communities for library books.

The governing board of the North Suburban Library System (NSLS), of which the Arlington Heights Memorial Library is a member, will decide in the next few months on a program of reciprocal borrowing within the system.

Members of the library board of directors were told by board president Mrs. Robert Wallace that a committee of the NSLS board will report on reciprocal borrowing in late February. The NSLS board is expected to vote in March.

The system must, under state law, institute a system of reciprocal borrowing among its 31 members by June 28.

A RECIPROCAL borrowing arrangement would allow a resident of any community within the system to use his library card in any library within the system. Thus, a resident of Palatine or any other town with a library in the NSLS could go to the Arlington Heights library and use his Palatine library card to check out books.

Larger libraries within the system have taken the position that they want to be reimbursed for the increased use under any plan.

Executive librarian Harold Ard said the NSLS has had a pilot program of reciprocal borrowing this year, but seven libraries, Arlington Heights, Evanston, Skokie, Lake Forest, Park Ridge, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect, have refused to participate.

As of June 28, all libraries must participate in reciprocal borrowing in order to remain in the system, Ard said.

In addition, under the NSLS rules a library must give 90-day notice before the beginning of a new fiscal year to withdraw from the system for the next year, attorney Marland Smith said.

THUS, IF the Arlington Heights library decided not to participate in reciprocal borrowing, it would have to announce intent to withdraw from the NSLS by April 1, Smith said.

Also, Smith said, "I continue to be nervous about our right to withdraw from the system."

Originally rules for the NSLS said no library could withdraw without permission of the state library, Smith said. This provision was withdrawn by the NSLS board before the Arlington Heights library joined the system.

However, since then the state librarian has said publicly that libraries need his permission to withdraw from a system and the Arlington Heights library pointed out that the NSLS had different rules.

"I SMELL A fight coming," Smith said. "Even though I believe we have made a good case it is possible the state library might try to enjoin this library from withdrawing if the state library decides the NSLS could not make that rule change."

The trend under state law, Smith said, is toward library systems that will serve as a channel for all state aid. The systems would be controlled from the state library, he said.

"We are coming closer and closer to the day when the state will not allow a library to exist without a system."

The Arlington Heights library is supported by property taxes and bond issues approved and paid for by residents of the village.

OK School Boundary Change

by JUDY BRANDES
Rolling Meadows students living east of Route 53 will be able to attend Rolling Meadows High School when it opens this fall.

The Cook County Board of School Trustees yesterday decided to grant a request for a boundary change to residents who were trying for the second time in six years to join their neighbors living in High School Dist. 214.

Last week the county board reached a tie vote after three hours of testimony from residents and high school officials from both High School Dist. 211 and 214. Dist. 211 opposed the boundary change, which will reduce their bonding capacity, as did parents of 27 upcoming seniors at William Fremd High School.

Yesterday, after county board members voted to reconsider the tie vote, the board voted 5 to 1 in favor of the boundary change.

Richard Sheldon of Winnetka, who originally voted against the request but voted for it on the second vote, said he hoped the city officials who said they would help pay tuition for the seniors would feel a moral obligation to do so.

AT THE PUBLIC hearing on the request 10 days ago, Mayor Roland Meyer said the city would help pay the tuition, so the upcoming seniors could complete high school at William Fremd High School in Dist. 211.

Letters, telegrams and petitions sent by local residents to the county board after the Jan. 4 hearing were not considered by the board before it made a final decision. The board was advised by its legal counsel that only testimony and documents submitted at the hearing could be considered.

Sixty telegrams supporting the boundary change, 12 letters both for and against the change, and two petitions one from 40 Fremd High School students who want to attend Rolling Meadows High School and one from 24 of the 27 upcoming seniors possibly affected by the change — were sent to the board this week.

IF THE CITY of Rolling Meadows and the two high school districts cannot come to agreement on tuition for the 27 seniors, the students will be bused to Forest View High School where 29 Rolling Meadows high school students in Dist. 214 will be next year. Rolling Meadows High School will not have a senior class until the fall of 1972.

"I would like to welcome our new residents to Dist. 214 and I am sure the two school districts will be able to work out implementing the boundary change," Richard Bachhuber, Dist. 214 school board president, said.

The two high school districts have yet to work out which district will assume the bonded indebtedness of the area being disannexed from Dist. 211 and annexed to Dist. 214, the tax structure so that Dist. 214 will receive taxes from the area, and which district will receive state aid for the seniors who might remain at Fremd High School.

Board Endorses Condon

concerted effort is being made to expand the services of the Park District; and would result in Edward Condon, or his replacement, having to run for public office twice in two years.

"4. THAT EDWARD Condon is intelligent, astute and long-sighted; and his incisive inquiry, exacting preparation and imaginative approach to the myriad of problems of the Arlington Heights Park District during the past two years has resulted in a worthy esteemable contribution to this community.

"5. That we, the other members of the Board of Park Commissioners of the Arlington Heights Park District urge Edward Condon to retain his office until the expiration of his term.

"6. That a copy of this resolution be spread upon the archives of the Arlington Heights Park District and a copy forwarded to the Arlington Heights Herald."

After the resolution was passed, Condon stated that when he read the editorial, he asked the park district attorney to check into the law under which he was appointed to see if his service on the board was a violation of the "spirit" of the law.

The park district attorney told Condon that it was not in violation and Condon said he decided not to resign.

The Resolution was written by the park attorney, Charles Robinette.

Plan For Library Expansion

The Arlington Heights Memorial Library will be just three years old in June, but plans for expansion are already getting under way.

The library board of directors agreed Tuesday night to study population trends and the long range needs of the library in order to prepare for the day when the library will be too small.

The board did not act, however, on a suggestion that it use between $3,500 and $4,500 to authorize preliminary drawings of a possible addition.

The money could be taken from the construction fund used for the original construction and the drawings could be made by Nicol & Nicol, the original architects, executive librarian Harold Ard said.

Board members discussed the proposal but decided to take no action until they have further information about library needs and about improving use of the existing building.

"We are not using this library to its fullest extent," board member Mrs. Clarence Henrickson said. "We have space we can use if we need it."

Ard said the library is growing rapidly and that "it is not uncommon to have all the seats full." He said that library circulation increased from 420,548 items in 1969 to 659,217 in 1970. During the same period the library collection increased from 30,938 items to 122,196.

The board was advised by attorney Marland Smith to close the library construction fund at the end of the fiscal year.

The fund has been kept open to cover construction-related costs the library has incurred since it was built.

If the board closes the fund, the balance can be transferred to the fund from bond sales, Smith said. About $12,000 remains in the fund.

Mock UN Session Set

Three foreign sailors currently stationed at Great Lakes Naval Air Base in Glenview will participate in a mock United Nations session today organized by students at Prospect High School.

The session will be held at 10 a.m. and will deal with the admittance of Red China into the UN.

The three sailors expected to attend the mock session are from France, Turkey and Ethiopia.

Approximately 30 students enrolled in a persuasive speech class at the school are participating in the session. David Thomas of Mount Prospect will act out the role of the secretary-general.

- THIS IS A SHORT STORY BEGINNING WITH A WANT AD AND ENDING WITH RESULTS -

Board's Future Is Uncertain

The future status of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library board of directors is unclear now that the revised Illinois Constitution has been passed.

In fact, on July 1, the Village of Arlington Heights may actually be able to abolish the elected board and change the way the library is operated, Marland Smith, board attorney, said.

Smith explained to the board Tuesday that library boards in villages have always been "queer creatures" because they are elected by the voters and yet are not fully autonomous.

The library board must have approval of the village board in order to levy taxes, appropriate money, or sell real estate and bonds. Library boards in cities have the same limits on their power, but they are made up of appointed officials, Smith said.

"Under the old constitution the village library board has some independent legal existence, but it is only semi-autonomous," he said.

When the new constitution takes effect, he said, the village will have home rule and will have all governmental powers the General Assembly does not specifically prohibit.

One of these powers is that of providing library service, Smith explained in order to carry forward existing laws that limit the power of villages with home rule, as the library legislation does, a three-fifths vote of the General Assembly will be required.

In other words, if the legislature does not act on the status of libraries before July 1, the village might have the power to abolish the elected library board and create some other means of running the library, Smith said.

However, it is not certain that the village will be able to do that, because the elected library board does have some independence.

"IF THE BOARD were wholly independent, its duties would go on unchanged, but since it's a quasi-village group it may be subject to changes," Smith said.

Dunton Room May Open

Political and religious organizations may soon be able to meet in the library.

The board of directors of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library referred a proposal to change the policy on use of the Dunton Room of the library to its policy committee Tuesday night.

The proposed change, submitted by board member Roland Ley, would open the room to non-profit groups meeting for cultural, educational or civic purposes, even if those groups were religious or partisan.

Present policy on use of the Dunton Room specifically prohibits meetings for "social, religious or partisan" purposes.

ALSO, UNDER LEY'S proposed change, the meeting room, which accommodates 90 persons, would be provided free to non-profit organizations. Presently all organizations pay $15 for use of the room unless the library board agrees by special vote to grant free use.

Ley said he proposed the change, particularly that portion referring to political and religious groups, to bring the policy in line with the "Library Bill of Rights" of the American Library Association.

The bill of rights says that meeting rooms in libraries should be open for "socially useful and cultural activities and discussion of current public questions . . . on equal terms to all groups in the community regardless of the beliefs and affiliations of their members, provided that the meetings are open to the public."

LEY ADDED THAT policy concerning charging for the room should be made uniform, but said he was not deeply concerned about passing his particular recommendation.

The Dunton Room is currently being used 20 to 30 per cent of the time, executive librarian Harold Ard said.

Board member Robert Melroy said he was concerned that opening the library to religious organizations might result in religious services being held on public property.

However, other board members said they believed the room would have more use if the policy was liberalized. Board members Richard Frisbie said, "The Dunton Room sits vacant because the board has written too restrictive a policy."

Board member Charles Edward added, "A library is not just a place for exchange of books and tangible signs of knowledge, it is a place for discussion."

Board president Mrs. Robert Wallace said she was concerned because the library may need the Dunton Room for its own expanding activities.

LEY REPLIED THAT when the library needed the space it would be available, but that the policy should keep the room open until that time.

The Dunton Room policy was last discussed in May, 1970, and the board defeated a proposal by Frisbie to make much the same change in the policy.

At that meeting the board deadlocked with a vote of three-to-three. Since then Ley has been appointed as a seventh member to the board and George Beacham has been replaced by Melroy.

Beacham, a prime mover in building the library three years ago who has since moved out of town, led the opposition to the policy change at that time.

Beacham argued that no organization that espoused views and recruited members should be allowed to meet in the library, even if the meeting were public.

Survivor Of Crash Gets New Home

Donna Sue Singleton, 27 months, has a new home less than 10 days after a tragic automobile accident took the lives of her mother and father, two sisters and a brother.

She is living with her aunt, Shirley Singleton, 29, and grandmother, Mrs. Hallie Singleton, 62, on a small farm in Speedwell, Tenn.

The accident occurred on Interstate 74, near Shelbyville, when the Elk Grove Village family was returning from a holiday trip to see relatives in Claiborne County, Tenn. Also killed in the accident were three women in another car.

Donna Sue was released from W. S. Major Hospital in Shelbyville, Ind., Tuesday following her recovery from internal injuries sustained in the Jan. 3 automobile accident. At one time she was in critical condition.

aunt and grandmother yesterday, they said the girl was doing fine.

"Donna was playing with her doll and buggy," said her aunt, legal guardian of the child.

The grandmother said Donna will have a couple of good playmates in her son, Wayne's two children, Kevin, 3, and Terry, six weeks, who live next door.

The farm has "a little tobacco, hay, and we have some cattle," Miss Singleton said.

Donna is all right, she said, except for a cut on her left leg. The stitches are out now, she said, but the bandage is still there.

Mrs. Singleton said Donna received many cards while at the hospital from people wishing her well. Miss Shirley Singleton and her brother, Wayne, picked the child up from the hospital this week.

Donna's parents lived in Elk Grove Village since 1966 and were always in regular attendance at the Elk Grove Baptist Church, according to friends.

Her brother, Michael, 7, and sisters, Sandra, 9, and Diana, 5, attended the Ira Rupley School in Elk Grove Village. Mr. Edsel Singleton, 32, was employed as a centerless grinder with R. J. Frisby Mfg. Co. in Centex Industrial Park in the village.

The Singletons' closest relative while living in Elk Grove Village, was a sister of Singleton, Mrs. Charles Tibbs of 56 W. Westfield Ln., Des Plaines.

Fiedler will attend another reception and luncheon the next day for the parents of the band members, who comprise the Hersey Instrumental Association. Later that day the parents will prepare the gym for the concert. Fiedler's appearance is sponsored by the association.

After the concert Tuesday evening, Fiedler will attend a third reception to which community leaders from throughout the midwest have been invited.

Fiedler was first appointed conductor of the Boston Pops in 1930. He began his career at the age of 20 as a violinist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra. More than 47 million records by Fiedler and the Boston Pops have been sold since 1935.

The band faculty, including Donald Caneva and Robert Rogers, and the Hersey administration are now making arrange-

Continue Jayne Inquest

For the third, but maybe the last time, the inquest into the death of Inverness resident George W. Jayne was continued upon the request of the Palatine police yesterday.

Anthony J. Sciaraffa, deputy coroner, said the inquest will be continued, hopefully for the last time, to Feb. 10 at the Cook County Morgue Building, Chicago.

Palatine police made their request on advice from the states attorney's office. Nicholas Motherway, states attorney, said "We are asking that the inquest be continued simply because our investigation is not completed."

Sgt. Eugene Bobinski, one of the first officers on the scene the night Jayne, 47, was killed, said the police are asking for another two or three weeks before making any public testimony.

Those attending yesterday's hearing included Edward L. S. Arkema, Jayne's attorney. He agreed to the police request and said he and the family "were well aware of the energetic and full-time investigation" state and local authorities are waging.

To date, no witnesses, including Palatine police, have been subpoenaed. Sciaraffa said he hoped the police would be ready to testify by the February inquest.

Following all testimony, a six-man coroner's jury will render a verdict on Jayne's death.

Jayne, 1918 Banbury Lane, Inverness, was shot on Oct. 28 in the basement of his home. A single bullet was fired through a basement window to where Jayne was sitting at a card table with several members of his family.

Robert Centner, Palatine police chief, said the investigation is "closing in." So far two suspects have been arrested after the Cook County grand jury indicted them for trying to influence the testimony of a grand jury witness.

Melvin Adams, 37, and Miss Patricia Farmer, 24, 14817 S. Kedzie, Posen, are scheduled to appear in criminal court on Jan. 28 for a hearing on these charges.

Behrel Promises To 'Tackle Pressing Problems' Of 70s

by BARRY SIGALE
Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said yesterday the city will have to dig in soon to tackle some of the more pressing problems of the 1970s which are not now being fought on the local level.

Behrel, speaking at the fourth annual Mayor's Prayer Breakfast sponsored by the Des Plaines Jaycees, said problems such as pollution and noise will have to be solved during this century and that the city will have to hire experts and form special departments to succeed in this endeavor.

The mayor took advantage of the gathering of about 130 civic, business and government representatives attending the breakfast by calling on them to offer their time and efforts in helping the city in the future. He said his office would be open for any suggestions or offers of help.

Speaking at the Brass Rail Restaurant in the Sheraton O'Hare Motor Hotel in neighboring Rosemont, Behrel limited his remarks to about 20 minutes, saying he was not going to talk about Weller Creek or sewers, adding only that the city was on a "redevelopment kick. We're on our way," he said. "We are continuing to work on that project."

INSTEAD, BEHREL chose to speak on what he called the "challenge of the '70s."

"The population explosion of the '50s in the city was tremendous," he said. "It tapered off slightly in the '60s and we got through all right, generally accomplishing what we started in the '50s."

"Once upon a time," Behrel said, "Des Plaines was a nice, quiet suburban community. Now, it's no longer a quiet country town. With this growth and the disappearance of the title of small town, many new problems have been created."

Behrel said the city has been fighting a drug problem for many years, and that he is proud of the accomplishments of the juvenile officers of the Des Plaines police department and the Des Plaines Young Commission.

But, there's more to be done, according to the mayor, who said the city must continue to be alert to young folks and their problems.

THEN BEHREL challenged the people in the room who had "sincere intentions to help this city. Call my office," he said.

Behrel also spoke of what he called the "new words that have come to us," words that the mayor regards as the major problems of the '70s.

"There's the very much overworked word of pollution," Behrel said. "In many ways we have been fighting pollution, for instance in the water works. Your water isn't polluted," he said.

"That's no accident. Our biggest worry is that some vandals will get into one of our plants and pull the wrong lever. Then we're in trouble."

Behrel said other new words included air pollution, noise pollution and environmental. He said the city would probably have to muster a great deal of energy to attack these problems.

"The city council shortly will probably have to consider pollution, environment and ecology all in one department, because the city doesn't have experts in city hall. We were so busy in the '50s and '60s that these problems were overlooked. Money had to be used for other things," he said.

Behrel also told the audience that Des Plaines and other municipalities are trying to convince the city of Chicago and the O'Hare Airport Authority to shut down the airport between the hours of 11 p.m. and 6 a.m. It's being done in other areas, the mayor said, citing London and Montreal as cities that have closed their airports to accommodate neighboring residents.

ATTENDING THE breakfast, which was part of the 51st anniversary of the Jaycees in America were police chief Arthur Hintz, fire chief Frank Haag, city clerk Mrs. Eleanor Rahrbach, assistant city clerk Mrs. Marilyn Trest, and aldermen Tom Koplos (1st), Alfred Prickett (2nd), Charles Belek (3rd), Morgan O'Brien (4th), Corvin Wagner (5th), and Ewald Swanson (6th).

Also attending were comptroller Duane Bletz, administrative assistant Robert Carlson, commissioner of public works Joseph Schwab, assistant public works director Wallace Schaefer, health director Mrs. Jean Branding and city engineer Robert Bowen.

Civil Rights Weren't Violated

Couple Loses Tree Verdict

by BOB CASEY
A Federal Court jury yesterday ruled against the Des Plaines couple who contended city officials violated their civil rights by ordering the destruction of trees in the parkway of the couple's home.

The six-member jury returned its verdict after less than an hour's deliberation, finding no liability on the part of Mayor Herbert H. Behrel and former city engineer E. N. Fletcher, who were sued by the couple under the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach, who also had been named as a defendant, was dropped from the suit yesterday at the request of Leonard Karlin, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. Dean Spindler, 2523 Scott St., Des Plaines.

The Spindlers accused city officials of violating their rights in connection with a 1969 special assessment project on the city's south side which resulted in the destruction of 11 evergreen trees in front of the couple's home in order to make way for a sidewalk.

Karlin told the jury that city officials ordered destruction of the Spindler trees, while allowing trees on the parkways in front of other homes to be saved. He later admitted, after the verdict was returned, that his clients had a "thin case" under the federal civil rights law.

THE SPINDLERS asked for a total of $22,000 in damages from the three officials, who were sued as individuals.

U.S. District Court Judge Hubert Will told the jurors that the officials had to be guilty of "purposeful, arbitrary and capricious" conduct against the couple in order to be liable for damages. Judge Will said an error in judgment on the part of the city officials was not enough to constitute a violation of the Spindlers' civil rights.

At the conclusion of the three-day trial, City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi said city officials recognized sincere feelings on the part of the couple that they had been wronged by the city.

"My clients feel the Spindlers brought this (suit) in absolute good faith, and let me assure you that there are no hard feelings and everybody is happy that it's been concluded," he said in court after the jury had been dismissed.

The fact that Mrs. Rohrbach had been named as a defendant when she took no part in the decision to remove the trees was at one point called "indicative of this whole suit" by DiLeonardi. She was dropped as a defendant after witnesses said she had nothing to do with the order to cut down the row of evergreens.

ON THE MORNING of Sept. 4, 1969, Mrs. Spindler carried out a promise to fight for the trees "until the end," throwing her arms around one of the 11 trees and holding tight while workmen started cutting down the evergreens at the other end of her parkway.

When police pulled her hands from the trees, Mrs. Spindler sprained her thumb and had to be treated at Lutheran General Hospital in Park Ridge.

In arguing against the Spindlers' suit yesterday, DiLeonardi said the couple could not have been denied their constitutional rights because the row of trees involved was on city property.

Karlin maintained that the couple had a "secondary right" to enjoy the trees in front of their home. He compared the couple's claim to that of someone owning property next to a pond that was being polluted, saying the owner would have a right to protection of his environment, even if he didn't own the pond.

Fletcher, city engineering consultant on the 1969 special assessment project that included the Spindlers' sidewalk, testified that he recommended against sparing the trees because rerouting the sidewalk would have brought it too close to the Scott St. curb.

According to testimony given during the trial, the city at first indicated that the sidewalk would be built around the trees, but at a September city council meeting decided that they would have to be destroyed.

Day Care Vital For Some

What's it like to be a poor person in Des Plaines? What does being poor in this community mean to the indigent family and to the community where the family lives? Are there really poor people in Des Plaines? Herald/Day staffwriter Cynthia Tivers has found out there are a lot of poor people in Des Plaines and throughout Maine Township. In this last of a series of articles she examines what it's like to be poor and some of the solutions being sought by local persons and agencies.

by CYNTHIA TIVERS
Many families in Des Plaines are in need of some type of temporary help. The Northwest Suburban Day Care Center provides help to mothers who must work but who can't afford to pay regular day care center fees.

"These women are self-supporting," said Mrs. Joan DiLeonardi, founder of the center, "but they don't make much money and can't afford to pay the standard $25 a week day care fee for each child."

Mrs. DiLeonardi said she had a great deal of trouble raising money to start the center. "In order to get money we had to stress the idea that the people who would use the center are poor. But the women do make some money."

Eleven mothers have their children enrolled in the day care center. With the exception of one woman—who has a husband—all the mothers are the breadwinners of their family.

"Most of them make between $80 and $110 a week gross," Mrs. DiLeonardi explained. "After expenses they have very little left over even for food. Most of these women have office jobs and they simply don't have a lot of money."

ACCORDING TO MRS. DiLeonardi, rent is high in Des Plaines but the only place in the area where they're lower is in the western suburbs and some areas of Chicago. "But if they've lived locally most of their lives and other parts of their lives have fallen apart—it's better for those women to stay here where they know where things are at least."

She said that single women with children have trouble finding some place to live. "People don't rent to divorcees or widows with children. They want a man to co-sign the lease. Women who are alone and have small children face double peril—people don't want to rent to them."

Two of the mothers who have children attending the center are Spanish speaking. Mrs. DiLeonardi doesn't think enough Spanish speaking mothers are making use of the center because they either don't know about it or are afraid of sending their children there.

"SPANISH-SPEAKING mothers usually don't read local papers so they must get referrals from someone they trust. They also have such strong family ties they often rely on one another to care for the children in the family."

Mrs. DiLeonardi thinks there's an image problem with the day care center. "People associate the center with poverty," she said, "and judgments are made on enrollees. People tend to say these people are not really poor so why help them. People expect to see tatters and rags as proof of need. But there are a lot of people in the city who are just basking out of a living. My biggest problem has been convincing people that there are poor people in Des Plaines."

She contacted the United States Department of Commerce and got recent statistics which say there are 747 households in Des Plaines that have an average of 4.2 people and a total income of less than $3,000 per year.

THERE ARE 506 households in Des Plaines that have a total income of $3,000 to $5,000. The subsistence level set by the government for a family of four is $3,600.

Mrs. DiLeonardi has strong opinions on what it's like to be poor in Des Plaines. "I think it's a lot harder to be poor here in the suburbs than it is to be poor in a ghetto. Because at least in a ghetto everyone is the same. Here a kid has to walk a mile to school because he doesn't have a fancy bike to ride. And he doesn't have the latest style jacket to wear because he doesn't even have a jacket and he's different and constantly reminded of it by other kids and it hurts... that's what it's like to be poor in Des Plaines..."

This Morning In Brief

The World

Russia sent up another warning flag over Soviet-American relations. A Soviet commentator, in a statement circulated by the Tass news agency, said relations were deteriorating because of American support for Soviet Jews, and suggested it could jeopardize future contacts and negotiations.

The door has been opened for the Roman Catholic church to join the World Council of Churches. The council said it would warmly welcome Vatican membership, and the logical date may be 1975, when the council holds its next full assembly.

The War

South Vietnamese and Cambodian troops—more than 13,000 of them—dug in for a crucial battle to re-open the highway between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's only deepwater port. It's considered a key test of South Vietnam's ability to carry the fighting in Indochina.

The Market

The Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped 3.06 with particular weakness in steels. Pres. Nixon's criticism of Bethlehem's price increase was seen as the cause. On the American Exchange, prices advanced again in brisk trading.

The State

Atty. Gen. William Scott announced the first legal action to be taken by the state in the mystery of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by Secretary of State Paul Powell. Scott will file a civil suit against two of Powell's closest associates—Nicholas Ciacio and Margaret Hensey—accusing them of wrongfully removing records from Powell's office after his death.

The Southern Illinois University board of trustees will be asked tomorrow to approve a statement supporting Edwardsville campus chancellor John Rendleman. Rendleman has been under fire for his actions as executor of the Paul Powell estate, and Edwardsville campus administrators have now sworn their faith in him.

The Nation

The Treasury said public hearings will be held on President Nixon's announced $2.6 billion tax break for businesses, and that the plan has not been finalized. It was denied that the action came because of a Ralph Nader suit challenging the plan for bypassing any hearing.

The defense rested in the My Lai court martial of Sgt. Charles Hutto at Ft. McPherson, Ga. Before sending the case to the jury, the judge said he would instruct the panel that the order to wipe out the village "was illegal."

I mentioned glass recycling Tuesday (at the Izaak Walton League) but forgot something very important. Mrs. John Ormerod, president of Forest School PTA, called me to remind all glass recyclers to remove the metal bands from bottles also.

The bands remain after you have removed a twist off top from a bottle. Mrs. Ormerod suggests you use the point of a puncture type can opener to break the metal. They are lightweight, she added and come off easily.

Forest School has a continuing bottle recycling campaign. It participated in the drive sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines and the PTA keeps the recycling issue in front of its membership.

WE HAVE HAD two carbon monoxide deaths in the past two weeks in Des Plaines. Don't warm up your car in a closed garage. It isn't even safe to sit in your car while it's warming in an open garage. Faulty mufflers are another danger.

Carbon monoxide has no taste or odor — it's called the silent killer.

DO YOU KNOW what is inscribed over the mantel in the state dining room of the White House? Of course you didn't. Well, it says, "I Pray Heaven to Bestow, The Best of Blessings on This House, and on All that shall hereafter Inhabit it. May none but Honest and Wise Men, ever rule under This Roof."

Honest and wise. Got that?

CONGRATULATIONS to patrolman Jack Whelstone of the Des Plaines Police Department and his new bride. They were married on New Year's Eve and will always have something extra to celebrate from here on in.

THE EIGHTH ANNUAL Clergymen's Institute will be held at Forest Hospital, Feb. 3. The session will deal with loneliness — in a minister and in members of his congregation.

"Strangers In A Changing World" is the theme. Rev. R. K. Wobbe of Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church is one of the three co-chairmen for the institute. Rev. Wobbe will also participate as a discussion leader along with Rabbi Jay Karzan of Maine Township Jewish Congregation, and other area clergymen and doctors.

Richard Wolff, author of "The Meaning of Loneliness" is the featured speaker of the afternoon.

MRS. RONALD KELLER is the first mother to receive two champagne dinners at Holy Family Hospital. The dinner which was held last night, is given for the moms and dads the night before they take their new arrival home. Steak and champagne are served by candlelight, compliments of the hospital.

Mrs. Keller had her first dinner at the hospital after delivering Sheryl Ann, Feb. 13, 1970. Michele Lynn was born Tuesday. The Kellers live at 421 Dempster, Mount Prospect.

DON'T FORGET THAT Holy Family Hospital has a new phone number. If you haven't marked it down in your phone book and on your emergency number list, do it now. The new number is 297-1800.

Woman Deacon? Not Likely

by LEON SHURE
She wants to be a deacon. But it doesn't look like she'll have the chance.

Mrs. Polly O'Grady, a Des Plaines mother of four, has applied for the newly created Roman Catholic position of deacon. As far as she knows, she is the only woman who has applied in the Chicago area to become a deacon. And that's part of the problem.

When it was announced several weeks ago that the Roman Catholic church was recreating the ancient role of the deacon, church spokesmen didn't say they were seeking women. They asked for 50 to 100 men.

Mrs. O'Grady said it would take a decision from Rome to open the way for her to become a deacon, and she doesn't think that would be likely.

What she won't be doing is going through a two year training program, which would allow her to be ordained.

BEING A DEACON would have allowed her to perform all priestly functions except performing mass and hearing confessions.

Deacons existed during the early history of the Roman Catholic church. The role of deacon was revived through recent Church reforms.

Mrs. O'Grady first heard about the need for deacons during a sermon at St. Stephens Protomartyr Church, 1267 Everett, Des Plaines.

She has had an interest in theology for most of her life, and she has taken courses at the University of Chicago and Loyola University on theology and philosophy. She has a degree in English from the University of Chicago.

Mrs. O'Grady works as a secretary at Abbott Laboratories, Rosemont. She has four children — Matthew, 15, a Maine West High School student; David, 18, a freshman at Knox College, Thomas, 20, a student at Harper College, Palatine; and Rosemary, 25, a teacher.

SHE HAS BEEN active in the Des Plaines Camera Club, which meets at the South Park Fieldhouse, Des Plaines. She also serves on a committee of the Maine Township Adult Education Program and helped plan a current lecture series.

She terms her application a "test case" and "an act of conscience." She hopes to talk to clergy members of the Catholic Theological Society of America, which is now discussing the deaconate.

Mrs. O'Grady has done some reading in women's liberation, and she feels that she can do the job and ought to.

Individuals are people first, then men and women, she said. Men are as much slaves to the cultural atmosphere.

"People should be treated as equals."

She doesn't agree with all the tactics of the women's liberation movements, especially those practiced by what she calls the "way out" fringe.

"But sometimes the way out fringe is needed to wake people up."

HER INTEREST in the Church was increased by its recent self-reforms, including the diaconate and use of native language in masses.

"But they didn't go far enough," Mrs. O'Grady said.

Mrs. O'Grady feels the Church should go further in allowing autonomy, authority of church members over themselves.

She feels the parish system is dead, and that the church of the future will meet in homes. "Every block will have a church and a priest to go with it," she said.

She's not giving up on her desire to become a deacon, and she is surprised that more women haven't applied.

Zoning Study Unit Asks Extension

by ED MURNANE
The Illinois Zoning Laws Study Commission will ask the legislature for a one-month extension of its Feb. 1 deadline for submitting proposed legislation and will hold a previously unscheduled public hearing on the controversial proposal on Feb. 1 in Springfield.

The commission, chaired by State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, agreed to ask for the extension yesterday at a meeting that featured increased opposition to the commission's proposed legislation that would create a state land use commission and give the state far-reaching control over local zoning matters.

Representatives of the Illinois Municipal League, the Illinois Association of City Managers, the Chicago Bar Association and the Illinois Bar Association, as well as several municipal representatives, offered polite but firm opposition to the commission's proposal.

THE PROPOSED legislation, which is subject to change before it is introduced to the 77th General Assembly this year, would create a state land use commission and authorize the commission to establish minimum standards for ordinances in the following areas:

- Regulations for control of ingress and egress and land use on all streets, highways and frontage within a one-mile radius of intersecting highways.
- Regulations to assure an adequate supply of low and moderate-income housing, with the determination of adequate supply made on the basis of need for such housing, land and development costs and the number of people employed in the area in low and moderate-income categories.
- Regulations for the protection of prime agricultural land.
- Regulations for the control of land use in flood plains.
- Regulations for the preservation of historic sites and structures.
- REGULATIONS FOR the protection of open space and watersheds and unique scenic or natural features.

—Regulations to provide safety in the operation of airports and helicopter landing areas, applying the current applicable regulations of the Federal Aviation Administration.

The commission would consist of seven members, all appointed by the governor and all being "knowledgeable in land development, conservation or property management."

The proposed legislation also would call for the elimination of all non-conforming zoning uses.

The law would not strip zoning powers currently held by municipalities and counties but it would force the smaller units of government to bring their codes into conformance with the state code.

The code would give the state commission powers to establish standards for physical dimensions of buildings, minimum land area requirements for buildings, ratios between the size of buildings and minimum land requirements, ratios between the areas within a site to be occupied by buildings and those to be left open and to classify and regulate the location and intensity of the uses of land and buildings.

THE LOCATION AND intensity of uses of land and buildings would be determined after consideration of numerous factors, including similarity of use, availability of public facilities and utilities, hazards of pollution and plans for improvements to the transportation system of the area.

Most opposition to the proposed legislation centers around the low and moderate-income housing provisions and the state's right to control land use within a mile radius of highway intersections.

In addition to the opposition expressed yesterday, commission members also learned that the new Illinois Constitution, which goes into effect July 1, may require a three-fifths vote for approval of the proposed legislation. Under the local government article of the new Constitution, any state denial of local government authority requires the three-fifths approval.

If the proposed legislation is viewed by the courts as a denial of powers to local governments, the three-fifths vote could be required and passage of the controversial legislation in a closely divided General Assembly would be difficult.

Teacher Would Be Proud

by DAVE PALERMO
The last three or four years of Miss Ruth Finlayson's life were less than pleasant.

Three years ago, when she was 25 and in her third year of teaching at Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect, she was told she had an extremely serious kidney disease.

The doctors told Miss Finlayson that the disease could cost her her life. They said a kidney transplant would one day be necessary, but such transplants often extend one's life only three to five years.

A little over a year ago Miss Finlayson got that long-awaited transplant. But, she died one day after last Christmas. She was 28.

A GREAT MANY students at Dempster knew that Miss Finlayson, of Western Springs, was seriously ill. As one student said: "She walked really slow. And she looked old, but she was only 28."

They thought of collecting Betty Crocker coupons as part of a kidney detection program sponsored by General Mills Corporation in cooperation with the Kidney Research Foundation. If enough coupons are collected and turned over to the General Mills Corp., the company will finance the establishment of kidney detection centers.

The youngsters knew that collecting the coupons would not help Miss Finlayson. But, she told them it was a good idea because if people discovered they had the disease at an early stage, they might not have to suffer as she suffered.

A total of 18,000 coupons were collected before she died.

Now the student council wants more coupons. They want 600,000 of them. They're asking that anyone wishing to donate coupons send them to Dempster Junior High School, 420 W. Dempster, Mount Prospect.

THE STUDENTS plan to ask merchants in the area to collect the coupons

A News Analysis

The administration of School Dist. 59 has been slowly and subtly revamped since the arrival of Supt. James Erviti last July.

None of the changes in personnel, duties or practices have been drastic, but each has its reason.

Some of the change is typical of a new administrator coming into a district — usually he will organize things into a more familiar way which he feels he can best direct.

But some of the change is also due to prevailing situations in the district. They are: the necessity for budget cutting; teacher unrest in a district where the salary is average in the area and school conditions and educational practices are at least average or above; and an extremely rapid growth of student population beginning to taper off.

Erviti's changes appear to have been aimed at meeting all of these situations to the best of the district's ability without causing any louder rumbles than have already been heard.

The alterations in administrative personnel have basically been title shifts and role changes rather than hiring and firing of past administrators. Many of the personnel are new since the superintendency of Donald Thomas almost two years ago, but most of these have not been due to direct commands by Erviti. Those that are left, and the new ones, have been given more comprehensive roles in fewer positions.

THE PRESENT set-up includes two assistant superintendents and another assistant superintendent vacancy, one director, two specialists and a part time consultant.

This arrangement of staff consolidated the past positions of assistant superintendent of finance and administrative assistant into the position of assistant superintendent of administrative services.

It also combines the positions from 1968 of assistant superintendents of instruction and curriculum into the present vacant position of assistant superintendent of instruction.

THE PAST DIRECTOR of community education has become a specialist in public and community relations, adding the role of a public relations person, which was allotted for in past budgets but not filled.

The assistant superintendent of personnel and director of pupil personnel positions have remained the same. The position of director of research and testing has remained basically the same, although the title is now specialist in evaluation and systems information.

A PART-TIME consultant has been added to the staff and is called in for specific jobs.

This staff organization, for the 1970-71 year will be retained after 1971, according to Erviti, although he expects to fill the one vacant position. It eliminates two major positions from 1968-69, but includes an additional secretary.

After six months of operation under this organization Erviti feels that it will adequately serve the district, at the same time retaining a lower cost for administrative personnel, one of the items criticized by teachers and parents following the failure of a tax increase request in November of 1968.

The vacancy in supervision of instructional programs is definitely only a temporary one, Erviti said. Robert Brower, who is presently on a year's leave of absence from the district, filled that position before leaving.

The major part of his role is being filled by Erviti in his absence.

ANOTHER POSITION in the past, director of operational services has been eliminated. This position was basically for enrollment projection studies and direction of transportation. Some of this work has been redistributed, although much of it is no longer necessary, Erviti said.

Enrollment projections are mostly needed for rapidly growing districts. Erviti sees the district enrollment as peaking in a year or so and eventually stabilizing. Transportation is also more of a problem for growing districts, he said.

The results of the staff changes and continuing changes in duties of principals and other personnel, have yet to be revealed to parents in an area where they show much concern — the school budget and related taxes.

The budget for this year is presently under review, and plans for the next school year budget have been underway in the past few weeks. Results are expected to be reported soon to the school board.

Rev. Graham To Leave Area

Rev. David L. Graham, pastor of the Good Shepherd Community Church in unincorporated Des Plaines, and a member of the board of education of Maine Township High School Dist. 207, has announced his resignation from his pastorate effective April 1.

Graham who will assume duties as pastor of the Martinsville United Methodist Parish in Martinsville, Ill., said he intends to resign his position on the school board prior to that date. He said this will allow for the filing of petitions for candidates seeking his position. The school board election is scheduled for April 10.

Rev. Graham has been pastor at Good Shepherd at 9000 Home Ave. for the past four years. He had been a minister of Methodist churches in central Illinois for more than eight years before coming to Des Plaines. He has been a member of district 207's board of education for the past two years, being re-elected to a three-year term last April after serving one year as a replacement for John Wilkins of Des Plaines, who resigned.

Rev. Graham is presently director of the district 207 student activities corporation. He is also a member of the board's public relations committee. In addition to ministering to his parishioners at Good Shepherd, he has had varied community interests and activities.

No Date Set For District 214 Vote

There's no date yet for High School Dist. 214's bond issue to construct an eighth high school, probably to be located in Buffalo Grove.

The Dist. 214 board Monday night delayed a decision on the timing of the referendum until Monday, Jan. 18, in order to give the board members more time to study the matter.

Supt. Edward Gilbert, at the beginning of the discussion, recommended Saturday, May 15, as the date. He said he'd recommend Buffalo Grove as the site of the new school, as it is the center of the district's growing population.

Pointing to an enrollment chart which showed Forest View and Elk Grove High School 300 to 400 students over capacity by 1974, Gilbert said the board "might also want to consider" additions to those schools.

NONE OF THE board members argued about the need for the referendum; rather, several wondered if it might be preferable to set the referendum date on Saturday, April 10, the board election date.

Board member Jack Costello suggested April 10, and Joseph Schiffhauer of Arlington Heights said that residents might get tired of running to the polls if the May date is used.

The district is faced with as many as four elementary referenda in the first three months of 1971. Districts 28, 23, 25 and 59 have scheduled referenda; the districts are all elementary districts in the Dist. 214 enrollment area.

So, no action was taken Monday night on the referendum. The board has an adjourned meeting next Monday night, at which time the decision is scheduled to be made.

As proposed by Gilbert, the new school would open in time for the 1973-74 school year in the district. It would relieve overcrowding at John Hersey and Wheeling High Schools, each projected to have an enrollment of 3,400 students at that time.

From The Library

Special Services

"Best Wishes from the Des Plaines Public Library, 841 Graceland Ave. to All". May you read more than ever before in '71.

There are many reasons for using the library's services, not the least of which is thrift. Whether or not your budget is limited, you can save money by borrowing books instead of buying them. You may also check out those super-expensive magazines. If you love good music, supplement your record collection with semi-classical records from the library. Change pictures on your walls with your moods or he seasons — choose framed art prints of famous paintings in the National Art Gallery. Sixteen millimeter films may be ordered through the audio-visual service (requests should be made in advance with alternate titles and alternate dates, if possible).

Other library services which should not be overlooked include:

Books printed in large type to make reading a pleasure for the visually handicapped.

Back issues of magazines for 6 years and the current year — to be checked out for 7 days. Some magazines are bound into books; part of them may be checked out — part must be used in the library.

MICROFILM COPIES of 24 of the most used magazines for the years, 1960 through 1968, also a microfilm viewer for use in reading them.

Catalogs from many of the larger universities and colleges in the different states.

Telephone directories from the larger U.S. cities for checking that elusive phone number.

A good selection of government-printed and other pamphlets in the vertical files; also, career pamphlets, maps and pictures.

Business directories and services such as stock guides and income tax guides.

Self-service xerox copying machine (10 cents per copy).

If the book you want is not in the library, you may ask to be called when the book is returned; it will be held for two days.

Books not owned by the library and copies of magazine articles may be obtained through interlibrary loan from the North Suburban Library System.

The bookmobile makes regularly scheduled stops to areas within the city. If transportation to the main library is your problem, inquire about this service.

Come in and browse; you are sure to find something to interest you at the Des Plaines Public Library.

The Way We See It

Pressure for Change

A possible answer to the need for more mixed income housing in the suburbs is being weighed by officials in Montgomery County, Maryland.

They are considering a requirement that all future residential developments include a fixed percentage of housing for low and moderate income families.

Members of the county council unanimously supported the concept in the November political campaign. In effect, it would require developers to think in terms of communities rather than subdivisions.

The Montgomery council is concerned about a shortage estimated at 10,000 units for families with low and moderate incomes. The Washington suburb is an area of relative affluence, where half the families have annual incomes of more than $20,000 and few homes sell for less than $30,000.

Many of the county's public employees — school teachers, secretaries, policemen, fire fighters — can't afford to live there. Neither can a lot of blue collar and clerical employees who work in the area.

Like tens of thousands of families of moderate means, they must commute long distances to modestly paying jobs or face intense job competition closer to home. The problem is repeated in the northwest community and suburban areas across the country.

In many communities, it is simply a matter of economics. The suburban town, hungry for tax revenues, lures industry. But it is not eager to have low and moderate income housing for the workers. Such housing generally does not pay for the schools and public facilities that must be provided.

That discrimination against the poor often amounts to discrimination against blacks, since they comprise a large part of our urban poor. But there are many whites who face the same dilemma.

In some parts of the county, organizations representing poor people are going to court to overturn suburban zoning regulations that keep out mixed income housing. Several recent court decisions offer them encouragement. In California, for example, a federal judge ruled that the Constitution requires municipalities to provide enough housing for their poor.

Pressure for change is being brought by others, including industrialists who have moved plants to the suburbs and have been confronted with labor shortages.

Many proposals for mixed income housing in the suburbs have met strong resistance from residents of nearby homes. The Montgomery County plan would eliminate legitimate points of criticism by incorporating mixed income housing into new developments. There is a sound corollary to this concept in the planned development which mixes multiple and single family uses, with single family homes acting as a "buffer" with the existing community. In similar fashion, housing on the fringe of a development could be made harmonious with housing in existing adjacent neighborhoods.

Zoning has value when used imaginatively. Certainly, it would be better for suburban communities to use zoning concepts to attack the housing problem rather than mixed income housing imposed by courts or higher levels of government.

Palatine Today

Red Carpet Treatment

by MARTHA KOPER

Banks are beautiful. They lend prestige to the community. Banks bring dollar signs to mind, and everyone likes that.

In Palatine, banks are so beautiful they receive the red carpet treatment. No obstacle is too great when a local banker wants to build a drive-in facility, even if customers must use a village-owned parking lot to reach it.

Any hindrance is so small that it doesn't matter, if entrances and exits to the new building will mean greater traffic jams at the intersection of Smith and Colfax.

When the new railroad depot is opened just south of Colfax that intersection is expected to generate the most traffic of any spot in town. Add the momentum of automobile banking and visions of bumper-to-bumper snarls come into the head.

In a close vote Monday night the village board of trustees agreed to allow Gerald Fitzgerald, president of the Palatine National Bank to construct a drive-in facility on the southwest corner of Colfax and Smith.

Weeks of discussion, mostly behind closed doors, preceded the final decision. That's one consolation. Approval was not automatic, but in the end the final result is the only thing that counts.

So in a few months customers of the Palatine National Bank won't have to worry about bottleneck traffic on Brockway Street anymore. They can travel just two blocks west to the drive-in facility and fight for a place in the traffic line of all the commuters.

The traffic flow at the corner of Smith and Colfax obviously will be slow. Although there are plans to widen both streets, that can't solve all the problems.

Three years ago it cost the village a lot of money to pay for a study of traffic problems in Palatine. The results are there for anyone to see. It's projected that between 100,000 and 120,000 vehicles will enter or leave the central business district per day by 1985.

Conservatively guessing, if only half of the vehicles are going to or from the railroad depot, local residents will be in a lot of trouble.

The obvious question is, why add to the anticipated traffic problem with a drive-in bank?

Mayor John Moodie, Trustees Wendell Jones, Tom Kearns, and John Hughes couldn't have asked themselves that question. They voted in favor of the facility.

Both Trustees Terry Leighty and Clay Brown must have seen some of the problems attached to the proposal. They voted against it while Trustee Fred Zajonc didn't vote at all.

Aside from the traffic problems, there's a principle involved which was totally overlooked by board members voting to allow the drive-in facility.

There is no other private, profit-making business in town which has the advantage of municipal-owned property enhancing its enterprise. Chances are that situation can't be found in many other towns in the country.

But Palatine National customers will drive into a common entrance owned by both the village and Lew Draper, developer of the shopping center adjacent to the depot. The customer will then have to turn into a parking lot lane owned solely by the village to reach the drive-in and exit by a similar lane.

Taxpayers' money should not be used to help someone in his own ventures. It hasn't been done and shouldn't be, if for no other reason than the ring of politics such a practice carries with it.

Most likely, local residents didn't realize what was going on at the village hall Monday night. If they had, they should have done something to stop it.

Des Plaines Beat

Defining Your Districts

by BARRY SIGALE

If it's been confusing to you, it's certainly been frustrating for us.

What I'm talking about is the Herald/Day coverage of every important event in the city that affects our readers. And because of the several school districts, park districts, townships, etc., serving Des Plaines, you, the reader, are probably a bit confused. So here, in capsule form, is a rundown of what organizations serve which people in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines is served by eight school districts, some of which serve other towns.

If your child goes to the following schools he attends the following school districts.

—Brentwood, Devonshire, Einstein and High Ridge Knolls elementary schools, all in Des Plaines, and Dempster Junior High School in Mount Prospect, are in school district 59.

—Central, Cumberland, Forest, Maple, North, Orchard Place, Plainfield, South, Terrace and West elementary schools and Algonquin, Chippewa and Iroquois Junior High Schools, all in Des Plaines, are in school district 62.

Barry Sigale

—Nathanson, Stevenson and Mark Twain elementary schools, and Apollo Junior High School, all in Des Plaines, are in school district 63.

—Park View elementary school and River Trails Junior High School, both in Mount Prospect are in district 26.

—Maine West and North High Schools in Des Plaines and Maine East in Park Ridge, all are in district 207.

—Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village, and Forest View High School in Arlington Heights, are in high school district 214.

Issues Emerge For April

by CRAIG GAARE

There is another phenomenon, like leap year, which occurs every four years. It might not be as fantastic, but it is fascinating in its own right. Every four years, voters in Buffalo Grove elect a new village president and three trustees.

This April 20, however, because of resignations, four trustees and a village clerk, in addition to a village president will be elected.

Right now, several persons are considering entering the race and are quietly sizing up their chances of getting elected. Rumors, which flourish during elections, have it that before the Feb. 15 filing deadline is over, three slates and at least five independent candidates will enter the race.

Two of those slates are obvious. One slate will come from the Buffalo Grove Alliance, a group of citizens who have charged that current village officials are unresponsive to village residents.

It is likely that the incumbent candidates will band together and jointly seek re-election, most probably running on the merits of their past four years in office.

This should prove to be an interesting campaign, with one group of people telling the electorate that they have done a wonderful job during the last four years, and another group pointing out examples where they feel the incumbents haven't done such a wonderful job.

A third slate of candidates could be formed by the residents in the older part of the village directly north of Dundee Road, east of Arlington Heights Road and west of Buffalo Grove Road.

In any event, each group or individual must deal with the same issues. The only difference will be that they will view the issues from different points of view.

There are five issues which must be considered by any serious and responsible candidate in the next election. First is the future development of Buffalo Grove and how it should be controlled. Should the village keep expanding without being able to provide basic services such as sewer and water to the new areas? Also, what is the desirability of apartment construction in the village? Should more apartments be approved, and if they are, where should they be located?

Secondly, a stand must be taken on the formation of a municipal fire department or a proposal for the entire village to be protected by one fire district. The impetus is underway for a change and by the time of the election, the question should be a full-blown issue.

A third issue is the lack of any industrial or professional service areas in the village. The village has a designated industrial area, but not one industry has located in Buffalo Grove. The present service area consists of two shopping centers and one old cheese factory that has been converted into an office building.

The fourth issue is an old one — flooding. This would be the most difficult for any incumbent to deal with if he decides to run. The question is how can present problems be alleviated and future ones prevented?

The last issue appears to be non-existent, but in any area such as Buffalo Grove, it could surface at any time. The moderate income housing project that has been proposed for Arlington Heights could just as well be dropped in the laps of village politicians. There are several unincorporated areas, especially to the north of the village, which could become sites for moderate income housing developments seeking annexation to the village.

The difference between victory and defeat in the April election depends on how intelligently and meaningfully candidates can speak on these issues.

Between the Lines

Another Try At Voters

by PAT GERLACH

Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District officials are good losers!

Shaken, but with renewed determination, officials of the Hoffman Estates district resolved last week to return a $500,000 bond issue to the voters next month.

The proposal, defeated by a majority of the 500 residents who cast ballots in the Dec. 12 special election, would fund construction and equipping of a third fire station necessary to satisfy the increasing demands of the district.

Presumably, the issue met defeat because of the inability or unwillingness of the fire district to present facts and figures outlining the tax increases which would surely have resulted from authorization of the issue.

Within four weeks, officials of the district have done a rapid about face and will attempt to present their complete picture with assistance from a citizens committee established to help boost the measure through to victory.

Representatives and employees of the fire district were flooded when both The Herald and Hoffman Estates Jaycees publicly urged the proposal be turned down and suggested a rapid return with complete information being presented. (The need for such a facility as proposed was never questioned.)

A third station, one that will serve as headquarters for the district, is mandatory in view of the high rise "high risk" construction now in progress in the western sector of the village.

Fire trustees know that they bombed out badly last month, but past history indicates clearly that the district has never been challenged or even really asked to explain itself on bond issues or tax rate increases.

Initially, district officials were antagonistic about the defeat and placed much of the blame on The Herald. Rather quickly, however, they appear to have realized their previous modus operandi is obsolete and that today's taxpayer wants plain facts and plenty of them.

I predict that in the future this is just what they will get from the fire district now that the air has been cleared.

In a sincere attempt to keep costs down, the district did not choose to hire an architect or consult with bonding experts on projected tax increases before approval of the sale.

The trustees' legal counsel and even most of the very interested and dedicated volunteer firemen are now displaying the grace and consideration this reporter expected of them all along.

They are showing clear concern that since the voters have expressed a desire for knowledge that it be provided them.

Failure to receive authorization to sell the bonds this time will result, most probably, in a rating change for the district.

This change will produce a substantial insurance increase which will be quickly felt by every homeowner living within the fire protection district.

Unless the voter takes a hard look at the complete proposal, he will be literally playing with fire — and it could be in his own home.

Gratitude Expressed For Thoughtfulness

Chief and Mrs. Lloyd Abrahamson extend warm gratitude to all who sympathized with us on the recent death of our son Lieutenant Commander David L. Abrahamson.

Our special thanks to all the people who gave us a helping hand in time of need.

Because the memorial service was held in Corcoran, Calif., it was heartening to see many beautiful flowers from the people back home.

A memorial fund has been established at the Martin Luther Church, in Chicago, for David in lieu of flowers, for which we thank all contributors.

Again, my wife Dorcas and I convey our appreciation to everyone for their thoughtfulness, help, and prayers at this time.

Just Politics

Not So Bad After All?

by ED MURNANE

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-13th, admitted Tuesday that he has changed his mind about the seniority system of electing committee chairmen in Congress.

Crane was one of the proponents of the seniority system on the hour-long program, "The Advocates," broadcast live from Washington over the educational television network.

He was joined in his support by conservative columnist James J. Kilpatrick and a Pittsburgh political science professor.

Taking the opposing viewpoint were Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., columnist Jack Anderson and Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn.

Crane said he has moved one-third of the way up the seniority ladder in the House Banking and Currency Committee after only 13 months in office.

The proponents of the seniority system — which automatically insures the election to the chairman ship of the majority party member who has served on the committee longest — claimed the movements to change the system are being waged by liberals in the House "who are out to replace certain committee chairmen."

Crane, who rarely is left without words, appeared to be set back with one comment made in response to one of his remarks.

The opponents of the seniority system claimed that swing districts in the nation — those in which the political winds are changing and do not always elect a congressman from the same party — are prevented from having representation in the highest levels of Congress, the committee chairmanships.

"But you're only talking about 22 per cent of the districts," Crane responded.

"Yes, and 22 per cent of the districts represents 40 million people," was the reply from the opponents and Crane seemed surprised by that figure.

ALTHOUGH CRANE has changed his mind on the seniority system, he still believes other procedures in Congress are weak and he let his views be known in a report of one of the subcommittees he has been assigned to.

His remarks are printed in the official report on the Smithsonian Institution published by the subcommittee on libraries and memorials of the committee on house administration.

Crane, in two pages of comments at the end of the report, said he could not associate himself with the report "other than in a very general way."

He said one of his reasons was the fact that the transcript of committee hearings had not been printed and there has been no way to refer to the hearings prior to writing the report.

"Because of conflicts with other committee hearings and meetings, it was possible for me to attend and participate in only some of the hearings," Crane said. "This, together with the fact that the hearing transcript has not been printed and available for reference and study, obviously makes it extremely difficult to assess adequately the information and comment contained in the report as to its completeness, objectivity and relevance."

SPEAKING OF the seniority system in Congress, U.S. Rep. Robert McCloy, R-12th, also opposes any change. McCloy, in a recent news release, predicted that the system probably will receive substantial support when rules for the 92nd Congress are approved.

"The dangers inherent in abandoning the system must be recognized," McCloy said. "For instance, a reversion to the system which prevailed when Speaker Joe Cannon individually named the chairmen of all committees would result in the kind of Speaker dictatorship which was discarded 60 years ago."

"Even a system which would permit members to elect the committee chairmen and ranking members could result in favoritism to the supporters of the winning candidates and corresponding disadvantages to those who fail to back the winners. Indeed, there appears to be no foolproof system which can avoid politics."

Announce DAR, SAR Winners At Maine

Amy Robertson and Dave Nelson have been named winners of the Daughters and Sons of the American Revolution (DAR) (SAR) Good Citizens Awards for 1970-71. Both are members of the class of 1971 at Maine West High School.

Amy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Robertson, 1783 Forest Ave., and Dave is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Nelson, 561 Radcliffe Rd.

On the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism, the senior class selected three girls and three boys from their class for final consideration. From these six finalists the Maine West faculty selected the two award winners. The aim of the awards is to pay tribute to youthful character and to call attention to those qualities which are desirable in good citizens.

As the DAR winner, Miss Robertson, West's Student Council secretary, will receive a pin and certificate of award and will become eligible for additional honors at the state and national levels. As the SAR Award winner, Nelson, who serves as senior class representative to the upper house of West's Student Council, will receive the Good Citizenship Medal.

Shepherd Club Dinner —

Lincolnwood Training Club for German Shepherds, located at Dearlove and Central roads, Glenview, will hold its 33rd annual awards dinner dance at De Leo's Restaurant, 5700 N. Central in Chicago, on Saturday, Jan. 23, beginning at 7 p.m.

During the evening several Paddock area residents are slated to receive award plaques as owners of German Shepherds who have earned various obedience degrees during 1970.

If you are interested in attending and would like more information, contact Mrs. Betty Elm, 687 Charing Cross, Elk Grove Village.

The club holds training classes for members on Sunday mornings, from 10 a.m. to noon, and Wednesday evenings from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Spectators are most welcome.

A Little Help —

The regular meeting of the delegates of the American Kennel Club, held last Dec. 8, brought to light three subjects: an educational program to aid dog buyers, a series of Gazette articles to give the facts on proposed state laws affecting dog breeders and a series of seven Gazette articles to report, in layman's language, on the various dog diseases that were discussed at the AKC-AVMA Symposium in October, 1969.

The three subjects were discussed by John A. Lafore, executive vice president of the AKC. It is on the first two that we would like to get in our licks.

Regarding the first item, we are glad that the AKC had done something which will help the prospective buyer of a new puppy learn more about what they are entitled to receive in the way of a registration application or identification when a dog that is represented to be eligible for registration by the AKC is acquired. If you want such information you may write to the American Kennel Club, 51 Madison Ave., New York, N.Y., 10010, for their new two-page pamphlet on the subject.

On the second subject, there has been more confusion in the past year or two about laws regarding dogs than you can imagine. Those involved with dogs are perhaps well aware but even they have been misled, misinformed and, in general, kept in a constant state of turmoil about such laws. In Illinois, we are perhaps a little better informed because of the work of the Illinois Dog Clubs and Breeders Assoc., and the splendid job they have been doing in trying to keep ahead of proposed new dog legislation.

In other states the problem is a real one, and it can happen even in our own state, that something is slipped through without dog owners being aware. It is about time that the dog owners in this country have a central clearing house for proposed new laws that concern dogs, and if the AKC will stay on top of it, perhaps they are the answer.

This time of year —

Now, perhaps more than ever, is the time to remember that if you have the dog in the car while you are traveling, and stop to do some shopping, remember, let the windows stay open a crack.

Some folks will let the motor run to keep the dog warm, and they often forget that carbon monoxide from a faulty exhaust system can leak up into a car much easier when it is standing still with the motor idling.

Most dogs don't need the warmth from a car heater, and are perhaps better off without it. Furthermore, in most places it is against the law to let a car run at idle and unattended.

Barks & Bays —

One tablespoon, more or less depending on the size of the dog, of corn oil added to his food once a day will keep his coat and skin from getting too dry during the winter months if you keep your dog indoors.

West Swimmers In Split

Maine West's swimming team went against a pair of Niles Township squads over the weekend and came out with one win and one loss.

The Warrior tankers lost to Niles North 62½ to 31½ in a Central Suburban League meet but then came back the following day to whip Niles East 71-23 in a non-conference encounter.

The score against Niles North was deceiving since Warrior coach Pete Andersen had to juggle his lineup somewhat in order to overcome a 7-0 deficit which the Warriors suffered when they lost the opening race — the 200-yard medley relay.

Dave Dettman got five points on the scoreboard for Maine West when he took first place in the 200-yard freestyle. In the 200-yard individual medley the Warriors lost a few points when the only scoring they could get came from Don Hudson who finished second.

Kenny Brown nabbed first place in the 50-yard freestyle but Larry Bierwirth and Paul Stenstrom missed third place scoring as they tied for fourth.

In the diving competition Dave Eitel took second place and in the 100-yard butterfly Don Hudson took third place.

Maine West took second and third in the 100-yard freestyle with Russ Zage and Eric Dahl, respectively. Dettman captured second place for the Warriors in the 400-yard freestyle.

First place in the 100-yard backstroke went to Bierwirth and second and third place in the 100-yard breaststroke went to Paul Stenstrom and Matt Rusch, respectively.

Glenbrook South won the 400-yard freestyle relay. Maine West won the sophomore meet 70-25 as Garyt Dahl won the 200-yard freestyle, the 400-yard freestyle and anchored the winning 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Warriors took first place in every event except diving as they easily whipped Niles East.

The Warriors won the 200-yard medley relay with Bierwirth, Stenstrom, Bob Van Ornum and Zage.

In the 200-yard freestyle Skip Parent took first and Dettman was third. The Warriors took 1-2 in the 200-yard individual medley with Hudson getting first and Eric Dahl second.

Zage took first place in the 50-yard freestyle and Brown was second. Eitel took second in diving while Joe DeFranco was third.

In the 100-yard butterfly Hudson was first and Van Ornum third. Dettman was first in the 100-yard freestyle and Stenstrom was third. The 400-yard freestyle winner was Parent and third place went to Dahl.

Bierwirth nabbed first place in the 100-yard backstroke with Jeff Cassin getting second. Stenstrom and Steve Dueball teamed to take 1-2 in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The 400-yard freestyle relay team of Zage, Dahl, Dettman and Parent also took first place.

Maine West won the sophomore meet 65-30 and the freshman meet 63-30. Dwane Peterson set a school record in the 300-yard freestyle for the Warrior frosh team with a 3:23.4 clocking.

The Warriors will be in action twice this weekend, hosting Niles West in a Central Suburban League meet Friday at 4:30 p.m. and traveling to Hinsdale South for a non-conference meet on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Warrior Matmen Falter

The record of the Maine West wrestling team fell below the .500 mark as the Warriors dropped a 35-12 dual meet decision to strong Glenbrook South in a Central Suburban League meet.

The loss dropped Maine West's overall record to 3-4. Glenbrook South has proven to be one of the stronger teams in the area, attaining a 60-0 victory over Elk Grove with 12 straight pins earlier in the season.

Dave Gano lost to Schaubl 7-2 at 98 pounds as Glenbrook South took a 3-0 lead. Bruce Beam, a 105 pounder, gave Maine West a 5-3 lead as he pinned Bryya in 5:34.

Glenbrook South got the lead right back in the 112 pound match as Ken Gustafson lost 9-2. Gary Botari lost 11-0 at 119 pounds, Brad Vance lost via pin in 5:40 at 126 pounds, Richard Veith lost via forfeit due to a shoulder injury at 132, Carl Sjostrand lost 7-3 at 138, Gary Klein lost 9-2 at 145, Todd Weidner lost by pin in 3:19 at 155 and Leon Wilkins lost 5-4 at 167.

At that point Glenbrook South had the meet sewed up with a 33-5 lead.

Jim DeNicolo wrestled to a 0-0 tie with the Titans' Young to make the count 35-7. John Herter, the Warrior heavyweight, won by default to make the final score 35-12.

Glenbrook South defeated Maine West on the junior varsity level 26-17. The Titans also won the sophomore meet 26-28. Maine West was victorious in the freshman meet 29-22.

Maine West will be in action twice this weekend, traveling to Deerfield on Friday at 6:30 p.m. and hosting Evanston on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Young Demons Romp On Mat

With a 2-0 conference record and a 5-1 overall mark, Maine East has proven to have a strong wrestling contingent this season.

But the best is still yet to come later this year and in the next two seasons as coach George Jurinek's tremendous group of sophomores continue to improve.

Last weekend against York Jurinek started four sophomores and one freshman in his lineup against the Dukes and still blasted the West Suburban League foe 32-10.

The Demons fell behind 6-0 at the end of the first two matches but could very well have been ahead 6-0 if his 98 and 105 pounders had a bit more experience.

Freshman Paul Board had a 6-2 lead going in the final period but while going for the pin, he was off balance and was taken down the stuck with a near pin to lose the match 7-6 at 98 pounds. That gave York a 3-0 lead.

Jim Sylverne, a young 105 pounder, had a 3-2 lead going into the final 30 seconds but was taken down and lost the match 4-3. Sylverne's opponent was a senior who went into the match with a 10-0 record. That gave York a 6-0 lead.

Steve Leibovitz got Maine East on the scoreboard with a 6-1 victory at 112 pounds. Tony Raschillo, another one of those sophomores, tied the score at 6-6 with an 11-5 decision victory at 118 pounds.

Scott Perlman, a junior, replaced the injured Tom Ballis at 126 pounds and posted a 4-1 triumph to give Maine East a 9-6 lead.

Tim Keay at 132 pounds and Rick Johnson at 138 pounds both recorded shutout victories. Keay won 2-0 and Johnson 7-0.

Sophomore 145 pounder Dave Giangreco was involved in a 4-4 draw though he took a 4-0 lead into the fourth quarter. 155 pounds Bob Bunge was a 4-1 winner.

The Demons gained 10 points on back-to-back pins by Tom Groenwald and sophomore Marc Grant. Groenwald won by pin in 1:59 at 167 pounds and Grant won by pin in 2:59 at 185 pounds.

Maine East's junior varsity drew with York's 26-26. York defeated Maine East 30-20 on the sophomore level, a close score since most of the Demons' sophs were on the varsity level. Maine East won the freshman meet with relative ease.

The Demon grapplers will go against LaGrange in a West Suburban League meet Friday at 6:30 p.m. at home and will travel to Proviso West for another WSL encounter on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Maine East Swims To Tense 48-47 Win

While getting off to a good start and holding off a late rally, Maine East's swimming team posted a 48-47 West Suburban League victory over Riverside-Brookfield at home over the weekend.

The Demons took a 7-0 lead after winning the 200-yard medley relay, held the lead all the way and accumulated enough points to barely edge out the Bulldog tankers.

Maine East's winning 200-yard medley relay team was made up of Kim Bickford, Richard Marek, Robert Wadman and Frank Morgan. Their time was 1:50.7.

Phil Bergquist covered the 200-yard freestyle in 2:07.5 for second place and Wadman nabbed first place in the 200-yard individual medley in 2:19.5.

Morgan was first in the 50-yard freestyle and Glenn Sedjo and Tom McKervy finished second and third, respectively, in diving.

Wadman won his second race of the meet, taking first in the 100-yard butterfly in 59.8, Bickford was third in 1:04.6.

Morgan won his second race of the meet in the 100-yard freestyle, completing the event in 52.3.

After Randy Johnson took second in the 400-yard freestyle in 4:42.2, Bickford won the 100-yard backstroke in 1:05.5.

Marek sewed up the meet for Maine East when he won the 100-yard breaststroke in 1:08.8 to give the Demons a 48-40 lead. Thus, when Riverside-Brookfield won the 400-yard freestyle relay, the Bulldogs' seven points earned from the event were not enough to catch Maine East.

Riverside-Brookfield won the sophomore meet 58-37.

Demon coach Ron Davitt was particularly pleased with the varsity victory, pointing out an improvement in times for most of his swimmers.

Maine East will be in action twice this weekend, going against LaGrange in a West Suburban League meet Friday at 7 p.m. and going against St. Viator in a non-conference meet on Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

Assign High Schools To Wrestling Districts

Assignments for the 1971 state wrestling championships were announced Sunday by the Illinois High School Association.

Three hundred and eleven downstate and suburban high schools are entered in the tournament series, an all-time high enrollment for the state competition.

The state tourney series will begin with district tourney competition on Feb. 12-13. Four districts are subsidiary to each of the seven sectional centers and the winners of the first two places in each weight classification will advance to the sectional test on Feb. 19-20.

First and second place winners in the sectionals will advance to the state finals.

Area schools will vie for advancement in three districts — at Addison Trail,

Crystal Lake and Hersey. The associated sectional is at West Leyden this year.

ADDISON TRAIL DISTRICT — Addison Trail, St. Patrick, York, Elmwood Park, East Leyden, Walther Lutheran, Ridgewood, West Leyden, Oak Park, Holy Cross.

CRYSTAL LAKE DISTRICT — Barrington, Fenton, Cary Grove, Crystal Lake, Elk Grove, Conant, Fremd, Palatine, Lake Park, Schaumburg.

HERSEY DISTRICT — Arlington, Forest View, Hersey, St. Viator, Luther North, Maine North, Maine West, Prospect, Maine East, Maine South.

These top wrestlers will then be joined by the winners at DeKalb, which includes a field of Crown, Dundee, DeKalb, Elgin, Elgin Larkin, Maple Park, Rochelle, Sycamore, Waterman, Woodstock.

Last Call For Sign-Up In Maine-Northfield LL

A last call to register for the 1971 Maine-Northfield Little League season has been issued by league president Ed Karlins.

Saturday, Jan. 16 from 9 a.m. until noon, and Sunday, Jan. 17 from noon until 3 p.m. are the final times to sign up for this year's MNLL season. The league has been realigned this year to include two equal major leagues, National and American, in addition to the minors and senior division. Registrations in all age groups are limited.

MNLL boundaries are Lake-Elm Rd., including the Willows and Timber Trails, Dempster St., Shermer Rd., and River Rd. Boys living in this area who will be eight years old before Aug. 1 through 15 by July 31 are eligible to register provided they are accompanied by a parent or guardian. Those who played in the league before must register as well as newcomers.

Karlins also announced new plans for providing field maintenance and league service as well as the dedication of one of the fields to Merv Schakowsky, MNLL equipment officer and team manager, who died late last year.

Other plans being announced include a school for managers beginning this month, the lining up of sponsors for 1971, another July picnic at Harms Woods, and a decal sale. Anyone interested in sponsoring a team is invited to call MNLL treasurer Harry Sutphen, Glenview, at 965-7016. Picnic committee volunteers should contact Ed Karlins at YO 5-3690.

She Stalks Household Pests

by MARY B. GOOD

If you have bats in your belfry, Mrs. Paul Gillig of Des Plaines might be a good person to know.

In her Volkswagen beetle drives the first traveling pest control lady for the household division of Aerosol Pest Controllers.

The lady is on intimate terms with carpet beetles, centipedes, silverfish, clothing moths and roly-polies — that's sow-bugs to you!

Barbara Gillig is a member of the zap-em set, what people used to call "an exterminator."

The blonde bug-getter hasn't been at the job long — just three months. In fact she saw her first cockroach only last week. But since October Mrs. Gillig has become something of a pro with ants and spiders.

HER EMPLOYER, registered sanitarian Robert E. Berns, said, "I hope someday to have 10 Barbaras."

When Mrs. Gillig was put on that cockroach job (they had overwhelmed a desk drawer at a plumbing concern), the customer was so impressed with Barbara Gillig, he offered her a job as a plumber. When Barbara told Mr. Berns about the proposition, Berns replied, "What kind of a job is that for a woman?"

Formerly an aid in a school district learning center, Mrs. Gillig longed for something offbeat. Now she has unusual tales to bring home at night. Take the case of the rat on one job that grabbed malted milk balls off the kitchen table and hoarded them under the dishwasher.

Barbara and Berns agreed that men, more than women, shudder at the sight of a rodent. "Remember the one fellow who called the police department about the mouse?" she commented to Berns.

BARBARA HAS IT pretty easy on the job. She gets a week's assignments. If she finishes early, she goes home. She checks into the office only to pick up her pay, or if her tanks need a refill. Otherwise, Barbara is on her own, and she likes it that way. She doesn't have to know a lot about chemicals because the tanks she uses are filled for her. (But she does need a strong arm — each tank weighs 7½ pounds, half full.)

"Mothers worry if they have toddlers crawling on the floors, but the material we use is directed with a pinpoint stream in cracks and crannies around the perimeter of a room, so it isn't messy or dangerous to them — or us," Mrs. Gillig said.

"Ants are hardest to get rid of," the pest controller added. "Ants don't discriminate between a half million dollar mansion and a shack. If it's comfortable — warm and moist — they set up house-keeping." Ants are among Aerosol's policy pests. That means for $25, Barbara comes in and "bug-proofs" a home against 13 different kinds of creepy crawlers. Then she comes back in six months as an insurance measure.

"Rats usually go outside to die. We don't conduct funeral rites for them. We just kill them."

IN HER STYLISH jumpsuit, the lady pest controller zaps the one that didn't get away. "Each house has a personality of its own," she said. "I'm a junker, and servicing homes gives me a good opportunity to learn interior decorating. Although," she adds, "maids often pump me for neighborhood scoops."

'Spangled Girl' A Guild Hit

by GENIE CAMPBELL

A trio of actors on stage at Guild Playhouse opening night last Friday polished up a performance of "Star Spangled Girl."

The Des Plaines Theatre Guild production lived up to every expectation of a Neil Simon comedy. It was mad, relevant and best of all, extremely witty. Director is Allen Hall.

Two young idealists pool their resources to edit and publish an anti-American protest magazine, Fallout. One is a business-minded promoter, Andy, played by Paul Hawkins. His partner is an eccentric writer, Norman, played by Doug Patterson, whose idiotic manners and emphasized actions make him a natural character actor for the role.

AT TIMES, Doug even managed to be a trifle too loud, a bit too rambunctious for even the misfit, misguided Norman he portrayed.

Norman is held in line by Andy who is quite clever in averting paying bills that manage to keep piling up.

Paul Hawkins was excellent in the telephoning sequence near the beginning of the first act when a Mr. Franklin, never seen, received a very different creative greeting each time he called to demand his back printing payments.

However, the real action does not begin until Sophie Rauschmeyer moves into the apartment directly upstairs. She is a past Olympic swimmer, 100 per cent pro American and most of all, very beautiful.

For Norman, whose social life has been next to nothing, Sophie is the beginning of living. He instantly and madly falls in love but unfortunately the same ardent feelings are not returned. Norman makes a pest of himself. When he accidentally drops Sophie's cat into the toilet, she is ready to call the police.

BECAUSE NORMAN can think of nothing but Sophie day and night, the magazine begins to suffer. Andy becomes involved by trying to save Fallout from a quick burial.

Marcy Vosburgh played Sophie Rauschmeyer. Her somewhat Southern accent and animated speeches made Sophie stand out clearly as the all-American clean cut young woman that the part was meant to portray.

Incidentally, Marcy never appeared in any outfit but one of red, white and blue. Those who saw her most recently in "Li'l Abner" as the sexy Appassionata Von Climax, will be pleased to see her in a starring role.

The final act is a little far-fetched and hard to believe. It is difficult to determine why two dedicated young men interested in pointing out the shortcomings of the nation would allow a flag-waving swimming instructor to stand in the way of a dedicated cause.

YET SHE DOES and that's the entire plot of the play. (We never even know what goes into the magazine.) The idea is to entertain and create laughs. And in that sense, "Star Spangled Girl" was a complete success.

Des Plaines Theatre Guild will stage two more performances both this weekend and next weekend. Reservations are available through the box office after noon, 296-1211.

Newcomers To Learn Self-Defense Tonight

"Self Protection for Women" is the program to be presented by Chicago policewoman Miss Edythe Jordan when she appears before the Newcomers Club of Des Plaines. This evening's 8 o'clock meeting at First Federal Savings and Loan Association, 749 Lee St., will open the 1971 calendar of activities for this group.

Miss Jordan's timely talk, in this day of danger on the streets will follow a short business meeting.

Later this month, the new Luncheon-

Hobby Group will attend a luncheon-play at Pheasant Run Theater in St. Charles. The play is the midwest premiere of "Norman, Is That You?" starring Hans Conried. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Irene Beedy, 439-7227, and Mrs. Gunard Larson, 827-0887.

Regular membership in Newcomers Club is open to all new residents of Des Plaines. Long-time residents may participate through the new Associate Membership. More information is available from Mrs. Vince Bono at 298-8657 or Mrs. Robert Smith at 827-4183.

Christmas Twins

Last minute Christmas presents are sometimes best of all. Mr. and Mrs. George J. Dettlo of 2475 Seminary Road, enjoyed Christmas day with relatives, had a sumptuous dinner, and promptly left for Lutheran General Hospital where Mrs. Dettlo gave birth to twins shortly before midnight. Kimberly Dawn weighed 4 pounds 15½ ounces, and Kent Douglas, 6 pounds 1 ounce.

"And we didn't know until four days before that we might expect twins," said Mrs. Dettlo. The Dettlos were able to take both babies home in the normal time and Daddy claims they are good, healthy, happy infants. Jeffrey, age 2, is delighted, too.

Grandparents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dettlo of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Des Jardins of Hammond. Great-grandmother, Mrs. Guy Dettlo, also lives in Des Plaines.

LUTHERAN GENERAL

Cara Marie Romano is the first baby for Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Romano, Jr. of 10370 Michael Todd Ter. Cara weighed 8 pounds 2½ ounces when she was born Dec. 18. Proud grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Serrano, and Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Romano, all of Niles. Mrs. V. Serrano of Niles is the great-grandmother.

Mitchell William Anderson is the first baby for excited parents Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm W. Anderson, 9581 Dee Road. Born Dec. 24, the tiny newcomer weighed 6 pounds 8½ ounces. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Anderson of Edgebrook and Mr. and Mrs. Alden Spencer of Park Ridge are the grandparents. Mrs. L. Branscombe, great-grandmother, resides in Des Plaines.

Richard Louis Haller is another Christmas baby for Des Plaines. Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Haller of 1144 Wolf Road are delighted with their 7 pound 10½ ounce Christmas present born Dec. 25. Richard is their first baby. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Grupe of Des Plaines and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haller of Sarasota, Fla. Great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nimmemann, live in Arlington Heights.

Open Fund Drive

A multi-million dollar fund-raising drive for the 1971 Jewish United Fund-Israel Emergency Fund Campaign, Women's Division, opened Jan. 7 with a record attendance of 110 at the annual Pace-Setter Luncheon.

Those attending the luncheon made a traditional minimum gift of $1,000 to the fund to help maintain its humanitarian services in the fields of health, education and welfare.

Guest speaker at the meeting was noted Chicago architect and builder Raymond Epstein, president of the Jewish Welfare Fund of Chicago, who reported on his recent visit to the Middle East and meeting with Israel Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Dear Dorothy: What is the best way to clean typewriter keys — both the keys on the outside and the keys inside? — Sue S.

You can wash the outside with any detergent solution or even a soap solution. For the inside, you can use cleaning fluids like mineral spirits, trichloroethane or even lighter fluid — on a cloth. However, use caution as all, with the exception of trichloroethane, are flammable. If you want to do it properly, however, there are very good liquid cleaners at most good stationery stores that not only clean the keys but the platen, too. And, don't forget to use that stiff typewriter brush every once in a while to get rid of bits of fluff.

Dear Dorothy: I've heard you mention the Aloe Vera plant often for those little burns the average housewife encounters in the kitchen but have never gotten around to getting one of them. However, thought you might be interested in knowing that the one sun lotion that has been effective for my tender skin is one that contains the Aloe Vera gel as the base. — Martine McN.

The only thing that surprises me is that it took industry so long to make use of this plant's unusual qualities. Have since found that many friends use other preparations using the gel.

Dear Dorothy: If you make French toast the night before — dip the bread in the batter — and put it in the refrigerator overnight; it will taste much better the next morning when fried in butter. — Mrs. Geo F.

Dear Dorothy: I got ball point ink on an orlon sweater. Quickly dabbed rubbing alcohol on it, blotting from both sides — and there was practically no trace of the stain. — Margaret M.

Dear Dorothy: A crayon was accidentally involved in washing and drying a tubful of dark clothes. I vaguely remember something about rubbing such stains with lard but would appreciate specific help in removing these stains. — Mrs. William Cassidy.

Pastel colored crayon stains usually come out fairly easily but colors like red and black often present problems. One reader reported success by rubbing lard (or shortening) on such spots, then washing in hot, soapy water. Another used a strong liquid detergent, rubbing it in well, then laundering. Some of the other products used which worked are rubbing alcohol, spray wall cleaner, trichloroethane (allowed to dry), then laundered. For fresh crayon stains, one reader dampened the cloth, then rubbed in that old faithful — dry baking soda. Hope one of these works for you.

Dear Dorothy: When you see the term "strip steak" in a newspaper ad or in a restaurant, is it the same type of steak in every instance? — Caroline G

It should be the same — as it is listed by authorities as the large muscle in both the porterhouse and T-bone. It is flavorful and tender and may be broiled or pan-broiled. Sometimes it's called a New York strip steak or a Kansas City steak.

Dear Dorothy: For years we were plagued with a bad odor in a living room closet. We tried everything with no success until we put a container of charcoal there. Whether this odor came from the wall or not we don't know but this remedy might be of help to the reader who does have the odor coming from the wall. Maybe it would be less noticeable to put a floral arrangement over the charcoal. — Jeanne K

Dear Dorothy: I made some apricot-pineapple jam and apparently used too much of one of the ingredients as called for in the recipe as the result is a very soft, runny jam. I used pectin. Can I re-boil it, adding more pectin? If reboiling might spoil it, I can use it as a sauce over ice cream or pancakes. — Mrs. Eleanor Santos.

Let well enough alone. Reboiling is not always successful. After all, it's not a complete loss as long as you can use it as a sauce.

Group Plans Annex Action

The Northwest Suburban Council of Associations in Prospect Heights is preparing to take action to either incorporate the community or have it annexed to a neighboring municipality. The council represents all of the homeowner organizations in Prospect Heights and a portion of unincorporated Mount Prospect.

Annexation to Des Plaines is a possibility.

The council has taken a stand opposing the current unincorporated status of the community. Council members claim that local government in Prospect Heights will eliminate problems such as undesirable rezonings, involuntary annexations and insufficient county services.

Before taking action toward annexation or incorporation, the council members plan to poll residents' opinions at general meetings held by each of the eight associations. According to Marie Caylor, council secretary, the council will probably have an indication of the community's preference by Feb. 15.

A SURVEY conducted recently by the Prospect Heights Jaycees showed 33 per cent favor annexation, 30 per cent favor incorporation and 29 per cent favor the status quo. The Jaycee survey represents approximately one third of the homes in Prospect Heights, north of Euclid avenue.

The direction taken by the council will be based on the Jaycee survey and the results of the associations' meetings, said Mrs. Caylor.

If the council decides that the majority of the community prefers annexation, its decision may affect only the "new town" area of Prospect Heights. The Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), which represents the "old town" area of the community west of Wolf Road, has already taken a stand favoring incorporation.

Prospect Heights can be annexed to any one of four contiguous municipalities, including Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

Members of the council have already met with the mayors of Mount Prospect and Des Plaines to discuss the mechanics of annexation.

THE FIRST STEP in annexation is to present a petition with the signatures of a majority of the residents involved to the desired municipality. If the village board or city council approves the annexation request, the Cook County Circuit possible set a referendum date.

If the council joins PHIA in supporting incorporation, it must set municipal boundaries for less than four square miles with a population of over 7,500. It is questionable whether it is then necessary to secure the consent of any municipality within one mile of the proposed boundaries. One portion of the state statutes requires the consent while another says it is not necessary if the population is over 7,500.

A petition with the signatures of 10 per cent of the residents involved must then be submitted to the Cook County Circuit Court. If the incorporation request is approved, the court will set a referendum date.

'Special Saturdays' To Begin

The "Special Saturday" program offered by the Golf Maine Park District will begin this Saturday. Two special children's movies will be shown, "The Boy With Glasses" and "The Golden Fish." Popcorn and candy will be distributed.

On Jan. 23 children will paint figurines from the Tailsman Art Center. Jan. 30 features a trip to the Chicago Art Institute with guided tours and sack lunch. Feb. 6 is gymnastics and games day. Feb. 13 and 20 feature ukelele institutes with folk songs, singing and dancing.

Scheduled for Feb. 27 is another children's movie, "The Red Balloon" and "Ghosts and Ghoules." On March 6, there will be another trip, this time to the Hinsdale Health Museum to see the talking glass lady and other fascinating exhibits. March 13 and 20 will be spent in a drama workshop, making costumes and skits to which parents will be invited.

All kindergarteners through fourth graders are eligible for the programs. Classes meet from 10:30 to noon and from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Trip days have longer hours. Programs are held at the Shelly Nathanson Gymnasium. Children may sign up for the entire program at a discounted rate of $14 or for individual Saturdays at $2 each. For further information regarding specific time schedule and other programs, contact the Park Office at 9390 Dee Rd., Des Plaines, or call 297-3000.

Dear Customer - January 1971

It gives me much pleasure to announce the merger of Queen's Ransom with the Lake Forest Sports Shop of Lake Forest. I will continue to manage our Barrington shop as before but we hope to have a larger, and more varied collection of clothes and separates in greater depth. There will continue to be accessories and we plan to add lingerie, robes, shoes, boots and special, carefully selected gifts. It will be the same Queen's Ransom only better.

Because of your faithful support, this "marriage" is possible. With sincere thanks, we look forward to giving you more service and a larger selection of clothes with the help of the Lake Forest Sports Shop

Sincerely,

June Hagemann
